Reds Offer New Plan; UN Calls It Possible

CraneSuspension Is Condemned by State Association

Resentment Expressed at Action Taken by AFL Group and Review Asked by Executive Board on Ouster of Crane as Vice President in New York

Following a long, hot and stormy meeting here Tuesday, New York State Fire Fighters Association convention delegates condemned its parent organization, the International Association of Fire Fighters, (AFL) for suspending from office a former New York city fireman who figured prominently in the Kefauver hearings last March.

State association delegates in a closed meeting unanimously supported John P. Crane, former president of New York's Uniformed Firemen's Association, and "expressed resentment" at the action taken by the International in suspending Crane from his office as International vice president in charge of the New York city district, a state association spokesman revealed.

The spokesman, State Vice President William J. Reid of New York, added that the delegates unanimously passed a motion demanding that the action taken by the International be reviewed by the International's executive board.

Support Criticized

The delegates also criticized the "overall lack of support given to the State Fire Fighters Association by the International," Reid reported.

Reid described as "stormy" the business session which began 10 a. m. and lasted until 3:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Governor Clinton Hotel—without a "break" for lunch or even a 10-minute recess.

Crane became headline news in March of this year when he testified during the televised Kefauver committee hearings in New York that he gave Mayor William O'Dwyer $10,000 for his mayoralty campaign, and gave O'Dwyer's friend, James Moran, gifts totaling $55,000 intending to promote legislation relating to the welfare of New York city firemen.

Crane had earlier lost his city firemen's job when he refused to waive immunity before testifying before a New York county grand

Sparkman Doubts Reports President Might Veto Bill

Senate-House Conference Starts Compromise Efforts on Conflict on Measure

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) discounted today reports President Truman might veto an economic controls bill likely to fall far short of what he asked Congress to give him.

A Senate-House conference committee starts efforts today to compromise conflicting versions of a bill already criticised by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston as giving consumers no break.

Sparkman, one of seven Senate conferees, told reporters he fears there isn't "much room to move around" in any efforts to make the measure more palatable to the President and his economic aides.

But the Alabama senator, a supporter of stiff controls, said he thinks allocation, rent control and other authority carried in the measure is too important to justify a veto merely because the price-wage sections may not be all the President desires.

"Just from my own viewpoint," he said, "I don't see why a veto would be called for. The only bad part of the bill, from my standpoint, is the price-wage section. Otherwise the bill carries essential authority without which the Defense Production Administration could not operate."

Will Be Outvoted

Sparkman and other advocates of stringent controls apparently will be outvoted among the Senate conferees. When a majority of the group sets a policy, the Senate's vote is cast for it as a unit. The seven House conferees also vote as a unit.

Administration leaders regard the House version of the bill as generally more palatable than the Senate's measure.

Although the President asked continuation of present price control authority, the Senate voted to restrict future beef price rollbacks. It also granted only limited authority to roll back non-farm prices below the Jan. 25 level. The House acted to permit the present ten per cent beef price rollback to stand and to allow future price rollbacks of farm prices so long as the ceilings set are not (a) lower than 90 per cent of May 19 levels or (b) lower than parity, the price legally declared to be fair to farmers and consumers.

Slaughtering Quotas Opposed

Both Houses voted against any slaughtering quotas, which the administration contends are needed to prevent black markets. Opponents argue that quotas encourage them.

Both Houses voted to keep present wage controls.

And both included provisions liberalizing credit terms on new and used autos, the Senate voting for 18-month payments and the House for 21 months.

Both Houses denied presidential requests for authority to build new government production plants, to change the basis for controlling farm prices and to curb commodity market speculation.

Both Houses also voted to set up a small defense plants administration, which the President didn't request.

Forms Are Distributed

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—The State Tax Commission began distributing highway permit forms today to 78,000 truck-owners who may be required to pay the new weight-distance tax on heavy vehicles. Every truck with a maximum gross loaded weight of more than 18,000 pounds must have a highway use permit and plate to operate on highways in the state beginning Oct. 1. The use permit costs $5. In addition, each big truck will be taxed on a graduated scale based on its weight and mileage.

Redmond Offers No Apologies

Office of Vice President Is Declared Vacant by Executives

A statement by John P. Redmond, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, in relation to the Crane dismissal was released Tuesday at the convention of the New York State Fire Fighters, by International Secretary-Treasurer George J. Richardson.

Richardson announced to the delegates, the Executive Committee of International had no apologies to offer in connection with the suspension of John P. Crane as vice president of the First District of the International on March 23, 1951. He further declared that at the executive committee meeting of the International executives in Washington, the executive committee declared the office of vice president of the First District vacant.

Bradley Nominated Again for Office

Washington, July 25 (AP)—General of the Army Omar N. Bradley was formally nominated by President Truman today for a new term as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, top military post in the nation. The term is for two years.

His present term ends Aug. 16.

Mr. Truman also nominated Thomas E. Whelan, a North Dakota farmer and business man, as ambassador to Nicaragua.

At the same time Mr. Truman nominated Capus Waynick, now ambassador to Nicaragua, to be ambassador to Colombia.

GOP Calls Parley on Secretary

Washington, July 25 (AP)—At a sharply split party meeting, a majority of House Republicans agreed today to support a plan aimed at striking Secretary of State Acheson off the federal payroll.

The decision to pursue the "get Acheson" drive through the medium of the State Department Appropriation Bill was taken by a standing vote of 71 to 33.

Strategy Discussed

Washington, July 25 (AP)—House Republicans called a party conference today to seek party unity on a "get-Acheson" campaign and to decide on strategy.

With a showdown vote near in the long-brewing fight over the secretary of state, GOP chieftains hoped to get party backing for an amendment to knock Acheson off the government payroll.

What they have been unable to agree on so far is the wording of an amendment to be proposed to the pending State Department Appropriation Bill. A proposal put forward by Rep. Phillips (R.-Calif.) has been discarded as too broad because it would hit not only Acheson but more than a score of other department officials.

To Draft Amendment

A subcommittee appointed by the GOP Policy Committee promised to come up with an amendment that will pinpoint the objective and make it clear that only Acheson is the target of the Republican drive.

Subcommittee members said the amendment, still to be drafted, probably would try to knock Acheson off the payroll because his former local law firm once represented Poland.

Even if the amendment is narrowed down to apply solely to Acheson, it is not expected to win solid Republican backing. Democratic leaders professed to be unafraid. They felt convinced they could beat it.

Formerly Held Invalid

Democrats point out that in the past, efforts to knock individuals off the federal payroll by withholding appropriations for salaries have been held invalid by the courts. The courts have held such actions by Congress are bills of attainder—legislative acts to deprive individuals of civil rights without judicial process. The constitution forbids bills of attainder.

Republicans believe they can get around that obstacle if they don't mention Acheson by name but merely set forth conditions for the post of secretary of state which Acheson can't meet.

If the Republicans win their fight in the House, the Senate still would have to act. The Senate once confirmed Acheson for the job of secretary, and House leaders doubt that it would accept a House-voted ban.

Voting on the Acheson amendment probably won't be reached until tomorrow.

Red Cross Asks Funds to Aid 165,300 in Midwest's Flood

Latest reports indicate 165,300 persons in eastern Kansas and central Missouri have been disrupted by the history making flood now pouring out of Kansas and swelling the Missouri river to new crests along its 200-mile course through that state, G. Wallace Codwise, chairman, Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, announced today.

A total of 179 trained national disaster workers have been dispatched into flood areas to aid thousands of chapter volunteers providing emergency care, rescue and medical needs and to prepare for the bigger task of rehabilitation.

Since the beginning the work of public authorities, agencies, and chapters in the disaster area has been outstanding. Many thousands of volunteers have worked day and night to relieve the suffering of flood victims.

American Red Cross general disaster headquarters formerly at Topeka is being moved to Kansas City, Missouri. From the beginning coordination has been excellent between the Red Cross, the Army Air Force, the Coast Guard, the Army Engineers, and other federal, state, and local agencies participating in relief work. Maximum cooperation has been extended by all these groups. From the Army, the Red Cross has borrowed 17,000 blankets, 10,000 cots, 1,000 mattresses, and 200 cases of rations with parachutes for food drops. The shelter problem was somewhat eased because many families are being housed by friends and relatives. Reports indicate that emergency needs are adequately met and there is no suffering for want of food, clothing, shelter, or medical care.

The total membership was up 2,950,987 over the previous year.

Magazine's Report

The magazine, which makes the only comprehensive, regular survey of church membership in the United States, said "the major faiths continue in about the same proportion to each other."

"Protestants are still well in the lead, with 58.5 per cent of all church members," the report said. "Roman Catholics claim 33.2 per cent of the total, while Jewish congregations account for 5.8 per cent." The remaining 2.5 per cent is split among various other groups.

These groups include such congregations as those of the Greek and Russian Orthodox Churches, the Polish National Catholics, the Armenian Apostolic Orthodox Church and the International General Assembly of Spiritualists.

Decline in Non-Members

Church membership rose to an all-time record of 55.9 per cent of the nation's population as membership in various faiths increased 3.56 per cent last year while the population grew only 1.67 per cent.

Percy Bush, of Ulster Hose Company, town of Ulster, who is now second vice-president, is expected to be elected first vice president. Reginald Lapo, of Woodstock, is now president.

Frank Costello Is Indicted On Senate Contempt Charge

Adonis, Erickson Also Cited on Same Count by Jury

New York, July 25 (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello, named by the Senate Crime Committee as the top man in the nation's underworld, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of contempt of the Senate.

Gambler Joe Adonis (Joseph Doto) and confessed bookmaker Frank Erickson were indicted on the same charge.

The indictments stemmed from their refusal to answer questions at the widely-publicized New York hearings of the crime committee, hearings last March.

Costello was indicted on nine counts, Adonis on 16, and Erickson on 74.

The maximum penalty on each count is a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol said the charges against the three men were certified to the Senate by the committee and by the Senate to him as prosecutor in the federal district where the alleged contempt occurred.

Would Issue Warrant

Saypol said a warrant would be issued for Costello's arrest.

Both Adonis and Erickson already are serving sentences for violation of gambling laws, Adonis in New Jersey and Erickson in New York.

Costello held the rapt attention of one of history's largest television audiences last March as he jousted with the efforts of Rudolph Halley, then the committee's chief counsel, to pry information from him.

The expensive-dressed, 60-year-old gambler objected that television would present him as a spectacle.

Thereafter, the cameras focused on his hands. Millions of persons watched the hands clasp and twist while listening to his raspy "voice from nowhere."

Toledo Cagers Are Involved in Fix

College Becomes Sixth Brought Into Big Sport Scandal

New York, July 25 (AP)—Three players from the University of Toledo's crack basketball team were involved in the giant college basketball scandal, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today.

Toledo thus became the sixth major college power to be brought into the mushrooming scandal—the biggest in college history.

Nineteen players from four New York schools — C.C.N.Y., Manhattan College, New York University and Long Island U.,—and six from Bradley already have been named in connection with the gigantic expose.

Bradley, the No. 1 team of the 1949-50 season, was drawn into the picture yesterday.

Hogan did not name the Toledo players but he said they had cooperated fully with his office. Hogan said that while giving or receiving a bribe to an amateur athlete in Ohio was not a crime, the players had agreed to come to New York.

Third Bradley Player

Meanwhile George Chianakas was named in a felony court complaint today as the third Bradley player who was offered a bribe to rig the points in a Madison Square Garden game with Bowling Green in the National Invitation Tournament on March 19, 1949.

The complaint, signed by detective Gerald Turner of the district attorney's squad, accused two alleged fixers of offering the bribes to Chianakas, Gene Melchiorre, Bradley's All-America, and Bill Mann, captain of last year's team.

Discussions Open

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Senate-House conferees today opened discussions aimed at permitting the government to continue to impose livestock slaughtering quotas.

Only Few Respond to Request For More Auxiliary Police

There was a disappointing turnout last evening at the Civil Defense room in the city hall when Ward B. Tongue, chief of the Auxiliary police of the Civil Defense, held a registration meeting for recruits to the auxiliary police. It is hoped there will be greater response Tuesday evening, July 31, when a second registration will be held.

While there is no immediate duty in prospect for auxiliary policemen, it was pointed out by Chief Tongue that it is imperative that a force be set up and put on a stand-by basis, so that it will be ready to function in the event of an emergency.

"When the emergency presents itself it will be too late to recruit men," Tongue said. He pointed out that members of the auxiliary police will not be called upon to do special police duty, except in an emergency caused by conflict. These officers will be organized and given limited instruction at a school to be held in September, but will not be called out to do any general police duty.

Chief Tongue said he hoped the response next Tuesday evening would be better. The hours of registration are from 7:30 until 9 p. m. at the Civil Defense room in the city hall adjoining police headquarters.

Auxiliary police officers who enroll now will be eligible for the instruction course in September.

Temperate Tone Cited By Nuckols

Official Word Is Idea Is Interesting Enough for Delegates to Take Recess for Study

Exchange Occurs

Nam and Joy Engage in Talk About Certain Portions

UN Advance Headquarters, Korea, July 25 (AP)—Communist cease-fire negotiators today advanced a new proposal on withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. A United Nations spokesman called it "reasonable in content and phraseology."

Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, who attended today's session, said the new Red proposition was "more temperate and reasonable in tone" than previous Communist demands.

Officially the UN said the new Chinese and North Korean suggestion on troop withdrawals was "sufficiently interesting" for allied delegates to propose a long overnight recess for further study.

Neither Nuckols nor the UN communique indicated exactly how the Reds had modified their demand.

Took 25 Minutes

But Nuckols said it required 25 minutes to read.

The five Communist generals brought out their new plan after a three-day recess. They had asked for the recess Saturday to consult with their governments on the troop withdrawal demand which had threatened to break up discussions.

Before presenting his revised suggestion at today's ninth meeting, Korean Gen. Nam Il asked for and received a further clarification of United Nations opposition to the original Red demand. This was done in a 53-minute morning session.

Offers New Idea

Then, in the afternoon General Nam presented the new idea.

After a recess, a rapid fire exchange followed between General Nam and Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U.N. delegation.

This clarified just what the Communists were driving at. Joy then suggested adjournment until tomorrow afternoon for full study of the new idea by the Allies.

To make sure there was no mistake, each side supplied the other with key portions of their positions in writing.

Nuckols said these were the first written exchanges between the opposing delegations in nine days of meetings.

Wednesday's session ended in an atmosphere of "now we are getting somewhere," Nuckols said.

Agenda Discussed

Negotiators still are talking about what subjects shall be listed on the agenda for discussion in the actual cease-fire talks.

There has been no agreement on any terms of an armistice.

Nuckols declined to comment when asked if the Communists' new proposal agreed with the U.N. stand that withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea was not a proper subject for cease-fire discussions.

Up to Wednesday's sessions Communist delegates had insisted that withdrawal of foreign troops was an essential part of these negotiations.

An official communique said "considerable progress" was made during the day.

Delegates met nearly two hours in their ninth day at the cease-fire city of Kaesong, then scheduled another meeting for Thursday afternoon.

The UN announcement said:

"The ninth meeting of the United Nations Command-Communist armistice negotiations today made considerable progress toward the formulation of an agenda."

It was the first time a communique had reported "considerable progress."

Sessions were devoted entirely to the troop withdrawal question which had threatened to cause a breakdown in negotiations.

The new angle to the question was introduced by North Korean General Nam Il, head of the Communist delegation.

His suggestion was explored and amplified in discussions with Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief of the UN delegation.

After this exploration the allied

The figures were reported last night in an annual survey compiled by the Christian Herald magazine.

These counts for the major faiths were listed:

Protestant membership rose 1,409,045 to a total of 50,083,868, an increase of 2.89 per cent over the previous year.

Roman Catholics increased 859,784 to a total of 28,470,092, up 3.1 per cent.

Jewish organizations, on which there were no new statistics, remained listed at 5,000,000.

Magazine's Report

The magazine, which makes the only comprehensive, regular survey of church membership in the United States, said "the major faiths continue in about the same proportion to each other."

"Protestants are still well in the lead, with 58.5 per cent of all church members," the report said. "Roman Catholics claim 33.2 per cent of the total, while Jewish congregations account for 5.8 per cent." The remaining 2.5 per cent is split among various other groups.

These groups include such congregations as those of the Greek and Russian Orthodox Churches, the Polish National Catholics, the Armenian Apostolic Orthodox Church and the International General Assembly of Spiritualists.

Decline in Non-Members

Church membership rose to an all-time record of 55.9 per cent of the nation's population as membership in various faiths increased 3.56 per cent last year while the population grew only 1.67 per cent.

Persons not belonging to any church now make up 44.1 per cent of the population. Fifty years ago, the percentage of non-members was 65.3.

The 1949 overall gain in membership was 2,426,723 and the 1948

Ulster Volunteers To Hold Its 16th Annual Sessions

Saugerties Man Is in Line for Presidency of Group — Parade Scheduled

The Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association will open its 16th annual convention at Woodstock Friday with a business session which will include the election of officers and may deal with radio equipment for volunteer companies and the firemen's role in civilian defense.

George W. Gardner, of the C. A. Lynch Hose Company, Saugerties, is in line for the presidency and his election will mean that the convention will go to Saugerties in 1952. Percy Bush, of Ulster Hose Company, town of Ulster, who is now second vice-president, is expected to be elected first vice president. Reginald Lapo, of Woodstock, is now president.

Kenneth Wilson, town of Woodstock supervisor, will be guest speaker at the business session to be held at the new Woodstock school auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday, and he will also be grand marshal of the parade which is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. Saturday.

18 Units to March

Eighteen units from all parts of the county arranged in two divisions are scheduled to march in the parade which will form near the Woodstock Playhouse near the

Frank Costello Is Indicted On Senate Contempt Charge

Adonis, Erickson Also Cited on Same Count by Jury

New York, July 25 (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello, named by the Senate Crime Committee as the top man in the nation's underworld, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of contempt of the Senate.

Gambler Joe Adonis (Joseph Doto) and confessed bookmaker Frank Erickson were indicted on the same charge.

The indictments stemmed from their refusal to answer questions at the widely-publicized New York hearings of the crime committee, hearings last March.

Costello was indicted on nine counts, Adonis on 16, and Erickson on 74.

The maximum penalty on each count is a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol said the charges against the three men were certified to the Senate by the committee and by the Senate to him as prosecutor in the federal district where the alleged contempt occurred.

Would Issue Warrant

Saypol said a warrant would be issued for Costello's arrest.

Both Adonis and Erickson already are serving sentences for violation of gambling laws, Adonis in New Jersey and Erickson in New York.

Costello held the rapt attention of one of history's largest television audiences last March as he jousted with the efforts of Rudolph Halley, then the committee's chief counsel, to pry information from him.

The expensive-dressed, 60-year-old gambler objected that television would present him as a spectacle.

Thereafter, the cameras focused on his hands. Millions of persons watched the hands clasp and twist while listening to his raspy "voice from nowhere."

Stalked From Hearing

At one stage, Costello stalked

College Becomes Sixth Brought Into Big Sport Scandal

New York, July 25 (AP)—Three players from the University of Toledo's crack basketball team were involved in the giant college basketball scandal, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today.

Toledo thus became the sixth major college power to be brought into the mushrooming scandal—the biggest in college history.

Nineteen players from four New York schools — C.C.N.Y., Manhattan College, New York University and Long Island U.,—and six from Bradley already have been named in connection with the gigantic expose.

Bradley, the No. 1 team of the 1949-50 season, was drawn into the picture yesterday.

Hogan did not name the Toledo players but he said they had cooperated fully with his office. Hogan said that while giving or receiving a bribe to an amateur athlete in Ohio was not a crime, the players had agreed to come to New York.

Third Bradley Player

Meanwhile George Chianakas was named in a felony court complaint today as the third Bradley player who was offered a bribe to rig the points in a Madison Square Garden game with Bowling Green in the National Invitation Tournament on March 19, 1949.

The complaint, signed by detective Gerald Turner of the district attorney's squad, accused two alleged fixers of offering the bribes to Chianakas, Gene Melchiorre, Bradley's All-America, and Bill Mann, captain of last year's team.

Discussions Open

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Senate-House conferees today opened discussions aimed at permitting the government to continue to impose livestock slaughtering quotas.

Only Few Respond to Request For More Auxiliary Police

There was a disappointing turnout last evening at the Civil Defense room in the city hall when Ward B. Tongue, chief of the Auxiliary police of the Civil Defense, held a registration meeting for recruits to the auxiliary police. It is hoped there will be greater response Tuesday evening, July 31, when a second registration will be held.

While there is no immediate duty in prospect for auxiliary policemen, it was pointed out by Chief Tongue that it is imperative that a force be set up and put on a stand-by basis, so that it will be ready to function in the event of an emergency.

"When the emergency presents itself it will be too late to recruit men," Tongue said. He pointed out that members of the auxiliary police will not be called upon to do special police duty, except in an emergency caused by conflict. These officers will be organized and given limited instruction at a school to be held in September, but will not be called out to do any general police duty.

Chief Tongue said he hoped the response next Tuesday evening would be better. The hours of registration are from 7:30 until 9 p. m. at the Civil Defense room in the city hall adjoining police headquarters.

Auxiliary police officers who enroll now will be eligible for the instruction course in September.

Temperate Tone Cited By Nuckols

Official Word Is Idea Is Interesting Enough for Delegates to Take Recess for Study

Exchange Occurs

Nam and Joy Engage in Talk About Certain Portions

UN Advance Headquarters, Korea, July 25 (AP)—Communist cease-fire negotiators today advanced a new proposal on withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. A United Nations spokesman called it "reasonable in content and phraseology."

Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, who attended today's session, said the new Red proposition was "more temperate and reasonable in tone" than previous Communist demands.

Officially the UN said the new Chinese and North Korean suggestion on troop withdrawals was "sufficiently interesting" for allied delegates to propose a long overnight recess for further study.

Neither Nuckols nor the UN communique indicated exactly how the Reds had modified their demand.

Took 25 Minutes

But Nuckols said it required 25 minutes to read.

The five Communist generals brought out their new plan after a three-day recess. They had asked for the recess Saturday to consult with their governments on the troop withdrawal demand which had threatened to break up discussions.

Before presenting his revised suggestion at today's ninth meeting, Korean Gen. Nam Il asked for and received a further clarification of United Nations opposition to the original Red demand. This was done in a 53-minute morning session.

Offers New Idea

Then, in the afternoon General Nam presented the new idea.

After a recess, a rapid fire exchange followed between General Nam and Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U.N. delegation.

This clarified just what the Communists were driving at. Joy then suggested adjournment until tomorrow afternoon for full study of the new idea by the Allies.

To make sure there was no mistake, each side supplied the other with key portions of their positions in writing.

Nuckols said these were the first written exchanges between the opposing delegations in nine days of meetings.

Wednesday's session ended in an atmosphere of "now we are getting somewhere," Nuckols said.

Agenda Discussed

Negotiators still are talking about what subjects shall be listed on the agenda for discussion in the actual cease-fire talks.

There has been no agreement on any terms of an armistice.

Nuckols declined to comment when asked if the Communists' new proposal agreed with the U.N. stand that withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea was not a proper subject for cease-fire discussions.

Up to Wednesday's sessions Communist delegates had insisted that withdrawal of foreign troops was an essential part of these negotiations.

An official communique said "considerable progress" was made during the day.

Delegates met nearly two hours in their ninth day at the cease-fire city of Kaesong, then scheduled another meeting for Thursday afternoon.

The UN announcement said:

"The ninth meeting of the United Nations Command-Communist armistice negotiations today made considerable progress toward the formulation of an agenda."

It was the first time a communique had reported "considerable progress."

Sessions were devoted entirely to the troop withdrawal question which had threatened to cause a breakdown in negotiations.

The new angle to the question was introduced by North Korean General Nam Il, head of the Communist delegation.

His suggestion was explored and amplified in discussions with Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief of the UN delegation.

After this exploration the allied

Plans Completed For County Fair

Final plans for the 1951 Ulster County Fair to be held in Forsyth Park, August 15 and 16, were made at a special meeting of department superintendants, directors and others interested Monday night.

C. C. DuMond, Jr., president of the Ulster County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the fair, stated that the entries made thus far and the interest shown indicate that the fair will equal or exceed any held in the past.

Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is secretary of the fair and has general supervision of activities. DuMond stated, however, that each department superintendent has assumed full responsibility for the operation of his department.

The Home Bureau handles the entries in the Homemaking Department; the 4-H Club Office, all 4-H activities and the Farm Bureau handles the entries in all of the other departments, as well as serving as the headquarters for Treasurer Pratt Boice. Mr. Kurdt handles the commercial exhibits and the coordination of the various events and activities.

DuMond said that this kind of voluntary and gratis help is the only way we are able to conduct a fair on a free admission basis. It also indicates the excellent spirit of cooperation which exists between the people of Kingston and Ulster county, he added.

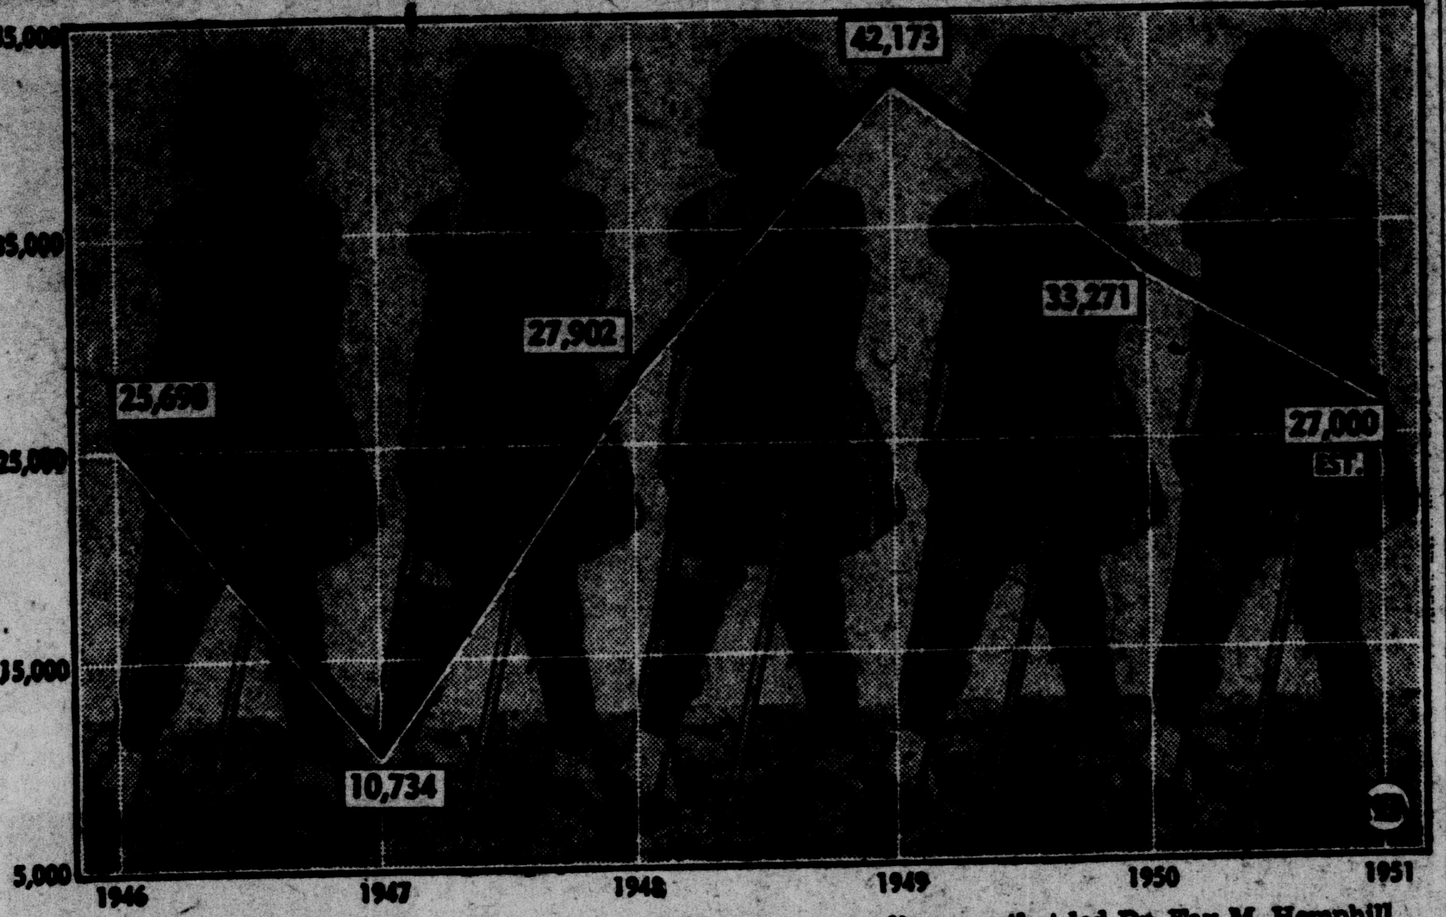
If all of the classes in the premium list are filled, exhibitors would earn over $8,000 in cash awards and Mr. DuMond issued an invitation to all area residents and guests to visit the fair on August 15 and 16.

Lightning Kills Cows

Centralia, Ill. (AP)—As Farmer Murriel Uchtman looked on helplessly, lightning wiped out his seven milk cows with a single bolt. Uchtman, out on his farm near Steeleville, Ill., reported: The cows huddled, with one poking its head through a steel fence, when the storm came. Lightning coursed along the fence and felled seven animals. An eighth, knocked down, survived.

Chicken in the Rough

Beatrice, Neb. (AP)—The engine in Nelson Walker's car seemed to have developed a peculiar sound—more like a cluck than a knock. So the Clatonia, Neb., man pulled up in front of a Beatrice produce house, lifted the hood and discovered—to his surprise—a hot but otherwise unhurt chicken. The hitch-hiking ride of the biddy ended right there. Walker sold the chicken to the produce station.



POLIO ON DECLINE—Newschart above shows decline in polio cases that led Dr. Fay M. Hemphill to predict that there will be a little more than half as many polio cases this year as there were in the peak year of 1949. Dr. Hemphill, a statistician for the University of Michigan School of Public Health, said the total this year probably wouldn't exceed 27,000 against 1949's 43,000.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It is disheartening to read daily that the Congress is becoming weak-kneed again over credit restrictions.

The Ruminator had believed, after the long-drawn-out battle over money and credit earlier in the year, that our representatives in Washington really had some sincere interest in curbing inflation and in stopping the ridiculous use of easy credit.

But apparently the various "lobbies" which represent the dealers of consumers' goods that have been hurt by tighter credit are winning out in persuading the Congress to ease up and lengthen installment terms on such products as automobiles, television sets, household appliances, and houses.

The legislation has not been passed yet—but signs multiply that "easy credit" will be with us again before long.

The remarkable thing about this shift back to inflationary tactics is that the Federal Reserve Board is sticking to its policy of tight credit. Since the Federal Reserve stuck to its guns on removing the pegs on government bonds and on favoring higher interest rates, there has been sound reason for expecting the inflationary trend to be checked. And it has been checked. But now it is anybody's guess what will happen, if the Congress interferes with the policies of the central bank and permits loose credit to stimulate public spending "on paper."

Consumer saving has been on the sharp upgrade in the past three or four months. This is just what the anti-inflation doctors would order. What is needed, as we have rehashed here time and again, is curtailment of consumer spending while the defense program is getting under momentum. If a little more time were given to the anti-inflation movement then production would have a chance to catch up before consumers' goods were in heavy demand again.

In other words, what I am trying to say is that the productive capacities of the nation are sufficient to take care of both defense and public requirements if the public were required to cut down on "paper buying" until the defense plants were in full operation.

There isn't much to demand in a free economy. Let people pay for what they want. If they cannot afford to buy something, it is better to put off the purchase than to "buy it on time" and thereby add fuel to the inflation fires.

So, we had better keep our eyes on Washington the next few days and see what the easy-money boys decide to do. We might help by writing our Congressmen but those of us who have written to them on this subject of inflation probably feel as the Ruminator does, that we get back letters agreeing with us that "inflation should be stopped" — and that about ends the matter.

Votes count more than sound economics under a New Deal, a Fair Deal, or any other political deal, and so we cannot expect Senators and Congressmen as a whole to think of much else than what gets the most votes. This may sound cynical, but it is so true that it is silly to take space to repeat it.

We live and do business in a credit-elastic economy. We might well rename our capitalistic system the "creditelastic system," as that is what it actually is. The stretching and shrinking—expansion and contraction — inflation and deflation—the give-and-take of credit rules our economy to a far greater extent than is implied in the world "capital." It is "credit"—not "capital" alone—than motivates our economy.

Thus, when the elastic monetary system—credit—is stretched too far, something breaks—just as a rubber band breaks when you stretch it too far.

The way to stop the overstretching is to make credit more difficult to get—make it cost more, and limit the "time" for repayment. Then the dangerous stretching will be released.

It is a simple solution—but just because a few sales are lost people set up a holler for relief; and because the same people cast votes, the vote-getters listen to their complaints instead of turning their ears to the more important subject of their nation's long-term welfare.

Conscientious Pickets

Omaha (AP)—A "catch-as-catch-can variety of picketing turned up in a dispute between a union and an Omaha dairy. The General Drivers and Helpers Union (AFL) dispatched pickets in automobiles to trail Alamito Dairy Co. trucks. When the trucks stopped at a store, the picket jumped from his car and began parading around the truck. The dispute involved the union's efforts to organize Alamito workers.

Plans Completed For County Fair

Final plans for the 1951 Ulster County Fair to be held in Forsyth Park, August 15 and 16, were made at a special meeting of department superintendants, directors and others interested Monday night.

C. C. DuMond, Jr., president of the Ulster County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the fair, stated that the entries made thus far and the interest shown indicate that the fair will equal or exceed any held in the past.

Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is secretary of the fair and has general supervision of activities. DuMond stated, however, that each department superintendent has assumed full responsibility for the operation of his department.

The Home Bureau handles the entries in the Homemaking Department; the 4-H Club Office, all 4-H activities and the Farm Bureau handles the entries in all of the other departments, as well as serving as the headquarters for Treasurer Pratt Boice. Mr. Kurdt handles the commercial exhibits and the coordination of the various events and activities.

DuMond said that this kind of voluntary and gratis help is the only way we are able to conduct a fair on a free admission basis. It also indicates the excellent spirit of cooperation which exists between the people of Kingston and Ulster county, he added.

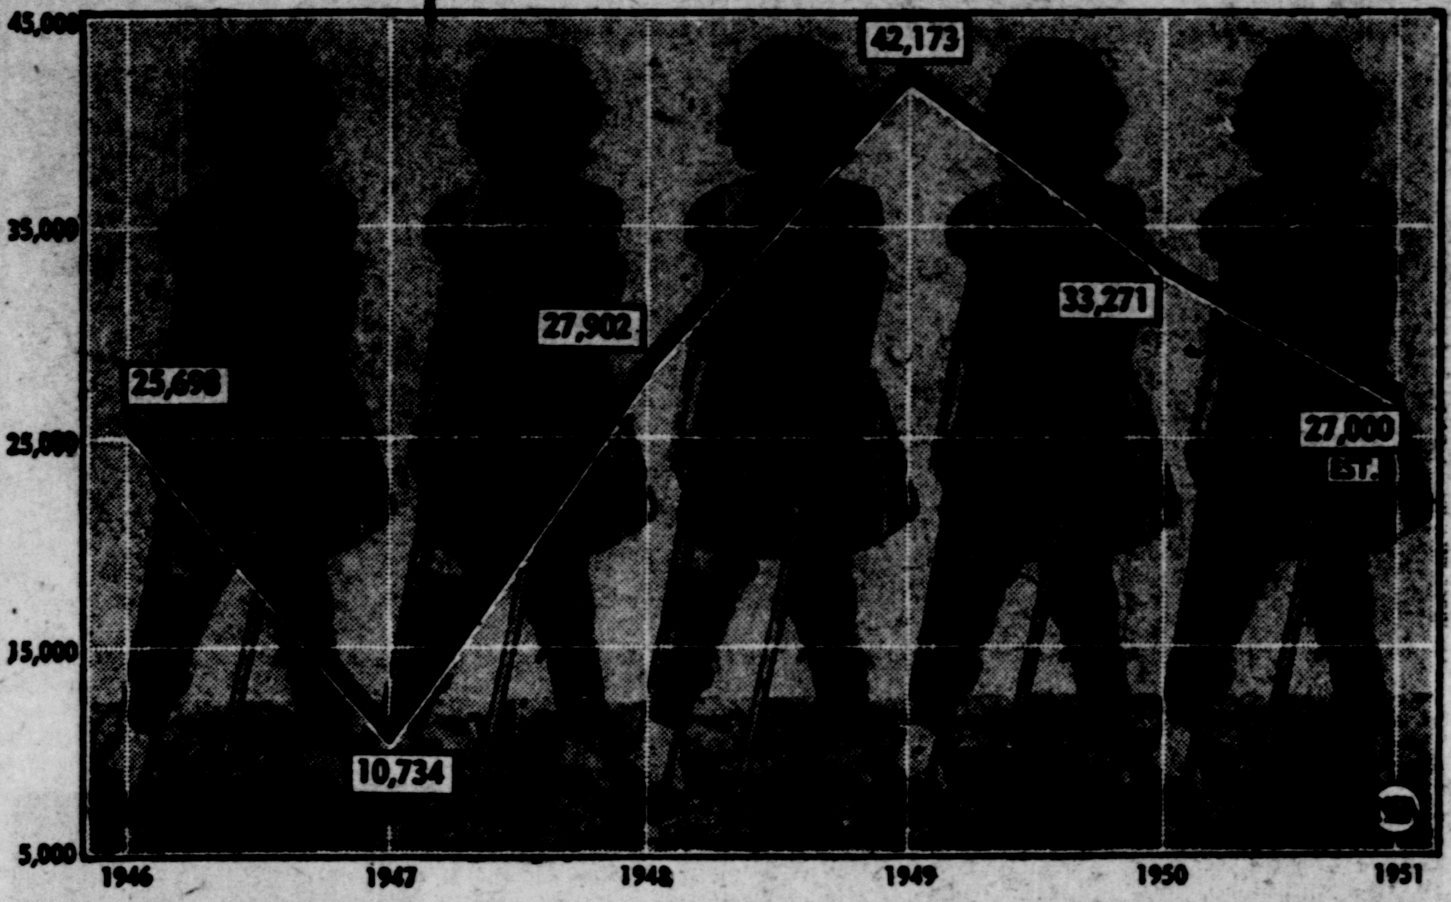
If all of the classes in the premium list are filled, exhibitors would earn over $8,000 in cash awards and Mr. DuMond issued an invitation to all area residents and guests to visit the fair on August 15 and 16.

Lightning Kills Cows

Centralia, Ill. (AP)—As Farmer Murriel Uchtman looked on helplessly, lightning wiped out his seven milk cows with a single bolt. Uchtman, out on his farm near Steeleville, Ill., reported: The cows huddled, with one poking its head through a steel fence, when the storm came. Lightning coursed along the fence and felled seven animals. An eighth, knocked down, survived.

Chicken in the Rough

Beatrice, Neb. (AP)—The engine in Nelson Walker's car seemed to have developed a peculiar sound—more like a cluck than a knock. So the Clatonia, Neb., man pulled up in front of a Beatrice produce house, lifted the hood and discovered—to his surprise—a hot but otherwise unhurt chicken. The hitch-hiking ride of the biddy ended right there. Walker sold the chicken to the produce station.



POLIO ON DECLINE—Newschart above shows decline in polio cases that led Dr. Fay M. Hemphill to predict that there will be a little more than half as many polio cases this year as there were in the peak year of 1949. Dr. Hemphill, a statistician for the University of Michigan School of Public Health, said the total this year probably wouldn't exceed 27,000 against 1949's 43,000.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It is disheartening to read daily that the Congress is becoming weak-kneed again over credit restrictions.

The Ruminator had believed, after the long-drawn-out battle over money and credit earlier in the year, that our representatives in Washington really had some sincere interest in curbing inflation and in stopping the ridiculous use of easy credit.

But apparently the various "lobbies" which represent the dealers of consumers' goods that have been hurt by tighter credit are winning out in persuading the Congress to ease up and lengthen installment terms on such products as automobiles, television sets, household appliances, and houses.

The legislation has not been passed yet—but signs multiply that "easy credit" will be with us again before long.

The remarkable thing about this shift back to inflationary tactics is that the Federal Reserve Board is sticking to its policy of tight credit. Since the Federal Reserve stuck to its guns on removing the pegs on government bonds and on favoring higher interest rates, there has been sound reason for expecting the inflationary trend to be checked. And it has been checked. But now it is anybody's guess what will happen, if the Congress interferes with the policies of the central bank and permits loose credit to stimulate public spending "on paper."

Consumer saving has been on the sharp upgrade in the past three or four months. This is just what the anti-inflation doctors would order. What is needed, as we have rehashed here time and again, is curtailment of consumer spending while the defense program is getting under momentum. If a little more time were given to the anti-inflation movement then production would have a chance to catch up before consumers' goods were in heavy demand again.

In other words, what I am trying to say is that the productive capacities of the nation are sufficient to take care of both defense and public requirements if the public were required to cut down on "paper buying" until the defense plants were in full operation.

There isn't much to demand in a free economy. Let people pay for what they want. If they cannot afford to buy something, it is better to put off the purchase than to "buy it on time" and thereby add fuel to the inflation fires.

So, we had better keep our eyes on Washington the next few days and see what the easy-money boys decide to do. We might help by writing our Congressmen but those of us who have written to them on this subject of inflation probably feel as the Ruminator does, that we get back letters agreeing with us that "inflation should be stopped" — and that about ends the matter.

Votes count more than sound economics under a New Deal, a Fair Deal, or any other political deal, and so we cannot expect Senators and Congressmen as a whole to think of much else than what gets the most votes. This may sound cynical, but it is so true that it is silly to take space to repeat it.

We live and do business in a credit-elastic economy. We might well rename our capitalistic system the "creditelastic system," as that is what it actually is. The stretching and shrinking—expansion and contraction — inflation and deflation—the give-and-take of credit rules our economy to a far greater extent than is implied in the world "capital." It is "credit"—not "capital" alone—than motivates our economy.

Thus, when the elastic monetary system—credit—is stretched too far, something breaks—just as a rubber band breaks when you stretch it too far.

The way to stop the overstretching is to make credit more difficult to get—make it cost more, and limit the "time" for repayment. Then the dangerous stretching will be released.

It is a simple solution—but just because a few sales are lost people set up a holler for relief; and because the same people cast votes, the vote-getters listen to their complaints instead of turning their ears to the more important subject of their nation's long-term welfare.

Conscientious Pickets

Omaha (AP)—A "catch-as-catch-can variety of picketing turned up in a dispute between a union and an Omaha dairy. The General Drivers and Helpers Union (AFL) dispatched pickets in automobiles to trail Alamito Dairy Co. trucks. When the trucks stopped at a store, the picket jumped from his car and began parading around the truck. The dispute involved the union's efforts to organize Alamito workers.

The YMCA was founded in London in 1844.

PURGE OF CLOWNS

The man who would make a slave of another man must control his spirit. It is not enough to imprison him for he may escape from any prison. Shooting the rebellious accomplishes little, for others take up the cause. To control him the master must control his art, his reading and his music. The master must be able to move the forces which make him laugh or cry. The Communists know this and it may well be the reason that two satellite countries have recently abolished that age-old comic institution, the circus clown.

In Czechoslovakia and Hungary the clown will cavort no more in the sawdust circle. Instead new "humorist artists" will entertain with "chastushkas," four-line verses on contemporary affairs.

Clowns are symbols of the magic and tinsel world that is the circus. They are the incarnation of the spirit of fun that has been with the human race since it began. The Kremlin cannot expect that little boys, even little boys brough up in Communist countries, will look with the same admiration on these reciters of chastushkas as they do upon the old-fashioned clowns.

People who live in these countries may begin to wonder at the Communist propaganda after a time. They are told that the circus and the clown are symbols of decadence, capitalistic tools. They have heard the same words before about books and music, painting and sculpture. Perhaps these people may begin to think that everything which is gay and light, pleasant and warm, beautiful and human is anti-Communistic. How right they would be.

A fellow wants to become well off so that he won't have to worry. But the better off he becomes the more things there seem to be to worry about.

PORTRAYER OF AMERICA

A great cartoonist was honored during the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration of the American Library Association, held in Chicago in July. He was John T. McCutcheon, a famous Chicago interpreter of the American scene in the first quarter of the century. Originally from Indiana, he and his brother George Barr McCutcheon, author of the Graustark series of romantic novels, were among the notable Hoosiers who long made Indiana a literary and cultural center of the United States.

Cartoonists counted for more in past generations than today. Thomas Nast, who invented the symbols of the Democratic donkey, the Republican elephant and the Tammany tiger, swayed public sentiment as few statesmen were able to do. His great achievement was the overthrow of New York's notorious Tweed ring. Boss Tweed said, "My constituents can't read, but they can look at pictures; and when they see me in prison stripes, they get to thinking that they belong on me."

Now there are many other ways of reaching the public judgment. Cartoons may summarize the political viewpoint of the newspapers in which they appear, but their greatest appeal is likely to be their renderings of the everyday scene. McCutcheon left few successors with his influence.

The younger generation seems to have been deprived of one of youth's great joys, for most of the funnies are hardly funny any more.

THE ONE THAT GOT AWAY

The fisherman who is being teased about the size of the fish he caught may sometimes give the traditional answer, "But you should have seen the one that got away." The man who falls back on this reply may be in for some heckling about the veracity of his fish story, but often he himself really believes that the fish that escaped was much bigger than any he had ever caught.

It is human nature to think of that which we almost had as bigger and better than that which we actually attained. So long as we do not let this foible influence our behavior or personality, it may be a harmless whim which can be indulged. But if we let our regret at a missed opportunity make us bitter and disappointed we may have our attention diverted from the blessings we already enjoy and the opportunity which may still be ours.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE NEW TARIFF LAW

Congress too often passes laws which to the layman may sound mandatory but which, upon examination, contain many provisions which are permissive. That is, the President may at his discretion enforce or ignore the acts of Congress. The Trade Agreements Extension Act, recently passed, to apply until June 12, 1953, is such a measure.

President Truman does not like the new law and said so, indicating that many of the new provisions were "cumbersome and superfluous," by which he undoubtedly means that they may serve to place limitations upon the economic internationalism of the State Department. The new provisions, mostly, have been inserted in the law to protect American industries from being destroyed by slave labor competition as well as by competition from countries which use American aid to flood our markets with goods at prices so much lower than our own that it is impossible for competing Americans to stay in business.

For this reason, the U. S. Tariff Commission is permitted to determine the "peril point" in advance of negotiations with foreign countries, so that the maximum duty cuts would not result in injury to American producers. This is an excellent provision, but unfortunately the Tariff Commission may only advise the President. He need not follow the advice. That means that the State Department, which actually does the negotiating, can ignore the Tariff Commission.

However, the President is now required, within 60 days, to report to the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee why he has chosen to ignore the commission. Of course, such reports can be filed away and forgotten unless interested parties are vigilant, their publicity articulate and their lobbying effective.

The escape clauses are better than Congress has provided in recent acts, and the provision of the 1930 tariff act, providing a customs court ruling on alleged incorrect classification of an imported commodity, is restored. This is very important because by incorrect or dubious classification it is possible to take advantage of a lower rate.

Imports from Soviet Russia and all satellite countries are to be without the benefits of trade agreement concessions. One fallacy in this provision is that it is to be imposed "as soon as practicable," which means when the State Department sees fit. No such authority needed to be delegated by Congress which could have set an effective date.

A second fallacy is a failure clearly to define what is a "Communist-controlled country." For some reason, Congress dislikes such definitions and even more, it dislikes naming countries. Would the act apply to Soviet China? For nearly three years prior to the Russell Committee investigation into the dismissal of General MacArthur, the State Department denied that that country was Communist dominated, although the leaders of Soviet China said so themselves.

Furs and skins from both Soviet Russia and Soviet China may not be imported into the United States. But what about Russian and Chinese furs imported via Leipzig? Or from some other place?

In the new tariff agreements law, a caveat is served that the law does not constitute an approval or a disapproval of G.A.T.T. This is the international conference that has long been meeting at Torquay, England, and which is now admittedly a failure. G.A.T.T. has had a long history, with several preceding conferences, the object of which always seemed to put the United States at a trading disadvantage. Agricultural, mining, labor and certain industrial groups have expressed more or less violent opposition to G.A.T.T. and the administration wisely has avoided making it a campaign issue, particularly in some of the important industrial states. It is noteworthy that Congress inserted this caveat in the act. That fact alone would indicate to some of the Europeans that G.A.T.T. could not work out any measure which could pass the Congress.

This needs to be noted: The tariff is coming back into American politics, but the line-up will be very different. For instance, some of the principal copper mining companies in the United States favor taking existing tariffs off copper, while the pottery industry wishes a heavy tariff imposed. The automobile industry does not seek tariff protection, but the textile industry does.

It will not be possible to say that big business is pro-high tariff and that the farmer is for a low tariff, because that is no longer correct. It is an industry-by-industry attitude with management and labor generally standing together, depending upon the "peril point" of that particular industry.

That Body of Yours

EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION

One of the difficult and distressing symptoms with which the physician is faced is excessive perspiration, not only of the hands and feet but often of the entire body. The majority of these cases are nervous, high-strung individuals. Telling them to keep calm and not worry may help many, but there are many more who find it difficult to keep calm whether or not the cause of the emotional disturbance is important.

Most cases of stomach and intestinal ulcer (peptic ulcer) are found among nervous and emotional individuals. In a survey of ulcer patients, a considerable percentage reported that since they had begun the use of banthine in treatment of ulcer, they found that hands and feet did not perspire so much, in fact there was a dryness of the skin over the entire body.

Because there are a considerable number of cases of excessive perspiration not suffering with peptic ulcer and not receiving banthine treatment, it may be well to repeat the information regarding use of banthine, as reported by Drs. K. S. Grimson, C. K. Lyons, W. I. Watkins and J. L. Callaway in The Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Banthine (Searle) has been used in the Department of Surgery of Duke University School of Medicine in peptic ulcers and other stomach and intestinal disorders. In the course of the treatment of 144 such cases, several commented on the dryness of their hands and the Department of Dermatology (skin diseases) was thus prompted to treat excessive perspiration (hyperdrosis) with banthine as the usual methods were not satisfactory."

Four women between the ages of 27 and 30 were treated for excessive sweating of hands, feet and armpits with satisfactory results. The dose was from 50 to 75 mgm. every 4 hours; occasionally, under special stresses, 100 mgm. was given and the patient soon learned to regulate the dosage according to necessity. The only side effects were dilatation of the pupil, dryness of mouth and tendency to constipation. Banthine is now routine treatment of hyperdrosis.

Banthine is taken by mouth in small tablets; it prevents excessive perspiration.

I am repeating the above information because there appears to be an increased need for such a drug in these days of tenseness and anxiety.

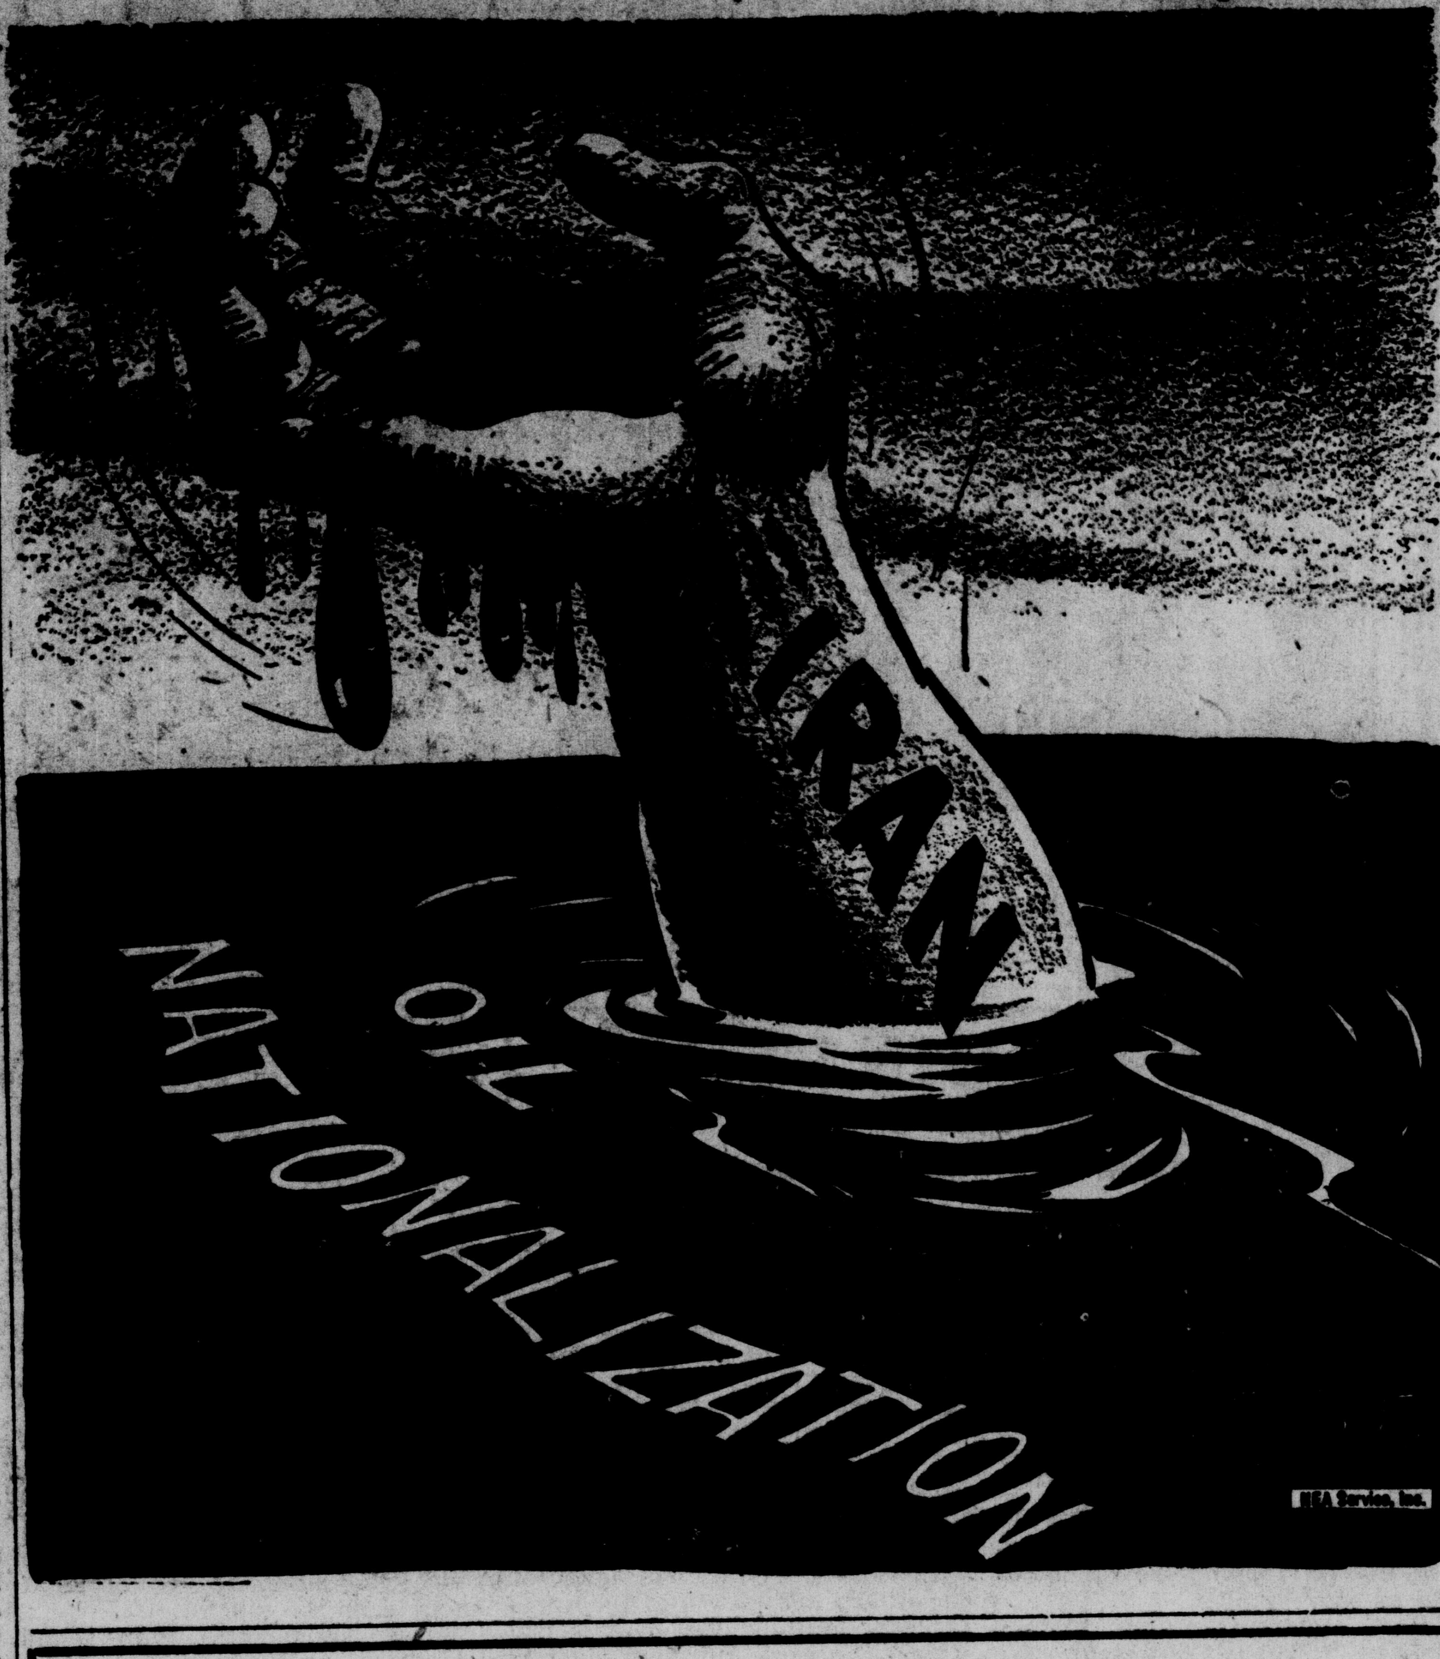
Can't Take It With You



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — For about two days last week, President Truman was on the verge of losing his defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson, who, whether you like him or not, has done a masterful job of speeding up production.

The crisis over Wilson came about as a result of the Kansas-Missouri flood, and an amazing boner pulled by the White House.

What happened was that Wilson had urged the President to survey the flood area; then, on the insistence of Mr. Truman, Wilson also went along. The defense mobilizer argued that he was busy in Washington with 101 different things, but finally acceded to the President's wishes.

On the trip, the President made several statements to Kansas and Missouri crowds that he was giving his chief mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson, the man who knew more about production than anyone else in the U. S. A., the job of getting the flood areas back on their feet. And on the plane en route to Washington, the President also emphasized to Wilson that he was to be entrusted with this important extra work.

One thing that impressed both Wilson and the President on the trip was the effect of the flood on national defense. For instance, the new channel which the flood cut through the Kansas City freight yards caught 8,000 boxcars, 5,000 of them loaded. Likewise, Kansas City's cattle pens, where a large segment of the nation's cattle go to market, had been washed away. So the President, talking to Wilson on the plane, told him to shoot the works.

Truman Goes to Bed

Then, being a little tired from the long day and having enjoyed Kansas City's traditional liquid hospitality—due no doubt to the water shortage — the President went forward in the plane and went to bed.

Wilson, however, sat up until 1:30, when the plane landed, going over flood rehabilitation plans with his chief assistant, Alfred Howes, whose home is in Wichita, Kansas, and who is thoroughly familiar with that area.

Next morning, following out his presidential instruction, Wilson called a meeting of all cooperating mobilization agencies. He called it for 9 a. m., despite the fact that he hadn't landed until 1:30 and had to scramble for a car at the airport, while Gen. Lewis Pick and the top brass went off in limousines.

At the 9 a. m. meeting, Wilson explained the seriousness of the flood problem, said that the President had placed him in charge and started a three-hour survey of what the federal government could do. One by one he went round the table, assigning each man a part of the job, discussing priorities for lumber, steel, railroad cars, how sufficient tractors, combines, and farm machinery could replace those lost in the flood without disturbing the defense effort. Wilson even went into the fact that farm machinery must be produced not piecemeal, but on an assembly-line basis, in order to save time and effort.

One Absentee

However, there was one empty seat at the long table of about 30 government officials. This was the chair of Raymond Foley, in charge of defense housing.

About noon, Mr. Foley came in, his hair slightly awry, obviously rushed.

"Excuse my lateness," he explained, "but I was called to the White House and detained there."

"That's all right," said Wilson, "we'll call on you next."

Then Foley, not knowing what the meeting had been discussing, proceeded to announce that the President had called him in to give him the job of rehabilitating the flood-stricken areas.

Complete silence fell on the room. Wilson turned white, looked down at his papers, pretended to shuffle them.

Still not sensing what had happened, Foley proceeded to outline his own plans for the flooded areas and to say that he would call on this man and that for help.

The silence continued. Wilson did not say a word. Finally, as Foley concluded, he announced: "The meeting is adjourned."

Wilson still did not challenge Foley, even after the meeting broke up, but his assistant, Howes, did. He pulled Foley aside, told him what had happened. Foley looked just as surprised as Wilson.

He had been away on a two-week vacation, was suddenly called to the White House and placed in charge of flood rehabilitation. That was all he knew. Apparently the President had forgotten his conversation with Wilson the night before. He only remembered that a month before he had put Foley in charge of disaster relief.

While Foley and Howes were talking, Director of the Budget Frederick Lawton telephoned. He had been at the meeting, was flabbergasted at what had happened, and wanted to see Wilson to straighten things out.

At first Wilson, furious, wouldn't see him. For two days he refused —two days during which Lawton and Howes finally straightened things out. They drafted a letter which the President signed, directing Wilson to take over all flood problems on a national scale and asking him to work with Foley on matters pertaining to the local and municipal level.

Foley, incidentally, went out of his way to cooperate, and, in the end, so did Wilson.

The story is stranger than fiction. But Washington is a strange place, and in this case, like fiction, things have now been patched up and subordinates are working together on flood rehabilitation.

Q—What pigment makes plants green?

A—The green color of plants is due to the presence of chlorophyll. Chlorophyll, however, is more than just a pigment as it is the substance which gives plants the ability to unite carbon dioxide and water, and thus produce sugar and starch.

Subcommittee Report Discloses Fundamental Principle on Extent of Government Loans

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 25 — Every now and then a committee of Congress sets forth in detail a major problem but doesn't come up with the answer as to how to solve it.

Something very fundamental, for example, is imbedded in the 10,000-word report just issued by a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency analyzing the various loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Kaiser-Frazer automobile companies.

The principle involved touches on the extent to which government funds shall be loaned to promote competition—or rather to prevent monopoly conditions. It touches also on the question of how far the "public interest" is served by lending federal funds to prevent a company which is in need of more capital from going to the wall and causing loss to private investors and unemployment to many thousands of employes. It raises, too, the question of whether the government—which now lends money on mortgages for individuals to build houses, supplying sometimes up to 90 per cent of the money, with a 10 per cent investment or down payment—should enter into a virtual partnership with private business by furnishing capital. As it turns out, in this case the government furnished 74 millions of the money and private interests about 54 millions—that is, the government furnished 58 per cent and private investors 42 per cent.

The subcommittee, which was headed by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Democrat, recites that, at the time the application was made for the RFC loan, the Kaiser-Frazer Company employed about 11,000 persons directly, and 30,000 were employed by dealers and distributors, and another 47,000 were employed by direct and indirect suppliers. In addition, there were 40,000 stockholders who would have been adversely affected if the loan had been turned down. Likewise, dealers and distributors had, under their franchises, made investments of $200,000,000.

The committee report, after taking into consideration all these facts, says:

"Notwithstanding these things, the subcommittee believes that the RFC should not have made the original loan. It does not believe that the interest of the general public was such as to justify the use of public funds to continue operation of Kaiser-Frazer as an automobile company.

"The subcommittee does not question the Kaiser-Frazer loans from the standpoint of their repayment, though repayment may ultimately be made from the proceeds of defense contracts and other operations not contemplated by either the borrower or the RFC when the first loan was made. It is impressive that the other RFC loans to Kaiser-managed companies have been repaid and that these enterprises have refinanced themselves by obtaining capital from private sources."

This is tantamount to saying that, while the first loan should not have been made, the series of loans that subsequently were made were a logical consequence of RFC participation in the first instance and that, as private bankers often do, the RFC decided to string along with the borrower. It also points up the fact that borrowers are frequently resourceful and that, when they are in debt, they manage by means of new enterprises or new devices to work themselves out of tight situations.

The Kaiser-Frazer people today owe the government $74,000,000, and they have put up as security their plant properties appraised in 1950 at $105,000,000 "on a going concern basis." This appraisal value is given in the committee report.

Rather casually the subcommittee also mentions a somewhat subtle reference in a letter from the Kaiser-Frazer Company in September 1949 to the RFC, which reads as follows:

"It is not our desire, in any sense, to state by inference or otherwise, whether or not a monopoly exists in the automobile business. Yet, it is common knowledge that three concerns dominate the industry.

"We believe we can make a valuable contribution to the entire country and to its future if we demonstrate that a new firm can successfully enter this competitive field, . . . a failure of Kaiser-Frazer would certainly be a warning to those considering entering competitive fields that the opportunity is seriously limited."

The underdog in the competitive arena often cries out that the key to success is adequate working capital and that such huge sums are needed for entrance into the larger industries that only the government can supply the money, but bankers oppose such a line of reasoning, insisting that a sound enterprise can get equity capital. They point to the rise of existing companies that have obtained their capital not from the government but by a steady expansion and growth which earned investor confidence. This principle will be debated, on the other hand, as applicable largely to the days before the high taxes on corporations came and when companies could plow back virtually all their earnings instead of paying out 70 per cent to the government. Maybe the answer—or at least a part of it —lies in a better system of taxation.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 24—The Communist papers reject my proposal that persons not known to be members of their party deserve the death penalty for flagrant complicity in their conspiracy to destroy the United States and deliver this country into the power of Soviet Russia.

This would include a number of the most pernicious and conspicuous traitors of the Roosevelt reign. Some of them, of course, were members of the late Mahatma's domestic and executive households. I apprehend that some loyal Americans who never were Communists nor even New Dealer will disagree, but for emotional rather than logical reasons.

We are so highly domesticated that we shrink from the infliction of death as punishment for the two capital crimes now standing on our books, first degree murder and forcible rape. I personally share this squeamishness which, in most of our states, implies a want of courage.

In my budding career as a journalist I have never yet been called upon to cover the grisly rites of an official killing and my reading of many moving descriptions done by colleagues always has left me wondering how they could write so well if drunk as our lore would have had them.

I will not say that I couldn't take it but I am glad that I never had it put to me to take it or do it. On one occasion I did decline, but that was a mere social invitation from the host in charge, not an order from the desk, and so, of course, the default doesn't count in the record.

As to the executions of the Rosenbergs, the traitors, wife and husband, who were condemned to the chair at Sing Sing prison for treason against the United States, I have no such delicacy. The crime has been palliated by editors, columnists, politicians and mischievous ideologians-at-large who knew such conduct as hideous and vile beyond the power of our culture to imagine and had personal acquaintance with individuals who, in justice, deserved to be put to death.

The nature of treason and its implications need not be labored even though some of the apologists have persuaded themselves that all's well that ends well. The criminal clients of their generous concern didn't quite accomplish their whole purpose in consorting and conspiring with braver and more fortright enemies of the American people. They were not really determined traitors but confused idealists. Therefore, they should get no worse than treason, third degree, and probation.

There are conspicuous rogues now engaged in howling down Stalin, for profit, in print and on the air, who spread his propaganda both ways during the worst years.

They plugged his spokesmen as liberal leaders, suppressed information of treasonous conspiracies and hounded loyal Americans with vile abuse and suppressed their writings and throttled their voices.

John T. Flynn, was one of these victims, and Robert Stripling, the genius who actually broke the Alger Hiss case, was another.

The apologists for the "confused liberals" of this awful plot seem not to know how contemptible they make themselves in mewling that poverty and lack of opportunity make Communists and, in the next breath, defending a class of vermin who went to Harvard, never missed a meal and learned their treachery in soirees at the White House or amid the Long Island rich trash.

Without credible exception, they knew that communism was a criminal conspiracy against their country which, to be successful, would have to be fatal to the Constitution and the liberties of all of us.

Many of them are lawyers learned in the precise meanings and the extensive implications of conspiracy. None of them had the excuse of persecution or denial, for even the Negroes among them are voluptuous rakes living on large incomes or the bounty of degenerate rich patrons. Most of them here took up this evil thing as an excuse for licentious living, knowing what communism meant and what a price the American people would pay for their sensuality.

This is the class of rascals whom the rest of us are now asked to forgive on the plea that they didn't know but without any show of contrition or promise of reparation. To hell with them, from the master cell in the White House to the sorriest hack on those glossy New York weeklies which are always cleaning house but never quite get their delousing done.

These people were as guilty as the members of the party whose dirty work they were glad to do. If it is a capital crime to join a conspiracy against the United States, it is no less a crime to give these criminals aid, comfort, prestige and political concealment and to do criminal works in furtherance of their conspiracy.

I understand and regret that the law, as presently interpreted, does not give promise of appropriate action, but, by fair extension and interpretation, these non-member accomplices deserve the maximum.

PURGE OF CLOWNS

The man who would make a slave of another man must control his spirit. It is not enough to imprison him for he may escape from any prison. Shooting the rebellious accomplishes little, for others take up the cause. To control him the master must control his art, his reading and his music. The master must be able to move the forces which make him laugh or cry. The Communists know this and it may well be the reason that two satellite countries have recently abolished that age-old comic institution, the circus clown.

In Czechoslovakia and Hungary the clown will cavort no more in the sawdust circle. Instead new "humorist artists" will entertain with "chastushkas," four-line verses on contemporary affairs.

Clowns are symbols of the magic and tinsel world that is the circus. They are the incarnation of the spirit of fun that has been with the human race since it began. The Kremlin cannot expect that little boys, even little boys brough up in Communist countries, will look with the same admiration on these reciters of chastushkas as they do upon the old-fashioned clowns.

People who live in these countries may begin to wonder at the Communist propaganda after a time. They are told that the circus and the clown are symbols of decadence, capitalistic tools. They have heard the same words before about books and music, painting and sculpture. Perhaps these people may begin to think that everything which is gay and light, pleasant and warm, beautiful and human is anti-Communistic. How right they would be.

A fellow wants to become well off so that he won't have to worry. But the better off he becomes the more things there seem to be to worry about.

PORTRAYER OF AMERICA

A great cartoonist was honored during the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration of the American Library Association, held in Chicago in July. He was John T. McCutcheon, a famous Chicago interpreter of the American scene in the first quarter of the century. Originally from Indiana, he and his brother George Barr McCutcheon, author of the Graustark series of romantic novels, were among the notable Hoosiers who long made Indiana a literary and cultural center of the United States.

Cartoonists counted for more in past generations than today. Thomas Nast, who invented the symbols of the Democratic donkey, the Republican elephant and the Tammany tiger, swayed public sentiment as few statesmen were able to do. His great achievement was the overthrow of New York's notorious Tweed ring. Boss Tweed said, "My constituents can't read, but they can look at pictures; and when they see me in prison stripes, they get to thinking that they belong on me."

Now there are many other ways of reaching the public judgment. Cartoons may summarize the political viewpoint of the newspapers in which they appear, but their greatest appeal is likely to be their renderings of the everyday scene. McCutcheon left few successors with his influence.

The younger generation seems to have been deprived of one of youth's great joys, for most of the funnies are hardly funny any more.

THE ONE THAT GOT AWAY

The fisherman who is being teased about the size of the fish he caught may sometimes give the traditional answer, "But you should have seen the one that got away." The man who falls back on this reply may be in for some heckling about the veracity of his fish story, but often he himself really believes that the fish that escaped was much bigger than any he had ever caught.

It is human nature to think of that which we almost had as bigger and better than that which we actually attained. So long as we do not let this foible influence our behavior or personality, it may be a harmless whim which can be indulged. But if we let our regret at a missed opportunity make us bitter and disappointed we may have our attention diverted from the blessings we already enjoy and the opportunity which may still be ours.

THE NEW TARIFF LAW

Congress too often passes laws which to the layman may sound mandatory but which, upon examination, contain many provisions which are permissive. That is, the President may at his discretion enforce or ignore the acts of Congress. The Trade Agreements Extension Act, recently passed, to apply until June 12, 1953, is such a measure.

President Truman does not like the new law and said so, indicating that many of the new provisions were "cumbersome and superfluous," by which he undoubtedly means that they may serve to place limitations upon the economic internationalism of the State Department. The new provisions, mostly, have been inserted in the law to protect American industries from being destroyed by slave labor competition as well as by competition from countries which use American aid to flood our markets with goods at prices so much lower than our own that it is impossible for competing Americans to stay in business.

For this reason, the U. S. Tariff Commission is permitted to determine the "peril point" in advance of negotiations with foreign countries, so that the maximum duty cuts would not result in injury to American producers. This is an excellent provision, but unfortunately the Tariff Commission may only advise the President. He need not follow the advice. That means that the State Department, which actually does the negotiating, can ignore the Tariff Commission.

However, the President is now required, within 60 days, to report to the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee why he has chosen to ignore the commission. Of course, such reports can be filed away and forgotten unless interested parties are vigilant, their publicity articulate and their lobbying effective.

The escape clauses are better than Congress has provided in recent acts, and the provision of the 1930 tariff act, providing a customs court ruling on alleged incorrect classification of an imported commodity, is restored. This is very important because by incorrect or dubious classification it is possible to take advantage of a lower rate.

Imports from Soviet Russia and all satellite countries are to be without the benefits of trade agreement concessions. One fallacy in this provision is that it is to be imposed "as soon as practicable," which means when the State Department sees fit. No such authority needed to be delegated by Congress which could have set an effective date.

A second fallacy is a failure clearly to define what is a "Communist-controlled country." For some reason, Congress dislikes such definitions and even more, it dislikes naming countries. Would the act apply to Soviet China? For nearly three years prior to the Russell Committee investigation into the dismissal of General MacArthur, the State Department denied that that country was Communist dominated, although the leaders of Soviet China said so themselves.

Furs and skins from both Soviet Russia and Soviet China may not be imported into the United States. But what about Russian and Chinese furs imported via Leipzig? Or from some other place?

In the new tariff agreements law, a caveat is served that the law does not constitute an approval or a disapproval of G.A.T.T. This is the international conference that has long been meeting at Torquay, England, and which is now admittedly a failure. G.A.T.T. has had a long history, with several preceding conferences, the object of which always seemed to put the United States at a trading disadvantage. Agricultural, mining, labor and certain industrial groups have expressed more or less violent opposition to G.A.T.T. and the administration wisely has avoided making it a campaign issue, particularly in some of the important industrial states. It is noteworthy that Congress inserted this caveat in the act. That fact alone would indicate to some of the Europeans that G.A.T.T. could not work out any measure which could pass the Congress.

This needs to be noted: The tariff is coming back into American politics, but the line-up will be very different. For instance, some of the principal copper mining companies in the United States favor taking existing tariffs off copper, while the pottery industry wishes a heavy tariff imposed. The automobile industry does not seek tariff protection, but the textile industry does.

It will not be possible to say that big business is pro-high tariff and that the farmer is for a low tariff, because that is no longer correct. It is an industry-by-industry attitude with management and labor generally standing together, depending upon the "peril point" of that particular industry.

That Body of Yours

EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION

One of the difficult and distressing symptoms with which the physician is faced is excessive perspiration, not only of the hands and feet but often of the entire body. The majority of these cases are nervous, high-strung individuals. Telling them to keep calm and not worry may help many, but there are many more who find it difficult to keep calm whether or not the cause of the emotional disturbance is important.

Most cases of stomach and intestinal ulcer (peptic ulcer) are found among nervous and emotional individuals. In a survey of ulcer patients, a considerable percentage reported that since they had begun the use of banthine in treatment of ulcer, they found that hands and feet did not perspire so much, in fact there was a dryness of the skin over the entire body.

Because there are a considerable number of cases of excessive perspiration not suffering with peptic ulcer and not receiving banthine treatment, it may be well to repeat the information regarding use of banthine, as reported by Drs. K. S. Grimson, C. K. Lyons, W. I. Watkins and J. L. Callaway in The Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Banthine (Searle) has been used in the Department of Surgery of Duke University School of Medicine in peptic ulcers and other stomach and intestinal disorders. In the course of the treatment of 144 such cases, several commented on the dryness of their hands and the Department of Dermatology (skin diseases) was thus prompted to treat excessive perspiration (hyperdrosis) with banthine as the usual methods were not satisfactory."

Four women between the ages of 27 and 30 were treated for excessive sweating of hands, feet and armpits with satisfactory results. The dose was from 50 to 75 mgm. every 4 hours; occasionally, under special stresses, 100 mgm. was given and the patient soon learned to regulate the dosage according to necessity. The only side effects were dilatation of the pupil, dryness of mouth and tendency to constipation. Banthine is now routine treatment of hyperdrosis.

Banthine is taken by mouth in small tablets; it prevents excessive perspiration.

I am repeating the above information because there appears to be an increased need for such a drug in these days of tenseness and anxiety.

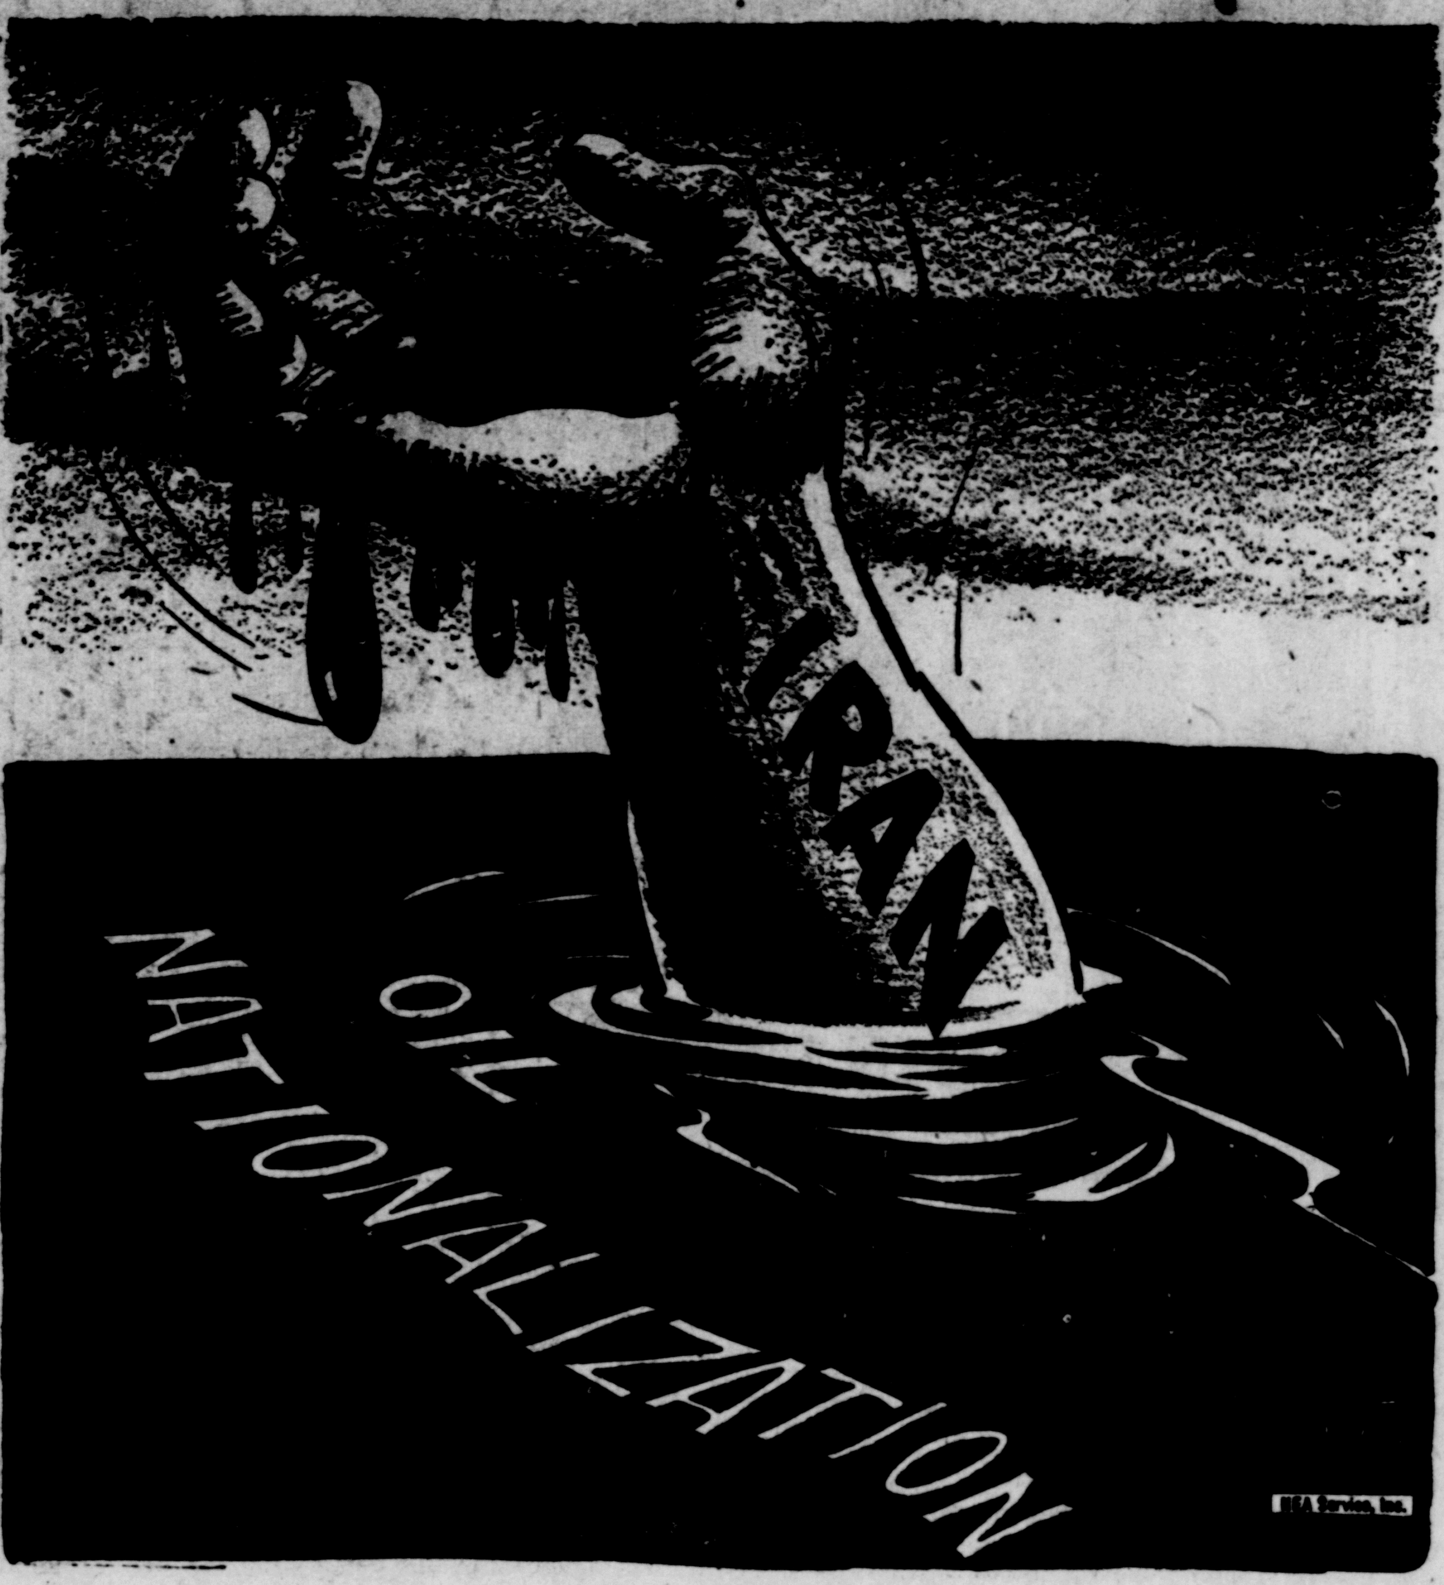
Can't Take It With You



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — For about two days last week, President Truman was on the verge of losing his defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson, who, whether you like him or not, has done a masterful job of speeding up production.

The crisis over Wilson came about as a result of the Kansas-Missouri flood, and an amazing boner pulled by the White House.

What happened was that Wilson had urged the President to survey the flood area; then, on the insistence of Mr. Truman, Wilson also went along. The defense mobilizer argued that he was busy in Washington with 101 different things, but finally acceded to the President's wishes.

On the trip, the President made several statements to Kansas and Missouri crowds that he was giving his chief mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson, the man who knew more about production than anyone else in the U. S. A., the job of getting the flood areas back on their feet. And on the plane en route to Washington, the President also emphasized to Wilson that he was to be entrusted with this important extra work.

One thing that impressed both Wilson and the President on the trip was the effect of the flood on national defense. For instance, the new channel which the flood cut through the Kansas City freight yards caught 8,000 boxcars, 5,000 of them loaded. Likewise, Kansas City's cattle pens, where a large segment of the nation's cattle go to market, had been washed away. So the President, talking to Wilson on the plane, told him to shoot the works.

Truman Goes to Bed

Then, being a little tired from the long day and having enjoyed Kansas City's traditional liquid hospitality—due no doubt to the water shortage — the President went forward in the plane and went to bed.

Wilson, however, sat up until 1:30, when the plane landed, going over flood rehabilitation plans with his chief assistant, Alfred Howes, whose home is in Wichita, Kansas, and who is thoroughly familiar with that area.

Next morning, following out his presidential instruction, Wilson called a meeting of all cooperating mobilization agencies. He called it for 9 a. m., despite the fact that he hadn't landed until 1:30 and had to scramble for a car at the airport, while Gen. Lewis Pick and the top brass went off in limousines.

At the 9 a. m. meeting, Wilson explained the seriousness of the flood problem, said that the President had placed him in charge and started a three-hour survey of what the federal government could do. One by one he went round the table, assigning each man a part of the job, discussing priorities for lumber, steel, railroad cars, how sufficient tractors, combines, and farm machinery could replace those lost in the flood without disturbing the defense effort. Wilson even went into the fact that farm machinery must be produced not piecemeal, but on an assembly-line basis, in order to save time and effort.

One Absentee

However, there was one empty seat at the long table of about 30 government officials. This was the chair of Raymond Foley, in charge of defense housing.

About noon, Mr. Foley came in, his hair slightly awry, obviously rushed.

"Excuse my lateness," he explained, "but I was called to the White House and detained there."

"That's all right," said Wilson, "we'll call on you next."

Then Foley, not knowing what the meeting had been discussing, proceeded to announce that the President had called him in to give him the job of rehabilitating the flood-stricken areas.

Complete silence fell on the room. Wilson turned white, looked down at his papers, pretended to shuffle them.

Still not sensing what had happened, Foley proceeded to outline his own plans for the flooded areas and to say that he would call on this man and that for help.

The silence continued. Wilson did not say a word. Finally, as Foley concluded, he announced: "The meeting is adjourned."

Wilson still did not challenge Foley, even after the meeting broke up, but his assistant, Howes, did. He pulled Foley aside, told him what had happened. Foley looked just as surprised as Wilson.

He had been away on a two-week vacation, was suddenly called to the White House and placed in charge of flood rehabilitation. That was all he knew. Apparently the President had forgotten his conversation with Wilson the night before. He only remembered that a month before he had put Foley in charge of disaster relief.

While Foley and Howes were talking, Director of the Budget Frederick Lawton telephoned. He had been at the meeting, was flabbergasted at what had happened, and wanted to see Wilson to straighten things out.

At first Wilson, furious, wouldn't see him. For two days he refused—two days during which Lawton and Howes finally straightened things out. They drafted a letter which the President signed, directing Wilson to take over all flood problems on a national scale and asking him to work with Foley on matters pertaining to the local and municipal level.

Foley, incidentally, went out of his way to cooperate, and, in the end, so did Wilson.

The story is stranger than fiction. But Washington is a strange place, and in this case, like fiction, things have now been patched up and subordinates are working together on flood rehabilitation.

Subcommittee Report Discloses Fundamental Principle on Extent of Government Loans

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 25 — Every now and then a committee of Congress sets forth in detail a major problem but doesn't come up with the answer as to how to solve it.

Something very fundamental, for example, is imbedded in the 10,000-word report just issued by a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency analyzing the various loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Kaiser-Frazer automobile companies.

The principle involved touches on the extent to which government funds shall be loaned to promote competition—or rather to prevent monopoly conditions. It touches also on the question of how far the "public interest" is served by lending federal funds to prevent a company which is in need of more capital from going to the wall and causing loss to private investors and unemployment to many thousands of employes. It raises, too, the question of whether the government—which now lends money on mortgages for individuals to build houses, supplying sometimes up to 90 per cent of the money, with a 10 per cent investment or down payment—should enter into a virtual partnership with private business by furnishing capital. As it turns out, in this case the government furnished 74 millions of the money and private interests about 54 millions—that is, the government furnished 58 per cent and private investors 42 per cent.

The subcommittee, which was headed by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Democrat, recites that, at the time the application was made for the RFC loan, the Kaiser-Frazer Company employed about 11,000 persons directly, and 30,000 were employed by dealers and distributors, and another 47,000 were employed by direct and indirect suppliers. In addition, there were 40,000 stockholders who would have been adversely affected if the loan had been turned down. Likewise, dealers and distributors had, under their franchises, made investments of $200,000,000.

The committee report, after taking into consideration all these facts, says:

"Notwithstanding these things, the subcommittee believes that the RFC should not have made the original loan. It does not believe that the interest of the general public was such as to justify the use of public funds to continue operation of Kaiser-Frazer as an automobile company.

"The subcommittee does not question the Kaiser-Frazer loans from the standpoint of their repayment, though repayment may ultimately be made from the proceeds of defense contracts and other operations not contemplated by either the borrower or the RFC when the first loan was made. It is impressive that the other RFC loans to Kaiser-managed companies have been repaid and that these enterprises have refinanced themselves by obtaining capital from private sources."

This is tantamount to saying that, while the first loan should not have been made, the series of loans that subsequently were made were a logical consequence of RFC participation in the first instance and that, as private bankers often do, the RFC decided to string along with the borrower. It also points up the fact that borrowers are frequently resourceful and that, when they are in debt, they manage by means of new enterprises or new devices to work themselves out of tight situations.

The Kaiser-Frazer people today owe the government $74,000,000, and they have put up as security their plant properties appraised in 1950 at $105,000,000 "on a going concern basis." This appraisal value is given in the committee report.

Rather casually the subcommittee also mentions a somewhat subtle reference in a letter from the Kaiser-Frazer Company in September 1949 to the RFC, which reads as follows:

"It is not our desire, in any sense, to state by inference or otherwise, whether or not a monopoly exists in the automobile business. Yet, it is common knowledge that three concerns dominate the industry.

"We believe we can make a valuable contribution to the entire country and to its future if we demonstrate that a new firm can successfully enter this competitive field. . . . a failure of Kaiser-Frazer would certainly be a warning to those considering entering competitive fields that the opportunity is seriously limited."

The underdog in the competitive arena often cries out that the key to success is adequate working capital and that such huge sums are needed for entrance into the larger industries that only the government can supply the money, but bankers oppose such a line of reasoning, insisting that a sound enterprise can get equity capital. They point to the rise of existing companies that have obtained their capital not from the government but by a steady expansion and growth which earned investor confidence. This principle will be debated, on the other hand, as applicable largely to the days before the high taxes on corporations came and when companies could plow back virtually all their earnings instead of paying out 70 per cent to the government. Maybe the answer—or at least a part of it—lies in a better system of taxation.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 24—The Communist papers reject my proposal that persons not known to be members of their party deserve the death penalty for flagrant complicity in their conspiracy to destroy the United States and deliver this country into the power of Soviet Russia.

This would include a number of the most pernicious and conspicuous traitors of the Roosevelt reign. Some of them, of course, were members of the late Mahatma's domestic and executive households. I apprehend that some loyal Americans who never were Communists nor even New Dealer will disagree, but for emotional rather than logical reasons.

We are so highly domesticated that we shrink from the infliction of death as punishment for the two capital crimes now standing on our books, first degree murder and forcible rape. I personally share this squeamishness which, in most of our states, implies a want of courage.

In my budding career as a journalist I have never yet been called upon to cover the grisly rites of an official killing and my reading of many moving descriptions done by colleagues always has left me wondering how they could write so well if drunk as our lore would have had them.

I will not say that I couldn't take it but I am glad that I never had it put to me to take it or do it. On one occasion I did decline, but that was a mere social invitation from the host in charge, not an order from the desk, and so, of course, the default doesn't count in the record.

As to the executions of the Rosenbergs, the traitors, wife and husband, who were condemned to the chair at Sing Sing prison for treason against the United States, I have no such delicacy. The crime has been palliated by editors, columnists, politicians and mischievous ideologians-at-large who knew such conduct as hideous and vile beyond the power of our culture to imagine and had personal acquaintance with individuals who, in justice, deserved to be put to death.

The nature of treason and its implications need not be labored even though some of the apologists have persuaded themselves that all's well that ends well. The criminal clients of their generous concern didn't quite accomplish their whole purpose in consorting and conspiring with braver and more fortright enemies of the American people. They were not really determined traitors but confused idealists. Therefore, they should get no worse than treason, third degree, and probation.

There are conspicuous rogues now engaged in howling down Stalin, for profit, in print and on the air, who spread his propaganda both ways during the worst years.

They plugged his spokesmen as liberal leaders, suppressed information of treasonous conspiracies and hounded loyal Americans with vile abuse and suppressed their writings and throttled their voices.

John T. Flynn, was one of these victims, and Robert Stripling, the genius who actually broke the Alger Hiss case, was another.

The apologists for the "confused liberals" of this awful plot seem not to know how contemptible they make themselves in mewling that poverty and lack of opportunity make Communists and, in the next breath, defending a class of vermin who went to Harvard, never missed a meal and learned their treachery in soirees at the White House or amid the Long Island rich trash.

Without credible exception, they knew that communism was a criminal conspiracy against their country which, to be successful, would have to be fatal to the Constitution and the liberties of all of us.

Many of them are lawyers learned in the precise meanings and the extensive implications of conspiracy. None of them had the excuse of persecution or denial, for even the Negroes among them are voluptuous rakes living on large incomes or the bounty of degenerate rich patrons. Most of them here took up this evil thing as an excuse for licentious living, knowing what communism meant and what a price the American people would pay for their sensuality.

This is the class of rascals whom the rest of us are now asked to forgive on the plea that they didn't know but without any show of contrition or promise of reparation. To hell with them, from the master cell in the White House to the sorriest hack on those glossy New York weeklies which are always cleaning house but never quite get their delousing done.

These people were as guilty as the members of the party whose dirty work they were glad to do. If it is a capital crime to join a conspiracy against the United States, it is no less a crime to give these criminals aid, comfort, prestige and political concealment and to do criminal works in furtherance of their conspiracy.

I understand and regret that the law, as presently interpreted, does not give promise of appropriate action, but, by fair extension and interpretation, these non-member accomplices deserve the maximum.

Enters Inflation Fight

Buffalo, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—An Olean housewife was in town today ready to enlist housewives in her fight against inflation. Mrs. Mary Williams, who gathered signatures from about 2,400 persons in Olean, said she wants to get 50,000 persons here to sign her petition asking Congress to fight high prices. Mrs. Williams said "I'm not asking anybody to carry banners or march in parades. I just want housewives and other interested persons to sign a petition and circulate petitions among their friends." She said her political philosophy amounted to "congressmen who won't fight high prices won't get re-elected."

British Stretch Legs

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 25 (AP)—Ten crewmen of a British bomber stretched their air legs today after a casual hop over the top of the world from Iceland to Fairbanks. It took the four-engined Aries bomber 18 hours and 54 minutes to go over the North Pole to Fairbanks from the takeoff point at Keflavik, Iceland, a 3,558-mile jaunt. Tomorrow at 8 a. m. (1 p. m. EST) they plan to fly the plane the 4,128 miles back to Manby, England. The return flight will be via the Polar regions, but not necessarily over the Pole again, Frogley said.

New Milk Record Reported in State

New York, July 25 (AP)—New record for milk marketing in upstate New York were announced yesterday.

The metropolitan milk marketing area administrator's office said St. Lawrence county dairymen shipping to the New York city market had set a new mark.

In May, they delivered the largest amount of milk marketed in one month in the history of the federal-state milk marketing orders.

The 50,842,224 pounds delivered to pool-approved plants topped the previous record of June, 1950, by 659,449 pounds. The 1950 figure also was set by St. Lawrence county.

The announcement said that total plant receipts in the six-state milkshed in May were the heaviest since the marketing orders were adopted.

Plant deliveries totaled 774,501,805 pounds, an increase of more than 11,000,000 pounds over May, 1950. In May, 50,078 producers were supplying the New York pool. This was a net loss of 300 producers from last year.

In May, the ten top-producing counties in the milkshed reached a total of 319,367,051 pounds. The total milk check was $12,551,125.

St. Lawrence county's share of the May total check was $1,998,099.

Red Cross Asks

of information coming from the flood area:

Estimated total number of families affected, 45,880.

Estimated total families registering with the Red Cross, 17,075.

Number counties affected, 64.

Number Red Cross chapters participating, 68.

Number of shelters operated, 80.

Number of persons in shelters, 17,551.

Number of persons being fed, 42,686.

Number paid Red Cross personnel assigned, 179.

Number volunteer nurses, 150.

The cost of rehabilitation will exceed available resources for disaster relief because of the extensive Red Cross program for members of the armed forces, the National Blood Program and other activities. Also, the $25,000,000 made available by the federal government for relief purposes in no way relieves the Red Cross from its fundamental responsibility of relief to families.

In a letter addressed to E. Roland Harriman, President, American National Red Cross, President Truman asks the American public to contribute at least $5,000,000 through their local Red Cross chapters for the relief of flood victims.

Codwise emphasized that the job of the Red Cross is going to take more money than it can provide from its present resources. For that reason he urges the people in Ulster county to contribute as generously as they can through the local county chapter, 308 Clinton avenue, to aid our flood-stricken fellow citizens in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois.

Flood Relief

President Truman has called upon all Americans to contribute as generously as they can through their local Red Cross Chapters to aid "Our Flood-Stricken fellow citizens in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois." He has asked that they give at least $5,000,000 because the Red Cross job will take more money than the Red Cross can provide from its present resources. Said President Truman: "Human welfare is the most important job . . . one that cannot wait." You, too, can help—through your Red Cross chapter. Give generously.

Flood Relief

President Truman has called upon all Americans to contribute as generously as they can through their local Red Cross Chapters to aid "Our Flood-Stricken fellow citizens in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois." He has asked that they give at least $5,000,000 because the Red Cross job will take more money than the Red Cross can provide from its present resources. Said President Truman: "Human welfare is the most important job . . . one that cannot wait." You, too, can help—through your Red Cross chapter. Give generously.

WHAT A WONDERFUL WAY TO LOSE FAT! Eating Instead of Dieting!

No Calorie Counting! No Diets! No Exercise!

Sounds too good to be true, but it IS true.

Thanks to a group of New York doctors you can now lose pounds of ugly fat every week without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods, WITHOUT HAVING A SINGLE HUNGRY MOMENT.

These New York doctors discovered a food adjunct called Wafex.

Wafex does remarkable things. It makes your appetite demand less food — you eat less — lose weight naturally — yet you never feel hungry.

Before Wafex was offered to you it was proved clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The doctors carefully checked results and here is what they found:

1. Weight losses of 8 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.

2. All members of the group said they never felt better and NEVER HAD A HUNGRY MOMENT.

Wafex is absolutely safe. It is a food adjunct, not a drug.

So start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches.

You can get a full month's supply of Wafex for only $3 on money back guarantee. Your scales must show you have lost weight, have an improved figure, you must look, feel better or you get YOUR MONEY BACK WITHOUT QUESTION. The sooner you start the sooner you may have the loss of weight you yearn for.

How Wafex Satisfies Your Hunger

According to scientific calculations 1 Wafex Wafer has the hunger-satisfying capacity of 2 ham sandwiches or 4 eggs, or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 5 measly calories.

If you know you talk too much, and your neighbors feelin's touch, stop talkin.' If your nerves are all askew, there is one good thing to do-go walkin.' If you're runnin' into debt, and can't pay for what you get, stop buyin.' If you'd like to reach the top, and are just about to stop, keep tryin.'

Puts Youngster in Business

El Paso, Tex. (AP)—A four-year-old Hampshire ewe, named Chubby, has put her young owner into the sheep breeding business. Donald Leslie, El Paso club boy, reports that Chubby has brought him eight lambs in three years. Her first offsprings were twin lambs and the last two years she has come up with triplets. Donald is using this high production stock as a foundaion for a sheep flock. He plans to work on multiple birth with the flock.

In Wrong House

Centralia, Ill. (AP)—A tired oil pipeline worker gave the cabbie his Carlyle, Ill., address and, on arrival, promptly hit the hay. A neighbor told Sheriff Henry Klutho who awakened the sleeper to tell him he was in the Ed Drannaman's house. And they were away. In a quick double take, the man found he was in a house with the same street number as his own. But his house was three blocks away.

Jacoby on Canasta

Hand Holds Melding Clues

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Both sides needed 120 points for the first meld," relates a Princeton correspondent, "and each player made several discards before any real action took place. Then my partner discarded an eight. The player at my right put down two eights, together with a joker and two aces. He then took the discard pile, adding the eight to his meld, and keeping the rest of the pile in his hand. He made a safe discard, and it was my turn to play.

"I drew from the stock and then held the following cards:

"A K-K J-J 9-9 8-7 2-2-2.

"No kings, jacks, nines, or sevens had been discarded. No eights had appeared except those that had just been melded. The same was true of the aces. What was my best play at this point?"

The best play, in my opinion, is to meld the kings, jacks, and nines, each with a deuce. Then you discard the eight.

In this situation, you are not going to get the discard pile, since you follow an oversized hand. Your partner, following a normal-sized hand, has a chance to get the pile; and your meld may make it vastly easier for him to do so.

Even if neither of you can get the pile, you have some sort of play for out. Your partner must have something in his eleven cards. He has never discarded a king, jack, or nine, so there is a fair chance that he has been saving one of those ranks. If so, it will be easy for him to complete a canasta very quickly. And then you will be very close to out.

You choose the eight as your discard because you must get into out position before you can meld out. Hence you must eventually discard that eight in any case. It is far better to discard it now, when it can cost you only a two-card discard pile, than later on, when the pile will be much larger.

Q—Your side has no canasta, but it is your turn to play and you are in position to make the canasta. Can you meld out on that same play?

A—Yes. You can make the canasta and meld out on the same play.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

RETIRING GENERAL — Lt.-Gen. Elwood R. (Pete) Quesada, one of the Air Force's top tactical commanders, plans to retire soon at the age of 47. He is reported at odds with his superiors over the role of strategic bombing. A native of Washington, D. C., he has been in the Air Force since 1924, his most recent assignment having been as commander of the joint task force that conducted atomic tests at Eniwetok this year.

Do You Remember

by
By SOPHIE MILLER

It seems if any item of historical local interest appears anywhere, it somehow finds its way to this column. In the New York Herald Tribune, Sunday, July 15, 1951, in the travel section, there is an illustrated article called, "Washington's Quarters Open at Newburgh." . . . "here, on a high hill overlooking the Hudson and commanding a magnificent view, stands Hasbrouck House, the headquarters of Gen. Washington during 1782 and 1783. Situated in the middle of the nation's oldest state park, the headquarters building actually dates back to somewhere around 1750. It has been furnished with period pieces to recreate the very place and atmosphere where Washington and his wife passed a trying 17 months waiting for the peace negotiations with the British to jell.

"Here can be seen the famed room of the '7 doors and one window,' which the commander-in-chief used as a dining and reception room. It was at the Hasbrouck House that the Order of the Purple Heart was first bestowed by Washington. Near Hasbrouck House, the State maintains a museum filled with historical items. On addition this year, is a pine gavel fashioned from wood obtained during the current reconstruction of the White House. Another item, is what is reputed to be the authentic pistols used in the Burr-Hamilton duel. The Burr weapon is marked with a cross, a sign which is mentioned in correspondence of that period."

There are many other items such as: Martha Washington's watch; a spur from Maj. Andre's boot; Gen. Burgoyne's orderly book and Gen. LaFayette's sword. They do not give the hours the museum is open, or whether it is open on Sundays. But it should make an interesting afternoon's trip.

They also mention Mt. Beacon, how one can go to the top by cable-car railway which costs $1.00 round trip. I remember as a little girl my father took me up on it, and how I wanted to look back down, when I was going up. Those were the days, when the Day Line used to stop at Kingston Point, and every Sunday we took a different trip or destination. Going down by boat was fine, but sometimes coming back we could not make as good connections by train even then. Of course, buses weren't so popular.

Fred Longendyke of 88 Hasbrouck avenue stopped in to make sure the little book on Steamboat Navigation he left outside my door was safe and sound. I told him such books are too precious to leave on door-steps. I bet it is almost impossible to get another one. This book contains photographs and sketches and details on railroad transportation and steamboat navigation in this country from the very beginning. Item on Hudson River Day Line of Steamers starts with: "It was established in 1822, the first boat to make regular trip from New York to Albany by daylight was the Richmond, one of the early boats built for the Fulton Line (1812). The Sun, in 1827 was the first boat that ever made the trip from sun to sun."

The "Chancellor Livingston," built in 1816 under the supervision of Fulton, with many improvements, had three smokestacks athwartships, three masts, a bowsprit and jibboom, with yards and topsails on the foremast. The sails then being recognized as a necessity to steam vessels.

Pressure-Cook Corn

Corn can be cooked in the pressure cooker in three minutes. If you are lucky enough to have your own corn, pick it just before dinner and pressure cook it while you are eating the soup. Wrap it in a napkin and hustle it to the table with plenty of butter.

SHOKAN

Shokan, July 24—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomasser and children, Joe and Francis, returned to the city Sunday, following a vacation sojourn at the Gebelein bungalow near the viaduct.

Lawrence Gallagher, new supervising principal of the Onteora central school, and family are occupying the Brunel house at Boiceville. Mrs. E. Brunel has moved to her other house on the hill near the Indian statues.

Mrs. M. Schonen of Manhattan is spending the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gearon.

John Alexander, who died Thursday at his home in Kingston, was formerly well known in the reservoir country where he resided for many years. The Alexander family at one time were residents of Ashokan.

Not all visiting Ashokan Reservoir fishermen come and go by car. There is a growing practice of journeying to Shokan by bus and hiking the last mile from Winchell's Corners down to the dividing weir bridge. One such was a 10-year-old girl, who, her mother said, had landed two 16-inch wall-eyed pike.

Peter Angell with his tractor mowed the O. S. Baptist churchyard and did a good job of it. Friday evening Elder and Mrs. Amasa Slauson of Kingston with two assistants raked up and carried off the hay.

Echo of waterworks days: July 24, 1913—James K. DuBois has moved from the Park house on the west side of the creek to his new home in Ashokan. . . . Abner Winne has torn down the Ira Forbes house in the old village for use in building a dwelling (later the Chester Lyons place). . . . The Olive post office has been changed to Ashokan. . . . Extensive improvements are planned for the Henry Winchell place now owned by Jules Breucheaud. Stone barns and other buildings will conform with the main Breucheaud house designed and completed by Architect Myron Teller.

Inez N. Groth and son, Lewis of New York, are guests at the Longyear House for 10 days. The former Inez Newbery of Atwood is a granddaughter of John Ennist of the Stone Church neighborhood; a descendant of James Winchell, Tongore Revolutionary War soldier. She recently became a member of Kingston Chapter. D.A.R. Lewis is employed at Schultz' 6th Avenue and 42nd Street cigar store.

More than 40 per cent of the world's gold is produced in Africa.

Study Democracy

Sydney (AP)—Twenty-two Pakistan government servants have arrived in Australia to learn various aspects of running a democratic country. They want to learn ways of handling traffic, how to prevent erosion, how to curb the black market and how to bring culture to backward areas. "We're building a brand new nation, a friendly nation, and we're in a hurry," said Shaful Azam, spokesman of the party.

Chain Reaction

Guelph, Ont. (AP)—Restaurateur Joe Contini cracked an egg for his breakfast on the side of a frying pan. In the pan dropped the yolk, the white and a second egg. The smaller egg had no yolk.

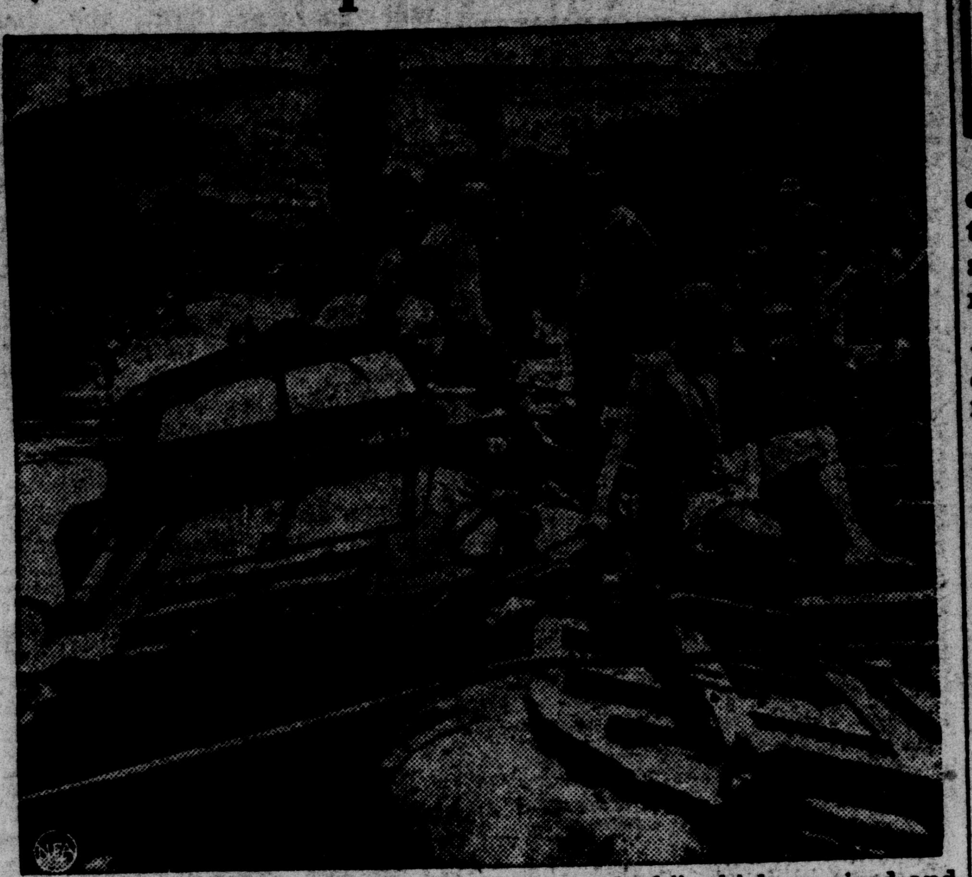
Capsized Duck



U. S. engineers try to salvage an Army "duck" which capsized and was forced against a floating bridge near Gaesong. The accident occurred during heavy rains which flooded the rivers near the peace-talk site. (NEA Telephoto).

Driver Is Injured In Abutment Crash

Donald J. McCusker, 39, of 42-33 Browne street, Flushing, L. I., suffered a concussion, possible skull fracture, an other injuries, when he was thrown from his car as it struck a concrete abutment on Route 208 west of New Paltz last night. State Police at Highland said today.

Treated first by Dr. Virgil DeWitt, of New Paltz, he was taken to Kingston Hospital by the New Paltz Fire Department ambulance. His condition was reported as "fair" today. The report said he also suffered internal injuries, lacerations and abrasions.

State police said McCusker apparently lost control of the car on a down grade about a mile and a half west of New Paltz. The car struck the bridge abutment and upset.

He was riding alone. The car was badly damaged and was towed from the scene.

Fitzpatrick Predicts

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick contends Governor Dewey should have stayed home to help fight inflation, rather than fly to the Far East. Fitzpatrick also declared at a news conference yesterday that: 1—President Truman would carry the state if he ran for reelection in 1952. 2—Senator Irving M. Ives, New York Republican, would be defeated. Fitzpatrick termed Ives' record "flip-flop."

Polio Cases Are Fewer

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Polio in upstate New York is running slightly under the rate of the 1950 epidemic. The State Health Department reported today 126 upstate cases through July 21, compared with 135 for the same period last year. The peak of the disease's incidence usually comes in late August or early September. Last week 35 new cases were reported, as against 37 for the same week a year ago.

Dewey Is in Indochina

Saigon, Indo China, July 25 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York arrived in Indochina today for a three-day visit during which he will meet with French and Viet Nam officials. The governor, who said he was on a private visit, will meet Ex-Emporer Bao Dai and French Commissioner Jean de Lattre de Tassigny. De Latre is expected to emphasize Indochina's ned for more arms for French and Viet Namese troops fighting Nationalist and Communist forces.

Sparks From Torch

The fire department was notified at 8:51 p. m., yesterday that something appearing like "short-circuit sparks" were coming from the roof of the Pilgrim Furniture Company building. A check by the department revealed that a man was working on the roof with a welding torch.

Flood Heads South

Cape Girardeau, Mo., July 25 (AP)—The devastating midwestern flood headed for the South today, but minus the punch that caused an estimated $1,000,000,000 damages in Kansas and Missouri. The Mississippi river registered 41.8 feet here yesterday noon and it was still at that point several hours later. Army engineers and Weather Bureau officials don't expect further damage as the flood crest heads for the Gulf of Mexico. High, strong levees keep the river in check the rest of the way.

Wins Essay Contest

Westminster, Md., July 25 (AP)—Ellen Chambers, whose father once was a courier for Communist spies, has won a high school essay contest on "What America Means to Me." Whittaker Chambers, now a Carroll county farmer, was the star government witness in the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss, former State Department official. The 16-year-old Ellen, who graduated from Westminster High in June, won the school contest conducted by a Veterans of Foreign Wars post. She received a VFW citizenship award.

Is Called 'Sugar Daddy'

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Frederick Vanderbilt Field, leftist New York millionaire, was described as a one time "sugar daddy" for the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR) at Senate hearings today. Edward C. Carter of New York, a trustee of the IPR, used the term in relating that Field's contributions to the institute totaled "around $60,000."

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 25 (AP)—A general advance in the stock market today maintained headway despite occasional profit-taking raids.

Oils started the ball rolling for the rise today as they did yesterday, and rails, steels, and some motors immediately joined in.

The upside bulge of the first hour was deflated by profit-taking, and some leaders slipped to the losing side from time to time.

Leaders extended their gains at best into the $1-$2 level. Infrequent losses were held at a dollar a share or under.

When the market started falling back from the peak in the second hour, rubbers were hardest hit. U. S. Rubber, up 3⅛ yesterday, lost a fraction today.

National Lead, up 3¼ yesterday on its three-for-one stock split proposal, traded unchanged or lower most of the time today. Merck, which proposed a three-for-one-split, together with issuance of $25,000,000 in convertible second preferred, gained as much as a point.

The strength of the market yesterday and today encouraged bullish beliefs that the traditional summer rise may be under way.

Trained in Moscow

Mikhail Fedorov, head of the Russian Tass News Agency in Washington as he denied that he had been assigned here because of his Politburo training, rather than for journalistic skill. Alexander F. Jones, head of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, demanded in a prepared speech at Hamilton, N. Y., that the government investigate Fedorov because he "is not a newspaperman at all." Fedorov said Jones' charge was "most irresponsible" and added that he worked in the "Moscow office of Tass." (AP Wirephoto)

Pilgrim Auction Set for Friday

The Pilgrim Furniture Company, South Prospect street and Greenkill avenue, which is scheduled to vacate the plant at the end of this month because of the sale of the building to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, will auction some of its equipment and furniture Friday, a spokesman for the plant said today.

The concern, which is moving to the former Schilling building at 107 Greenkill avenue, will auction benches, tables and cabinets, and "anything which cannot be brought to the other building." The latter includes samples of furniture which were made and not sold, and pieces made for department and chain stores which had canceled orders.

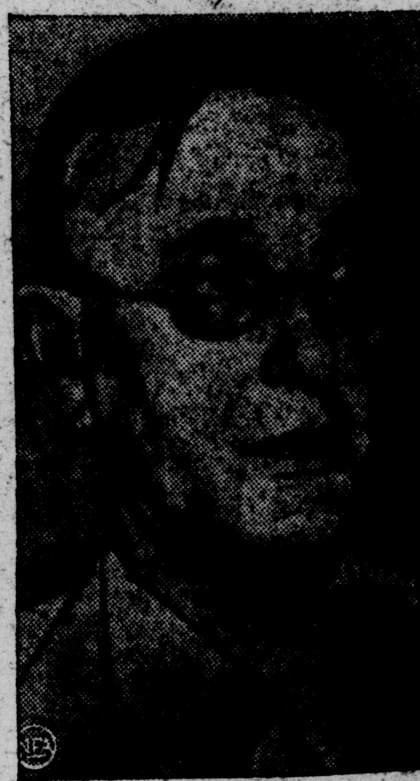
Sale of the large building of the furniture plant to the insurance company was announced earlier this year and it was said then that the building will be used for the storage of insurance records.

The auction Friday will be conducted by Bob Steele, of 660 Broadway. Police were notified yesterday that it may extend beyond the 6 p. m. limit and permission was given to go beyond that time if necessary.

Boys Pushed Boulder

Jersey City, N. J., July 25 (AP)—Five young Jersey City boys have admitted pushing a huge boulder onto the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad tracks, causing two cars of a train to be derailed Saturday, the FBI says. But, the boys added, it was an accident. The youngsters, ranging in age from 10 to 13 years, were caught with the assistance of Jersey City and Pennsylvania Railroad police, the FBI announcement yesterday said.

Called Red



Dr. Dirk J. Struick, mathematics professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., waits his turn to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Struick was identified by FBI undercover agent Herbert Philbrick as a member of a highly-secret Communist underground group. (NEA Telephoto).

Frank Costello

from the hearing, complaining that he was suffering from laryngitis.

He returned after a few days, but declined to disclose his net worth.

"I refuse to answer on constitutional grounds," he said.

He said he kept $40,000 to $50,000 in a strong box in his palatial apartment overlooking Manhattan's Central Park.

He estimated he had another $100,000 or so in banks.

But he declined to give details.

"I have a few investments," he told the committee.

He said he had some oil stocks. His wife, he said, owned 200 shares of television stock. They owned a summer home on Long Island. He said he had a part interest in the Beverly Club in New Orleans.

Denies Racketeering

Costello conceded to the committee he was a gambler. In his younger days, he said, he was a bootlegger. But he denied heatedly that he was a racketeer—much less the "king of the rackets."

Costello told the committee and the fascinated TV audience that he once worked in a piano factory and later turned to the manufacture of kewpie dolls.

He denied having anthing to do with the punchboard business, except that the dolls may have been used as prizes by the punchboard operators.

His present interest, he said, was the manufacture of jet broilers. He said he was unable to describe the broilers in detail because his frequent appearances before the committee did not give him time to study them. But he liked the broilers, he said, as a boon to housewives with small apartments.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey described Costello during last fall's election campaign as the "real boss" of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

Costello insisted he didn't have enough influence in New York to fix a traffic ticket. But he conceded he knew 14 Tammany leaders and said he aided a friend to get an appointment as a judge in 1943.

That caused a public uproar at the time, and Costello said that, having had his fingers burned, he had nothing to do with politics after that.

Woodstock officials have requested residents and visitors to cooperate with police in their handling of traffic during the parade.

Petty Cash Stolen

Local police were notified today of the theft of $10 in petty cash from the Terpening Ice Cream & Candy Co., building, 142 Abeel street, during the night. Entrance was gained at the rear of the building, police said. Police took for examination the knob of a safety box from which the money was stolen.

The citizen's committee will meet at 8 o'clock Monday evening, July 30, to discuss and develop further plans for the big 1952 celebration.

Clean Pigs

The idea that pigs are filthy in their habits is untrue. They will stuff themselves with food the way other animals and humans sometimes will, and they wriggle in the mud because it helps them to keep cool and removes extra oil from their skins.

Survey Says . . .

gain was 2,190,3[illegible]—both less than the 2,9[illegible] of 1949.

Nothing Spectacular

Commenting on the 1950 gains, however, the report said:

"There was no spectacular turning to religion, no spiritual upheaval. Religion fought for every foot of gain; there were no easy, sweeping advances. But there was a continuation of even growth. . . ."

Southern Baptist, which added 318,624 members in 1950, had the biggest gain of any single Protestant denomination. The report said Southern Baptist, with 7,079,889 members, now is the "fastest growing denomination in the United States," and within ten years "may well be our largest."

The Methodist Church still is the largest Protestant denomination. Its membership rose 142,078 to a total of 8,935,647. Its membership gain was the second highest.

Accused of Swindle

New York, July 25 (AP)—A gypsy "princess" was accused today of swindling a Brooklyn mother of her $7,011 life savings with wired incantations on the pretext of bringing her dead soldier son home alive. Police identified the gypsy as Mrs. Hazel Lee, 35, of Coney Island, and charged her with grand larceny.

Capsized Duck

U. S. engineers try to salvage an Army "duck" which capsized and was forced against a floating bridge near Gaesong. The accident occurred during heavy rains which flooded the rivers near the peace-talk site. (NEA Telephoto).

Driver Is Injured In Abutment Crash

Donald J. McCusker, 39, of 42-33 Browne street, Flushing, L. I., suffered a concussion, possible skull fracture, an other injuries, when he was thrown from his car as it struck a concrete abutment on Route 208 west of New Paltz last night. State Police at Highland said today.

Treated first by Dr. Virgil DeWitt, of New Paltz, he was taken to Kingston Hospital by the New Paltz Fire Department ambulance. His condition was reported as "fair" today. The report said he also suffered internal injuries, lacerations and abrasions.

State police said McCusker apparently lost control of the car on a down grade about a mile and a half west of New Paltz. The car struck the bridge abutment and upset.

He was riding alone. The car was badly damaged and was towed from the scene.

Fitzpatrick Predicts

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick contends Governor Dewey should have stayed home to help fight inflation, rather than fly to the Far East. Fitzpatrick also declared at a news conference yesterday that: 1—President Truman would carry the state if he ran for reelection in 1952. 2—Senator Irving M. Ives, New York Republican, would be defeated. Fitzpatrick termed Ives' record "flip-flop."

Polio Cases Are Fewer

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Polio in upstate New York is running slightly under the rate of the 1950 epidemic. The State Health Department reported today 126 upstate cases through July 21, compared with 135 for the same period last year. The peak of the disease's incidence usually comes in late August or early September. Last week 35 new cases were reported, as against 37 for the same week a year ago.

Dewey Is in Indochina

Saigon, Indo China, July 25 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York arrived in Indochina today for a three-day visit during which he will meet with French and Viet Nam officials. The governor, who said he was on a private visit, will meet Ex-Emporer Bao Dai and French Commissioner Jean de Lattre de Tassigny. De Latre is expected to emphasize Indochina's ned for more arms for French and Viet Namese troops fighting Nationalist and Communist forces.

Sparks From Torch

The fire department was notified at 8:51 p. m., yesterday that something appearing like "short-circuit sparks" were coming from the roof of the Pilgrim Furniture Company building. A check by the department revealed that a man was working on the roof with a welding torch.

Makes Statement

Secretary of Defense George Marshall tells news conference in Washington that the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea at "the proper time" will pose no problem if the Communists sincerely want a peace settlement there. (AP Wirephoto)

Flood Heads South

Cape Girardeau, Mo., July 25 (AP)—The devastating midwestern flood headed for the South today, but minus the punch that caused an estimated $1,000,000,000 damages in Kansas and Missouri. The Mississippi river registered 41.8 feet here yesterday noon and it was still at that point several hours later. Army engineers and Weather Bureau officials don't expect further damage as the flood crest heads for the Gulf of Mexico. High, strong levees keep the river in check the rest of the way.

Wins Essay Contest

Westminster, Md., July 25 (AP)—Ellen Chambers, whose father once was a courier for Communist spies, has won a high school essay contest on "What America Means to Me." Whittaker Chambers, now a Carroll county farmer, was the star government witness in the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss, former State Department official. The 16-year-old Ellen, who graduated from Westminster High in June, won the school contest conducted by a Veterans of Foreign Wars post. She received a VFW citizenship award.

Is Called 'Sugar Daddy'

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Frederick Vanderbilt Field, leftist New York millionaire, was described as a one time "sugar daddy" for the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR) at Senate hearings today. Edward C. Carter of New York, a trustee of the IPR, used the term in relating that Field's contributions to the institute totaled "around $60,000."

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 25 (AP)—A general advance in the stock market today maintained headway despite occasional profit-taking raids.

Oils started the ball rolling for the rise today as they did yesterday, and rails, steels, and some motors immediately joined in.

The upside bulge of the first hour was deflated by profit-taking, and some leaders slipped to the losing side from time to time.

Leaders extended their gains at best into the $1-$2 level. Infrequent losses were held at a dollar a share or under.

When the market started falling back from the peak in the second hour, rubbers were hardest hit. U. S. Rubber, up 3⅛ yesterday, lost a fraction today.

National Lead, up 3¼ yesterday on its three-for-one stock split proposal, traded unchanged or lower most of the time today. Merck, which proposed a three-for-one-split, together with issuance of $25,000,000 in convertible second preferred, gained as much as a point.

The strength of the market yesterday and today encouraged bullish beliefs that the traditional summer rise may be under way.

Trained in Moscow

Mikhail Fedorov, head of the Russian Tass News Agency in Washington as he denied that he had been assigned here because of his Politburo training, rather than for journalistic skill. Alexander F. Jones, head of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, demanded in a prepared speech at Hamilton, N. Y., that the government investigate Fedorov because he "is not a newspaperman at all." Fedorov said Jones' charge was "most irresponsible" and added that he worked in the "Moscow office of Tass." (AP Wirephoto)

Pilgrim Auction Set for Friday

The Pilgrim Furniture Company, South Prospect street and Greenkill avenue, which is scheduled to vacate the plant at the end of this month because of the sale of the building to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, will auction some of its equipment and furniture Friday, a spokesman for the plant said today.

The concern, which is moving to the former Schilling building at 107 Greenkill avenue, will auction benches, tables and cabinets, and "anything which cannot be brought to the other building." The latter includes samples of furniture which were made and not sold, and pieces made for department and chain stores which had canceled orders.

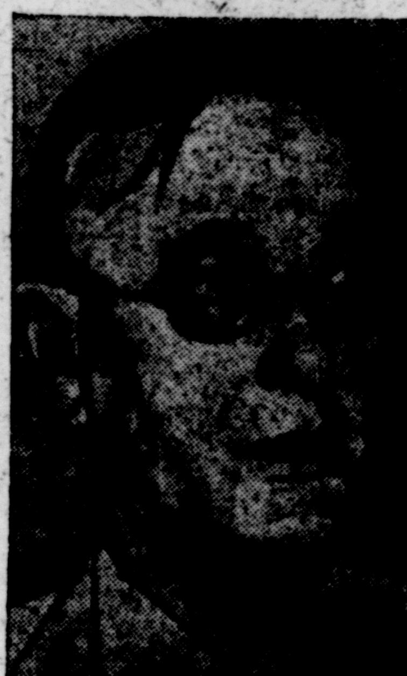
Sale of the large building of the furniture plant to the insurance company was announced earlier this year and it was said then that the building will be used for the storage of insurance records.

The auction Friday will be conducted by Bob Steele, of 660 Broadway. Police were notified yesterday that it may extend beyond the 6 p. m. limit and permission was given to go beyond that time if necessary.

Boys Pushed Boulder

Jersey City, N. J., July 25 (AP)—Five young Jersey City boys have admitted pushing a huge boulder onto the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad tracks, causing two cars of a train to be derailed Saturday, the FBI says. But, the boys added, it was an accident. The youngsters, ranging in age from 10 to 13 years, were caught with the assistance of Jersey City and Pennsylvania Railroad police, the FBI announcement yesterday said.

Called Red



Dr. Dirk J. Struick, mathematics professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., waits his turn to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Struick was identified by FBI undercover agent Herbert Philbrick as a member of a highly-secret Communist underground group. (NEA Telephoto).

Frank Costello

from the hearing, complaining that he was suffering from laryngitis.

He returned after a few days, but declined to disclose his net worth.

"I refuse to answer on constitutional grounds," he said.

He said he kept $40,000 to $50,000 in a strong box in his palatial apartment overlooking Manhattan's Central Park.

He estimated he had another $100,000 or so in banks.

But he declined to give details.

"I have a few investments," he told the committee.

He said he had some oil stocks. His wife, he said, owned 200 shares of television stock. They owned a summer home on Long Island. He said he had a part interest in the Beverly Club in New Orleans.

Denies Racketeering

Costello conceded to the committee he was a gambler. In his younger days, he said, he was a bootlegger. But he denied heatedly that he was a racketeer—much less the "king of the rackets."

Costello told the committee and the fascinated TV audience that he once worked in a piano factory and later turned to the manufacture of kewpie dolls.

He denied having anthing to do with the punchboard business, except that the dolls may have been used as prizes by the punchboard operators.

His present interest, he said, was the manufacture of jet broilers. He said he was unable to describe the broilers in detail because his frequent appearances before the committee did not give him time to study them. But he liked the broilers, he said, as a boon to housewives with small apartments.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey described Costello during last fall's election campaign as the "real boss" of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

Costello insisted he didn't have enough influence in New York to fix a traffic ticket. But he conceded he knew 14 Tammany leaders and said he aided a friend to get an appointment as a judge in 1943.

That caused a public uproar at the time, and Costello said that, having had his fingers burned, he had nothing to do with politics after that.

Refreshments will be served near the point where the parade disbands.

Woodstock officials have requested residents and visitors to cooperate with police in their handling of traffic during the parade.

Lions Name Men To Help Plan 300th City Anniversary

The representatives of the Kingston Lions Club to the citizen's committee of Kingston's 300th anniversary were announced today by Alwin Feuerstein, president of the club. They include Hugh R. Elwyn, Harold Henion, Bernhardt S. Kramer, Carl Schenck, Harry Silsby and Daniel Weisberg.

Harry Rigby, temporary chairman of the tercentenary, stated today that Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will appoint city representatives within a few days. This will complete the initial step of expanding the citizen's committee to assist in the planning and execution of the anniversary celebration.

The citizen's committee will meet at 8 o'clock Monday evening, July 30, to discuss and develop further plans for the big 1952 celebration.

Clean Pigs

The idea that pigs are filthy in their habits is untrue. They will stuff themselves with food the way other animals and humans sometimes will, and they wriggle in the mud because it helps them to keep cool and removes extra oil from their skins.

Survey Says . . .

gain was [illegible]—both less than the [illegible] of [illegible].

Nothing Spectacular

Commenting on the 1950 gains, however, the report said:

"There was no spectacular turning to religion, no spiritual upheaval. Religion fought for every foot of gain; there were no easy, sweeping advances. But there was a continuation of [illegible] growth. . . ."

Southern Baptist, which added 318,624 members in 1950, had the biggest gain of any single Protestant denomination. The report said Southern Baptist, with 7,079,889 members, now is the "fastest growing denomination in the United States," and within ten years "may well be our largest."

The Methodist Church still is the largest Protestant denomination. Its membership rose 142,078 to a total of 8,935,647. Its membership gain was the second highest.

Accused of Swindle

New York, July 25 (AP)—A gypsy "princess" was accused today of swindling a Brooklyn mother of her $7,011 life savings with wired incantations on the pretext of bringing her dead soldier son home alive. Police identified the gypsy as Mrs. Hazel Lee, 35, of Coney Island, and charged her with grand larceny.

West Makes Plea For Youth Work

Woodstock, July 25—William E. West, chairman of the Youth Committee has made an appeal for financial assistance to carry on the work of the Woodstock recreation summer program for the benefit of both village and visiting youngsters.

West said, "Our future plans for our youth are limited only by the generosity of our adults."

This year the summer program is again in full swing. The Recreation Field is active daily from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., and evenings from 6 to 8 p. m., under the supervision of two local college boys, Don Milora and Harry Berkowitz. During the summer months the field is the hub of youthful activity, an attraction for many who come to watch as well as participate. There are Sunday afternoon baseball games and the Woodstock School Band may be seen in frequent rehearsal in the early evening preparing for the Volunteer Firemen's parade next Saturday.

In the short span of three years a run down hay field has been carefully groomed into one of the finest playgrounds in the state. This year the committee has obtained a small tractor for mowing and cutting which was purchased with the assistance and approval of the New York State Youth Commission. Clarence Snyder, working only part time, is doing an excellent job keeping the field in first class condition.

Each year the Youth Committee must raise a minimum of $500, by public subscription, which is matched by the state. Ringed by mountains and wooded lands, the Woodstock Recreation Field is a healthful and beautiful focal point for the young people of the village. Those who have worked and are working for its existence would appreciate support; donations, large or small, will be welcome. Checks may be made payable to the Woodstock Recreation Fund.

Fuller Lectures On Motion Trend

Woodstock, July 25—Those who came to the Woodstock Art Gallery last Friday night to hear a lecture by Buckminster Fuller, noted architect, engineer and philosopher, were given a rare experience in "Comprehensive Design." This was no ordinary lecture nor was the manner of presentation orthodox, in that the listener was invited in short order to step off from the earth's surface and to view the globe objectively from a distant point both in time and space.

Fuller first drew a vivid picture of the earth as a sphere, beginning with the inhabited areas as isolated points about its surface. With the coming of the ship the points on the sphere were joined by what he termed as tubes, which with the growth of industry converged upon certain points, as railroad trains, automobiles and planes. The third development which set up other sets of joining lines was what he designated as "radio motion." Finally with a high rate of pressure built up at the large points, man built in a new direction—upward.

"Industrialization," he said, "has brought about the plurality of man, which involves the acts of many men." He cited the lever for lifting as an example of the cooperation necessary for its use.

"Everyone," he observed, "is keenly aware of the acceleration in our history—in the changes in our lifetime. We are strongly aware of our enormous potentialities."

As a result of the speed of present day living he said "we have to give up nouns—only verbs are left."

Charting what he designated as the various "energy patterns," he explained the changes already taking place in the home or "household processes patterns." The automobile, he believes is simply the old front porch rolling down the highway.

"Industrialization," he said, "is a complex of tools." He has been looking at the complexities of industrialization for the past 30 years and in doing so has glimpsed great heights.

Energy, he believes, is collecting in man and is converging systematically on the earth, which so far as is known is the only plant in which energy is impounded by man. "Man," he said, "is an extraordinary pattern physically, and, as an energy impounder."

Fuller described several exercises, which he declared would be helpful in sensing the rolling motion and energy of the earth. He suggested that as an experiment a unique sensation might be obtained by standing, feet planted wide apart, facing the Polar star. By imagining that one is on a huge space ship sailing through the universe, the rolling motion of the earth soon becomes apparent.

"If there are children about," he advised, "get them to help you. They are wonderful in helping you make a successful attempt."

Following the lecture a series of colored slides were shown of Fuller's designs for houses, cars, bathrooms and experiments in solid geometry.

Kroll to Return

Woodstock, July 25—William Kroll, eminent violinist and musical director for the Maverick Sunday Concerts, will return on July 29, at 4 p. m., to play the Grieg Sonata in C Minor for violin and piano, with Joseph Wolman, pianist, who is winning a wide audience here this season. For the second portion of the program, Cynthia Eddy, cellist, will join Mr. Kroll and Mr. Wolman to play the Beethoven Trio in E Flat, Opus 1.

Last Sunday afternoon, William Kroll appeared as guest soloist at the final concert in the theatre-concert hall at Tanglewood, of the Bach-Haydn-Mozart series in the Berkshire Festival. The following review of the concert appeared in the New York Herald Tribune on Monday: "William Kroll, in the A major violin concerto, played with consummate refinement and mature poise. The elegance of his style and the breadth of his conception, possibly at times even too spacious, won him a tremendous ovation. He drew a tone of round, pure sonority and maintained the loftiest artistry in all three movements. His phrasing was the quintessence of musical expression."

Members of the Maverick Sunday Concerts committee have been pleased to note this summer that music lovers are attending the concerts from Albany and other equally distant points.

Two Held in Theft Of $2,000 in Paper

New York, July 25 (AP)—Two printing firm employes and two salesmen for a book company were held in $500 bail each for a hearing on July 31 when arraigned yesterday in felony court on grand larceny charges.

The charges involved the alleged theft of $2,000 worth of processed paper the past nine months.

The defendants are Murray Mandel, 32, of 24-44 77th street, Jackson Heights, Queens; Chester Minthorne, 24, of 601 Evergreen avenue, Brooklyn; Sidney Zalkind, 25, of 360 West 26th street, Manhattan, and Martin Hirsch, 35, of 1401 Willoughby avenue, Brooklyn.

Police said the first two are employed by the Everlast Process Printing Service, 27 West 24th street, Manhattan, and that Zelkind and Hirsch are salesmen for the Republic Book Sales Company, 149 Church street, Manhattan.

Police said the Everlast firm, which has exclusive rights in this city to a specially-processed paper, heard recently it was obtainable at a low price elsewhere in the city, and upon inventory found its stock was eight tons short. An investigation by detectives of the safe and loft squad resulted in the arrest of the four defendants.

The proprietor, Harold Fluger of 3100 Heath avenue, the Bronx, and the boys were ordered at gunpoint to lie on the floor in the rear, after which Massimi took about $200 from the cash register and gathered an additional $19 from the boys' pockets, police said.

Two Held in Theft Of $2,000 in Paper

New York, July 25 (AP)—Two printing firm employes and two salesmen for a book company were held in $500 bail each for a hearing on July 31 when arraigned yesterday in felony court on grand larceny charges.

The charges involved the alleged theft of $2,000 worth of processed paper the past nine months.

The defendants are Murray Mandel, 32, of 24-44 77th street, Jackson Heights, Queens; Chester Minthorne, 24, of 601 Evergreen avenue, Brooklyn; Sidney Zalkind, 25, of 360 West 26th street, Manhattan, and Martin Hirsch, 35, of 1401 Willoughby avenue, Brooklyn.

Police said the first two are employed by the Everlast Process Printing Service, 27 West 24th street, Manhattan, and that Zelkind and Hirsch are salesmen for the Republic Book Sales Company, 149 Church street, Manhattan.

Police said the Everlast firm, which has exclusive rights in this city to a specially-processed paper, heard recently it was obtainable at a low price elsewhere in the city, and upon inventory found its stock was eight tons short. An investigation by detectives of the safe and loft squad resulted in the arrest of the four defendants.

Candy Store Holdup

New York, July 25 (AP)—Three Bronx men were rounded up in various parts of the Bronx last night and charged with holding up a candy store and going through the pockets of seven children customers. Booked for assault and robbery at the Bronx Park station were Raymond Massimi, 24, of 2113 Belmont avenue, a dyer; Guido Berardo, 21, of 2325 Southern Boulevard, a laborer; and Hugo Peluso, 21, of 2295 Crotona avenue, a laborer. The proprietor, Harold Fluger of 3100 Heath avenue, the Bronx, and the boys were ordered at gunpoint to lie on the floor in the rear, after which Massimi took about $200 from the cash register and gathered an additional $19 from the boys' pockets, police said.

Gets Prison Again

New York, July 25 (AP)—When Harold A. Seiler, 47, was serving a 40-year prison term for armed robbery, he used his proficiency in masonry and woodcarving to help construct the prison's "Chapel of the Good Thief." His work won him a release from Clinton State Prison at Dannemora, N. Y., in 1948, with half his term served. But now Seiler is on his way back to prison.

Grauer Declares Report Vicious

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The State Department has put itself in a "highly dubious position" by using the services of five radio commentators, Rep. Hill (R.-Colo.) charged in the House yesterday.

Hill said the five were used as occasional writers for the "Voice of America" which broadcasts the official American viewpoint to foreign nations.

The Coloradan asserted that one of the five, Ben Grauer of the National Broadcasting Company, has "a lengthy record of affiliation with Communist and Communist-front organizations."

Grauer immediately labelled the accusation as "vicious." NBC issued a statement in New York saying, "we have thoroughly investigated Ben Grauer and found him to be a true and loyal American."

Grauer later telephoned the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press from New York to add the statement:

"There is no official record anywhere that can discredit my loyalty."

Hill said the State Department paid Grauer $680 in 1950. The other commentators he named, and the amounts they received, were:

Charles Collingwood, $900; Bill Downs, $100; Griffing Bancroft, $50, and Eric Sevareid, $50. They are all Washington commentators for the Columbia Broadcasting System. Hill made no political accusations against them.

Reports on Drinking

Los Angeles, July 25 (AP)—A former vaudevillian says the late W. C. Fields used to deliver temperance lectures and then go to his hotel and get drunk. That testimony about one of Hollywood's most celebrated tipplers came in the suit of Mrs. Edith Williams, 71-year-old Chicago blind woman. She claims she and Fields were married in 1893 and wants a widow's share of his $771,428 estate. Field's legally-recognized widow, Harriett, opposes the claim. Fields died Christmas Day, 1946. Arthur Oxman, 66, now a Chicago furrier, also told Superior Court that Fields introduced Edith Williams as his wife in the old days. He said he first met Fields in St. Paul, Minn., in 1907 and that the comic used the name Billy Williams.

Contino Pleads Guilty

Dick Contino Is Ready for Army; Judge Is Adamant

San Francisco, July 25 (AP)—Accordionist Dick Contino, who got "panic claustrophobia" on 28,600-acre Fort Ord, Calif., spent last night in a 5 x 8 foot county jail cell.

Contino, at 21 a $4,000 a week entertainer, entered a surprise plea of guilty at his draft evasion trial yesterday. He told Federal Judge Michael J. Roche he is now ready to go into the army.

"I know I can be a good soldier—a very good soldier," he said.

Instead, the judge sent Contino to jail to await sentence Aug. 7. "Ever since this started, I've felt like a lousy heel," Contino told the jurist.

"This" started in April. One day late, Contino reported at Fort Ord. He quickly passed an army psychiatric test. Next day, he fled in his convertible. Arrested weeks later, he explained his flight:

"Everything was behind a fence. It made me sick all over."

For a cellmate Contino has Bernard Primbsch, 21, charged with draft evasion.

Two Die Suddenly

New York, July 25 (AP)—A Queens man and wife, married 35 years, died within an hour of each other last night. Arthur Lazarus, 55, a sales manager, of 144-45 Sanford avenue, Flushing, telephoned for an ambulance saying his wife, Minnie, 53, was suffering a severe asthma attack. As Lazarus held open the door of his home so stretcher bearers could carry his wife to a Flushing Hospital ambulance, he died apparently of a heart attack.

Opening lead—♥ A

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The bidding of the opponents sometimes tells you to open a trump. For example, dummy may deny one suit bid by his partner and raise another suit with enthusiasm. That sort of bidding usually indicates ability to ruff the denied suit, in which case the defenders may have to lead trumps at every opportunity in order to get their tricks.

In today's hand the bidding sounded just like that to West. As it turned out, however, he should have trusted his eyes as well as his ears.

When West opened the ace of hearts, a very reasonable opening lead because of dummy's bidding, he had the chance to see that dummy was not short in spades. Staring West in the face were three small spades.

In spite of this West failed to change his plan. He continued with a second trump, whereupon declarer, as bridge jargon so elegantly puts it, wrapped four hearts around West's neck.

South won the second round of trumps in his hand, cashed his clubs and the ace of diamonds, and crossed to the king of diamonds to discard a spade on the ace of clubs. He completed the stripping process by ruffing dummy's last diamond.

Now he could lead a trump to dummy and return a spade. When East played low, South put up the queen, and West found himself in the soup. He had to win and had to return spades. No matter what he did, he could win only two spade tricks, and South was bound to make his contract.

West should have set the contract before South could win a trick. South had bid spades, and West could see eight spades in his own hand and the dummy. Obviously, East was short and could ruff the third round.

West should have laid down the ace and king of spades as soon as he saw the dummy. Then a spade ruff would have set the contract.

Two Are Rescued

Provincetown, Mass., July 25 (AP)—A father and son, overcome by carbon monoxide fumes aboard their 44-foot sloop, were rescued off Cape Cod Light, North Truro, by the coast guard yesterday. Edward F. Coombs, 64, of Verona, N. J., his son Kingsland, 37, and Earl K. Bassett of Chappaqua, N. Y., set out from Vineyard Haven late yesterday for Provincetown. When Bassett found the two men unconscious today he signalled to shore for help, and a coast guardsman was put aboard to navigate the sloop.

Votes in Election

Mrs. Vera Buchanan, widow of the late Congressman Frank Buchanan, casts her ballot at McKeesport, Pa., in 33rd Congressional District special election to fill office left vacant by her husband's death. The 48-year-old woman campaigned vigorously for the office on the Democratic ticket, opposing Republican Clifford W. Flegal, 30, McKeesport city controller. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Die Suddenly

New York, July 25 (AP)—A Queens man and wife, married 35 years, died within an hour of each other last night. Arthur Lazarus, 55, a sales manager, of 144-45 Sanford avenue, Flushing, telephoned for an ambulance saying his wife, Minnie, 53, was suffering a severe asthma attack. As Lazarus held open the door of his home so stretcher bearers could carry his wife to a Flushing Hospital ambulance, he died apparently of a heart attack.

Opening lead—♥ A

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The bidding of the opponents sometimes tells you to open a trump. For example, dummy may deny one suit bid by his partner and raise another suit with enthusiasm. That sort of bidding usually indicates ability to ruff the denied suit, in which case the defenders may have to lead trumps at every opportunity in order to get their tricks.

In today's hand the bidding sounded just like that to West. As it turned out, however, he should have trusted his eyes as well as his ears.

When West opened the ace of hearts, a very reasonable opening lead because of dummy's bidding, he had the chance to see that dummy was not short in spades. Staring West in the face were three small spades.

In spite of this West failed to change his plan. He continued with a second trump, whereupon declarer, as bridge jargon so elegantly puts it, wrapped four hearts around West's neck.

South won the second round of trumps in his hand, cashed his clubs and the ace of diamonds, and crossed to the king of diamonds to discard a spade on the ace of clubs. He completed the stripping process by ruffing dummy's last diamond.

Now he could lead a trump to dummy and return a spade. When East played low, South put up the queen, and West found himself in the soup. He had to win and had to return spades. No matter what he did, he could win only two spade tricks, and South was bound to make his contract.

West should have set the contract before South could win a trick. South had bid spades, and West could see eight spades in his own hand and the dummy. Obviously, East was short and could ruff the third round.

West should have laid down the ace and king of spades as soon as he saw the dummy. Then a spade ruff would have set the contract.

Two Are Rescued

Provincetown, Mass., July 25 (AP)—A father and son, overcome by carbon monoxide fumes aboard their 44-foot sloop, were rescued off Cape Cod Light, North Truro, by the coast guard yesterday. Edward F. Coombs, 64, of Verona, N. J., his son Kingsland, 37, and Earl K. Bassett of Chappaqua, N. Y., set out from Vineyard Haven late yesterday for Provincetown. When Bassett found the two men unconscious today he signalled to shore for help, and a coast guardsman was put aboard to navigate the sloop.

Oldest Danish Tombstone

Copenhagen (UP) — Excavations on a grassy islet in the north of Denmark have provided evidence for archaeologists that human sacrifices took place at a distinguished lady's funeral there 3,000 to 4,000 years ago. The finds date from between the stone and the bronze age. About 1800 B. C. the islet was used as a burial ground. It was found that an adult woman and a 12 or 14-year-old girl were buried together. Many bronze bracelets and rings indicated that the woman was of high birth. Across the feet of the two lay, in a cramped position, the body of a murdered male slave, killed as a propitiary sacrifice to ward off disease from the remaining members of the community. One of the stones, forming the lid of the "coffin," bore the so-called sun sign—a wheel with four spokes. This is the oldest tombstone ever found in Denmark.

Italian Minister Ill

Held for Car Theft

New York, July 25 (AP)—Four youths were arrested on Pelham Parkway, the Bronx, last night by police who reported finding them joy-riding in a stolen automobile with the lights turned off. Booked for grand larceny at the Westchester avenue station were Morton Breier, 17, of 679 Waring avenue; Eugene Warek, 16, of 2504 Olinville avenue, and Lawrence Gold, 16, of 2320 Bronx Park East, all Bronx. The 15-year-old youth was charged with juvenile delinquency. Police said the car was stolen Sunday night from in front of the home of its owner, George Thorem, of 2535 Kruger avenue, the Bronx.

Giraudoux Fantasy Lifeless; Woodstock Children Steal Show

David Lifson's production of a contemporary French fantasy, The Enchanted, by Jean Giraudoux, struggled through a lifeless opening last night at the Woodstock Playhouse, with much to condemn, and little to praise.

The Enchanted, perhaps because it suffers from translation, is a poor vehicle, a garbled mixture of Alice in Wonderland, A Midsummer Night's Dream, and Gulliver's Travels. Unfortunately, it has little of those three English masterpieces' charm. Giraudoux has taken it upon himself to comment philosophically on all of life, death, the finite and the infinite. He has interwoven this colossal theme with satire on government, and, more particularly, democratic bureaucracy. It might have been vastly amusing in the original French. In English, it is not.

Boris Marshalov should have been a wonderful inspector, but last night, he appeared to ad lib through most of the show.

The audience's keenest moments of amusement and pleasure were the work of seven small Woodstockers, who literally stole the show: Nancy Kline, Marilyn Wolven, Carol Mitchell, Deborah Bersin, Maida Gordon, Libby Lee, and Hannah Barth. Cast as the sixth grade in a small provincial French town, they were fun to watch every minute they were on stage.

Outstanding Adults

Outstanding in adult roles were Will Davis as the doctor, Lauris Lambert as Isabel, the bewitched school teacher, and Van Williams as the supervisor, her flesh and blood lover.

Willis Claire and Conrad Hamanaka as the first and second executioners, provided a few moments of a very real entertainment.

Also appearing last night were Dorothy McLaughlin as Armande Mangebois, with Anna Leonard as Leonide, her deaf sister. They, too, breathed life into their brief appearances.

In retrospect, The Enchanted is a long play, with spotty timing. John MacGregor's sets, with decor by Jean Laurain, were charming. The Enchanted should have been, but wasn't.—P.B.

IMPULSES NO DOUBT FRIENDLY

A mother writes: "Wretched as I feel over this situation, I'm going to risk having you tell me I was wrong—I have to know! When my daughter's engagement was announced I invited her future in-laws for Sunday: The parents and three unmarried children at home to midday dinner and the three married children and their families to join us all for buffet supper in the evening. My invitation was refused by all of them, the excuse given in each case being 'other plans.' I feel it was a decided snub. Yet my daughter says they are nice to her. What is your opinion and who now takes the next step?"

There is no rule by which I can answer this, other than by making a guess and that is that your plan was too exhausting in its implication for today's habitual brevity. By this I mean that the typical family of today—with the most friendly intentions—would be appalled at the thought of an endurance marathan from midday dinner through supper. In spite of the fact that your own intentions were obviously kind and hospitable, it may very well have struck fear to the hearts of those whose endurance is merely average. The next step is, of course, theirs.

"Mr." or "Dr."

Dear Mrs. Post: Should my family have the title Doctor engraved in front of my fiance's name on the wedding invitations? He is a Ph.D. and is rather generally called Doctor. He himself does not use it except in connection with his work. But what about us?

Answer: He himself has shown that he prefers "Mr." on social occasions.

Tea and Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the difference between a tea and a reception and which would be the better term to use for a party of forty or fifty in honor of one of the officers of an organization to which I belong?

Answer: The difference is in the elaboration of the collation. If nothing is being served but tea and sandwiches and cake, call it a tea. If you are serving wines and an elaborate buffet, it is a reception.

Nuptials Are Held For Shokan Man

Miss Helen Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodman of Floral Park, L. I., was married to Morton Hendrickson, Jr., of Shokan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson, Saturday, July 21, at 2 p. m. The marriage was solemnized in St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church, Floral Park. A reception followed in the garden of the bride's home.

The bride wore a princess gown with a lace bodice and a bouffant tulle skirt. Her veil was shoulder-length, and she carried a prayer book covered with an old fashioned bouquet of white orchids.

The bride's honor attendant, her sister Carol, wore an aqua gown, and carried tea roses. Edwin Secor of Shokan was best man.

Following a brief wedding trip the groom, a paratrooper in the 503rd Airborne Division, will return to Camp Campbell, Ky., where he recently won his wings.

Giraudoux Fantasy Lifeless; Woodstock Children Steal Show

David Lifson's production of a contemporary French fantasy, The Enchanted, by Jean Giraudoux, struggled through a lifeless opening last night at the Woodstock Playhouse, with much to condemn, and little to praise.

The Enchanted, perhaps because it suffers from translation, is a poor vehicle, a garbled mixture of Alice in Wonderland, A Midsummer Night's Dream, and Gulliver's Travels. Unfortunately, it has little of those three English masterpieces' charm. Giraudoux has taken it upon himself to comment philosophically on all of life, death, the finite and the infinite. He has interwoven this colossal theme with satire on government, and, more particularly, democratic bureaucracy. It might have been vastly amusing in the original French. In English, it is not.

Boris Marshalov should have been a wonderful inspector, but last night, he appeared to ad lib through most of the show.

The audience's keenest moments of amusement and pleasure were the work of seven small Woodstockers, who literally stole the show: Nancy Kline, Marilyn Wolven, Carol Mitchell, Deborah Bersin, Maida Gordon, Libby Lee, and Hannah Barth. Cast as the sixth grade in a small provincial French town, they were fun to watch every minute they were on stage.

Outstanding Adults

Outstanding in adult roles were Will Davis as the doctor, Lauris Lambert as Isabel, the bewitched school teacher, and Van Williams as the supervisor, her flesh and blood lover.

Willis Claire and Conrad Hamanaka as the first and second executioners, provided a few moments of a very real entertainment.

Also appearing last night were Dorothy McLaughlin as Armande Mangebois, with Anna Leonard as Leonide, her deaf sister. They, too, breathed life into their brief appearances.

In retrospect, The Enchanted is a long play, with spotty timing. John MacGregor's sets, with decor by Jean Laurain, were charming. The Enchanted should have been, but wasn't.—P.B.

IMPULSES NO DOUBT FRIENDLY

A mother writes: "Wretched as I feel over this situation, I'm going to risk having you tell me I was wrong—I have to know! When my daughter's engagement was announced I invited her future in-laws for Sunday: The parents and three unmarried children at home to midday dinner and the three married children and their families to join us all for buffet supper in the evening. My invitation was refused by all of them, the excuse given in each case being 'other plans.' I feel it was a decided snub. Yet my daughter says they are nice to her. What is your opinion and who now takes the next step?"

There is no rule by which I can answer this, other than by making a guess and that is that your plan was too exhausting in its implication for today's habitual brevity. By this I mean that the typical family of today—with the most friendly intentions—would be appalled at the thought of an endurance marathan from midday dinner through supper. In spite of the fact that your own intentions were obviously kind and hospitable, it may very well have struck fear to the hearts of those whose endurance is merely average. The next step is, of course, theirs.

"Mr." or "Dr."

Dear Mrs. Post: Should my family have the title Doctor engraved in front of my fiance's name on the wedding invitations? He is a Ph.D. and is rather generally called Doctor. He himself does not use it except in connection with his work. But what about us?

Answer: He himself has shown that he prefers "Mr." on social occasions.

Tea and Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the difference between a tea and a reception and which would be the better term to use for a party of forty or fifty in honor of one of the officers of an organization to which I belong?

Answer: The difference is in the elaboration of the collation. If nothing is being served but tea and sandwiches and cake, call it a tea. If you are serving wines and an elaborate buffet, it is a reception.

Should a gentleman walk on the curb side when accompanied by a lady? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-15, "Manners in Public," includes an answer to the above question. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Nuptials Are Held For Shokan Man

Miss Helen Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodman of Floral Park, L. I., was married to Morton Hendrickson, Jr., of Shokan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson, Saturday, July 21, at 2 p. m. The marriage was solemnized in St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church, Floral Park. A reception followed in the garden of the bride's home.

The bride wore a princess gown with a lace bodice and a bouffant tulle skirt. Her veil was shoulder-length, and she carried a prayer book covered with an old fashioned bouquet of white orchids.

The bride's honor attendant, her sister Carol, wore an aqua gown, and carried tea roses. Edwin Secor of Shokan was best man.

Following a brief wedding trip the groom, a paratrooper in the 503rd Airborne Division, will return to Camp Campbell, Ky., where he recently won his wings.

Mrs. W. McNamee Is Little Gardens Club Speaker on Friday

Speaker at the Little Gardens Club's meeting last Friday held at the Lake Katrine summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Snyder, was Mrs. William McNamee. Her paper was entitled Fruit That Is Also Flesh.

The cranberry, she explained, once associated with Thanksgiving and Christmas, is quickly growing into year-around popularity. It has come into its own as both a nutritive and delicious fruit.

Cranberries, she continued, are the only native American fruit. The Indians used them abundantly by pounding them into meat and then drying the mixture like pemmican to provide a complete diet. Dried cranberry meat is used extensively by Arctic explorers, and today the U. S. Army is experimenting with cranberries as a dietary component of the Alaskan soldier's rations.

Cranberries, Mrs. McNamee told club members, are grown on the east coast in New Jersey and Cape Cod, and on the west coast in Oregon and Washington. Principally, however, they are cultivated in Wisconsin near Shell Lake, where some of the world's largest cranberry bogs are found. In this state there are a few bogs in Ulster and Sullivan counties.

Cultivation Under Water

Cultivation of the Wisconsin bogs is done largely under water, a method made possible by low humidity and drying winds. Experts, according to the speaker, claim under water harvesting almost eliminates harvesting losses.

To grow cranberries, a bog or marsh is often cleared of brush and trees, rolled/ smooth as a lawn, and patterned with irrigation ditches which are fed from a nearby body of water.

Next the bog is covered with clean, loam-free white sand, four to six inches deep, which has to be renewed from time to time. Next, healthy cuttings are set out by hand, and hemlock-like vines spread over the bog. Upright shoots, four to 10 inches high, grow from the vines.

Beehives Brought In

When the cranberry is in flower, beehives are brought to the bog's edge. Bog owners also build swallow houses nearby, using the swallow as a pest exterminator.

Cranberries, which were originally known as "crane berries" have a blossom shaped like a crane's neck and bill. The berry itself is protected from water damage by a waxy coating.

Meanwhile, during harvesting, the plants often must be flooded to protect them against frost, Mrs. McNamee concluded.

Refreshments were served following the meeting by Mrs. Claude Twombly, and Mrs. Arthur Quimby.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucille Johnson of Wappingers Falls, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow taffeta gown with a matching net yoke and overskirt, and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

Mrs. Grace Mackey and Mrs. Viva Mackey, both of Wappingers Falls, served as bridesmaids. They were dressed in rose and aqua gowns, made like that of the matron of honor, and carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

William Raftery of Ulster Park was best man for the groom. Ushering were Richard Johnson of Wappingers Falls, brother of the bride, and Van Mackey of Wappingers Falls.

Following the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at 199 Croton avenue, Ossining. Mr. and Mrs. Gaston then left for their wedding trip, with the bride wearing an aqua suit, white accessories, and a white gladioli corsage. The couple will make their home in Ulster Park.

Woodstock Quartet To Present Varied Program at St. James

The Woodstock String Quartet, in its second Kingston concert of the season tonight at St. James parish hall will present a program based on contrasts, and featuring classical, contemporary, romantic and descriptive compositions.

Opening tonight's program will be Beethoven's String Trio in G major for violin, viola and cello, which was written when the composer was a young man of 27. His style, in this period, was modelled after the principles of Haydn and Mozart, although handled with new power, and beauty of content. It will be played by Teresa Testa, violin, Carolyn Voigt, viola, and Engelbert Roentgen, cello.

The String Quartet's second selection tonight will be Rio de Janeiro-born Villa-Lobos' Duo for Violin and Viola. The composer, one of the great figures in contemporary music today, with an almost unbelievable output of over 1,400 works in all forms, proves clearly in his Duo that he has experimented with unusual combinations. It will be performed by Carolyn Voigt, viola, and Sidney Harth, violin.

Following intermission the group will play Smetana's string quartet, From My Life, which, written in 1876, is romantic in character. The first movement depicts Smetana's love of art in his youth, his search for the imaginary, and a premonition of his approaching illness. The second movement refers to the carefree days of his youth. It also typifies his passionate love of dancing in a period when he composed many dances. In the third movement he portrays his idyllic love for the young girl who later became his wife, while in the fourth movement he rejoices over his recognition and success. A sudden sustained high E symbolizes the noise the composer heard prior to his deafness, followed by painful recollections of his youth, and hope giving way to resignation.

Next week (August 1), Inez Carroll, pianist, will appear with the quartet as guest artist.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott of Hurley announce the marriage of their daughter, Marilyn, Saturday, July 21, in this city to David S. Following a wedding trip to New England, the couple will make their home in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. W. McNamee Is Little Gardens Club Speaker on Friday

Speaker at the Little Gardens Club's meeting last Friday held at the Lake Katrine summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Snyder, was Mrs. William McNamee. Her paper was entitled Fruit That Is Also Flesh.

The cranberry, she explained, once associated with Thanksgiving and Christmas, is quickly growing into year-around popularity. It has come into its own as both a nutritive and delicious fruit.

Cranberries, she continued, are the only native American fruit. The Indians used them abundantly by pounding them into meat and then drying the mixture like pemmican to provide a complete diet. Dried cranberry meat is used extensively by Arctic explorers, and today the U. S. Army is experimenting with cranberries as a dietary component of the Alaskan soldier's rations.

Cranberries, Mrs. McNamee told club members, are grown on the east coast in New Jersey and Cape Cod, and on the west coast in Oregon and Washington. Principally, however, they are cultivated in Wisconsin near Shell Lake, where some of the world's largest cranberry bogs are found. In this state there are a few bogs in Ulster and Sullivan counties.

Cultivation Under Water

Cultivation of the Wisconsin bogs is done largely under water, a method made possible by low humidity and drying winds. Experts, according to the speaker, claim under water harvesting almost eliminates harvesting losses.

To grow cranberries, a bog or marsh is often cleared of brush and trees, rolled/ smooth as a lawn, and patterned with irrigation ditches which are fed from a nearby body of water.

Next the bog is covered with clean, loam-free white sand, four to six inches deep, which has to be renewed from time to time. Next, healthy cuttings are set out by hand, and hemlock-like vines spread over the bog. Upright shoots, four to 10 inches high, grow from the vines.

Beehives Brought In

When the cranberry is in flower, beehives are brought to the bog's edge. Bog owners also build swallow houses nearby, using the swallow as a pest exterminator.

Cranberries, which were originally known as "crane berries" have a blossom shaped like a crane's neck and bill. The berry itself is protected from water damage by a waxy coating.

Meanwhile, during harvesting, the plants often must be flooded to protect them against frost, Mrs. McNamee concluded.

Refreshments were served following the meeting by Mrs. Claude Twombly, and Mrs. Arthur Quimby.

Woodstock Quartet To Present Varied Program at St. James

The Woodstock String Quartet, in its second Kingston concert of the season tonight at St. James parish hall will present a program based on contrasts, and featuring classical, contemporary, romantic and descriptive compositions.

Opening tonight's program will be Beethoven's String Trio in G major for violin, viola and cello, which was written when the composer was a young man of 27. His style, in this period, was modelled after the principles of Haydn and Mozart, although handled with new power, and beauty of content. It will be played by Teresa Testa, violin, Carolyn Voigt, viola, and Engelbert Roentgen, cello.

The String Quartet's second selection tonight will be Rio de Janeiro-born Villa-Lobos' Duo for Violin and Viola. The composer, one of the great figures in contemporary music today, with an almost unbelievable output of over 1,400 works in all forms, proves clearly in his Duo that he has experimented with unusual combinations. It will be performed by Carolyn Voigt, viola, and Sidney Harth, violin.

Following intermission the group will play Smetana's string quartet, From My Life, which, written in 1876, is romantic in character. The first movement depicts Smetana's love of art in his youth, his search for the imaginary, and a premonition of his approaching illness. The second movement refers to the carefree days of his youth. It also typifies his passionate love of dancing in a period when he composed many dances. In the third movement he portrays his idyllic love for the young girl who later became his wife, while in the fourth movement he rejoices over his recognition and success. A sudden sustained high E symbolizes the noise the composer heard prior to his deafness, followed by painful recollections of his youth, and hope giving way to resignation.

Next week (August 1), Inez Carroll, pianist, will appear with the quartet as guest artist.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott of Hurley announce the marriage of their daughter, Marilyn, Saturday, July 21, in this city to David S. Rich, Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Rich, and stepson of Mrs. Ruth Rich of Hurley. Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals John Loughran officiated at the ceremony. Following a wedding trip to New England, the couple will make their home in Poughkeepsie.

Colonials Play Gloversville Here Tonight; Sign New Rookie Catcher

'Game Night' Features Set At the Stadium

Dave Ocarr Newest Addition to Roster

This is "Game Night" at municipal stadium and the presence of Al Barillari and the high-flying Gloversville Glovers makes it fair game any night.

In addition, the Colonials have added a rookie catcher to their roster to spell Manager John Sosh. The newcomer is Dave Ocarr, a rookie without previous professional experience.

A graduate of the University of Rochester, Ocarr is said to be a standout prospect in whom the Pittsburgh Pirates have a more than passing interest.

Only a half game out of the first division, the Colonials are battening their roster for the stretch run. At the moment the club is only a length behind the Amsterdam Rugmakers who seem to be having plenty of trouble in the second half.

Features Planned

"Game Night" activities will include the usual fungo hitting, home run hitting, egg throwing, throwing into the barrel at second and other interesting features.

Manager Sosh said this morning he was undecided on his starting pitcher for tonight, although Tony Piacente and Charlie Ayers are ready.

Manager Barillari's swaggering crew will introduce a couple of new players in Skovenski, a centerfielder, and Arroya, shortstop. Both joined the club a few days ago and have played a vital part in the Glovers' pennant aspirations.

In Jim McMillan, the big right fielder, Barillari has one of the prize prospects in the circuit. McMillan is batting around .375 and can deliver the long ball.

Added Colonial strength is possible in the person of Eugene Zubrinski, who played in the Class B Interstate League in 1950 and was with Kingston and Watertown in the defunct Border League this year.

When the Border League folded, Zubrinski asked to be placed on the voluntarily retired list, but Colonial officials have been trying to make a deal with Watertown to bring Zubrinski to Kingston.

Manager Sosh, who had plenty of opportunity to watch Zubrinski in the Border League, is high on the infielder-outfielder and expressed hope that Zubrinski would latch on with the Colonials.

The return to town of the Colonials finds Big Sam Piacentino apparently striding toward a good batting comeback. He has been stroking the ball well in recent games and has boosted his anemic average several points.

Piacentino was a victim of an extra-base barrage in Amsterdam a couple of nights ago, but Manager Sosh is still high on Big Sam as a flinger and expects to use him in regular rotation.

The next-four star attraction is the fireworks and ball game next Saturday night.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Gloversville Glovers moved back into second place in the Canadian-American League standings the hard way—they shut out the loop-leading Oneonta Red Sox last night, 5-0, behind Lefty Jesse Baro's six-hitter.

The Pittsfield Electrics, who had occupied the second spot, were downed, 7-4, by the fourth-place Amsterdam Rugmakers in the only other regular league game played.

In an exhibition game, the Rome Colonels fell, 8-7, before the American League's Philadelphia Athletics but Rome's Joe Pancoe out-homered the A's Gus Zernial, who leads the American circuit in four-base blows. Pancoe banged two and Zernial got one.

At Gloversville, Baro, who is in his first year of organized ball, struck out five Red Sox and walked three to set down the league-leaders. Righthander Jim De Frederico was the loser.

Amsterdam's attack at Pittsfield was sparked by first baseman John Jones and shortstop Ossie Barham. Jones smashed a homer in the fifth with none on, and batted in a run on an infield out. Barham got three singles in four trips.

Lefthander Dick Marshall got credit for the win, and Bob Jefferies was the loser.

Pancoe's homers at Rome were collected off John Kucab, the winning pitcher, in the sixth and eighth innings. He also got a single, and drove in a total of five runs. Zernial's big blast came in the seventh with none on. Frank Holland took the loss.

Newell Balks Bosox With Seven-Hitter

Taking advantage of loose play by the Red Sox, the Dodgers pounded out a 9 to 2 victory in Tuesday's Little League feature at St. Mary's Field.

Glenn Newell, who balanced his pitching record at 3 wins and 3 losses, scattered seven hits effectively, but the Dodgers had better luck with their seven off Lorenzo Giannuzzo and Bill Cragan. They were aided and abetted by five Red Sox miscues.

Newell lost his shutout in the fifth when the Red Sox scored a single tally. They picked up another in the bottom of the sixth.

Led by "Fibber" Davitt, the fancy dan first sacker, the Dodgers put together three-run rallies in the third and fourth innings.

Davitt sent his average soaring into the .500 brackets with a double and two singles and little Nickie Kearney, the peppery third sacker, stroked two singles. Dick Hornbeck and Bill Cragan each had a pair of hits for the losers.

Three-Run Rally

In the Dodger third, Nick Kearney walked, Davitt blooped a single to center and Ray Reilly strolled to load the bases. Tom Hallinan's error on Pete Showers' grounder permitted Kearney and Davitt to score. Bob Dudick and Charlie DeCicco drew successive walks to force in the third run of the inning.

Bob Pratt came up with some beautiful plays at shortstop for the Dodgers. The sixth-inning rally by the Yankees Monday night against the Giants still had the fans talking. Manager Charlie Higgins has experimented with several batting orders and lineup changes but can't seem to find the winning range with the Red Sox.

No game this evening, but schedule resumes on Thursday and Friday with another doubleheader on Saturday.

Yanks, Giants Place Four Players Each

District Tourney Here Next Week

The first annual all-star Little League selections were announced today by the Kingston Athletic Association, sponsors of the 1951 Little League in Kingston.

A 14-man squad, selected by the four managers in the league, will represent the local league in the sectional competition scheduled to start in Kingston next week.

The Yankees and Giants each placed four men on the team, with the Dodgers and Red Sox each landing three places.

Robert Umpleby, president of the Kingston Athletic Association, who has done a great job in promoting the local Little League setup, has been appointed district tournament director and will work in conjunction with President Albert S. Houghton of the Canadian-American League, the area director.

Four Hurlers Named

The four pitchers named were Anthony Turck of the undefeated Yankee squad; Glen Newell and Ernie Madison of the Dodgers and Lorenzo Giannuzzo of the Red Sox.

The two catchers are hard-hitting Ronnie Ashdown and Peter Blanschan. The former is a Yankee receiver, while Blanschan catches for the Giants.

The remainder of the 14-player setup includes Tommy Davitt, Seymour Semilof, Gene Nagele, Anthony Amato, Joe Hoffman, William Cragan, Nick Kearney and Richard Hornbeck.

President Umpleby, in announcing the selections, said:

"The players for the all-star team were picked on an impartial basis and with an eye toward all-round achievement on the diamond."

Subs Encouraged

The KAA president also urged all substitutes on the all-star squad and the regular league teams to put in an appearance at the ball park and at the practice workouts.

"The subs are part of the team just like the regulars," he said, "and they will share in all awards that are to be made at the end of the season. Every boy who has been selected for a team should show up at the ball park. That's the only place where he can gain the experience that he will need when he moves into the regular lineup next year."

Umpleby said that St. Mary's Field would be refurbished for the district Little League tournament and additional bleacher facilities had been promised by the city.

Colonials Play Gloversville Here Tonight; Sign New Rookie Catcher

'Game Night' Features Set At the Stadium

Dave Ocarr Newest Addition to Roster

This is "Game Night" at municipal stadium and the presence of Al Barillari and the high-flying Gloversville Glovers makes it fair game any night.

In addition, the Colonials have added a rookie catcher to their roster to spell Manager John Sosh. The newcomer is Dave Ocarr, a rookie without previous professional experience.

A graduate of the University of Rochester, Ocarr is said to be a standout prospect in whom the Pittsburgh Pirates have a more than passing interest.

Only a half game out of the first division, the Colonials are battening their roster for the stretch run. At the moment the club is only a length behind the Amsterdam Rugmakers who seem to be having plenty of trouble in the second half.

Features Planned

"Game Night" activities will include the usual fungo hitting, home run hitting, egg throwing, throwing into the barrel at second and other interesting features.

Manager Sosh said this morning he was undecided on his starting pitcher for tonight, although Tony Piacente and Charlie Ayers are ready.

Manager Barillari's swaggering crew will introduce a couple of new players in Skovenski, a centerfielder, and Arroya, shortstop. Both joined the club a few days ago and have played a vital part in the Glovers' pennant aspirations.

In Jim McMillan, the big right fielder, Barillari has one of the prize prospects in the circuit. McMillan is batting around .375 and can deliver the long ball.

Added Colonial strength is possible in the person of Eugene Zubrinski, who played in the Class B Interstate League in 1950 and was with Kingston and Watertown in the defunct Border League this year.

When the Border League folded, Zubrinski asked to be placed on the voluntarily retired list, but Colonial officials have been trying to make a deal with Watertown to bring Zubrinski to Kingston.

Manager Sosh, who had plenty of opportunity to watch Zubrinski in the Border League, is high on the infielder-outfielder and expressed hope that Zubrinski would latch on with the Colonials.

The return to town of the Colonials finds Big Sam Piacentino apparently striding toward a good batting comeback. He has been stroking the ball well in recent games and has boosted his anemic average several points.

Piacentino was a victim of an extra-base barrage in Amsterdam a couple of nights ago, but Manager Sosh is still high on Big Sam as a flinger and expects to use him in regular rotation.

Last Saturday's turnout of 543 paid encouraged KBC officials, who anticipate larger crowds as the tight second half race develops.

The next-four star attraction is the fireworks and ball game next Saturday night.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Gloversville Glovers moved back into second place in the Canadian-American League standings the hard way—they shut out the loop-leading Oneonta Red Sox last night, 5-0, behind Lefty Jesse Baro's six-hitter.

The Pittsfield Electrics, who had occupied the second spot, were downed, 7-4, by the fourth-place Amsterdam Rugmakers in the only other regular league game played.

In an exhibition game, the Rome Colonels fell, 8-7, before the American League's Philadelphia Athletics but Rome's Joe Pancoe out-homered the A's Gus Zernial, who leads the American circuit in four-base blows. Pancoe banged two and Zernial got one.

At Gloversville, Baro, who is in his first year of organized ball, struck out five Red Sox and walked three to set down the league-leaders. Righthander Jim De Frederico was the loser.

Amsterdam's attack at Pittsfield was sparked by first baseman John Jones and shortstop Ossie Barham. Jones smashed a homer in the fifth with none on, and batted in a run on an infield out. Barham got three singles in four trips.

Lefthander Dick Marshall got credit for the win, and Bob Jefferies was the loser.

Pancoe's homers at Rome were collected off John Kucab, the winning pitcher, in the sixth and eighth innings. He also got a single, and drove in a total of five runs. Zernial's big blast came in the seventh with none on. Frank Holland took the loss.

Newell Balks Bosox With Seven-Hitter

Taking advantage of loose play by the Red Sox, the Dodgers pounded out a 9 to 2 victory in Tuesday's Little League feature at St. Mary's Field.

Glenn Newell, who balanced his pitching record at 3 wins and 3 losses, scattered seven hits effectively, but the Dodgers had better luck with their seven off Lorenzo Giannuzzo and Bill Cragan. They were aided and abetted by five Red Sox miscues.

Newell lost his shutout in the fifth when the Red Sox scored a single tally. They picked up another in the bottom of the sixth.

Led by "Fibber" Davitt, the fancy dan first sacker, the Dodgers put together three-run rallies in the third and fourth innings.

Davitt sent his average soaring into the .500 brackets with a double and two singles and little Nickie Kearney, the peppery third sacker, stroked two singles. Dick Hornbeck and Bill Cragan each had a pair of hits for the losers.

Three-Run Rally

In the Dodger third, Nick Kearney walked, Davitt blooped a single to center and Ray Reilly strolled to load the bases. Tom Hallinan's error on Pete Showers' grounder permitted Kearney and Davitt to score. Bob Dudick and Charlie DeCicco drew successive walks to force in the third run of the inning.

Bob Pratt came up with some beautiful plays at shortstop for the Dodgers. The sixth-inning rally by the Yankees Monday night against the Giants still had the fans talking. Manager Charlie Higgins has experimented with several batting orders and lineup changes but can't seem to find the winning range with the Red Sox.

No game this evening, but schedule resumes on Thursday and Friday with another doubleheader on Saturday.

Yanks, Giants Place Four Players Each

District Tourney Here Next Week

The first annual all-star Little League selections were announced today by the Kingston Athletic Association, sponsors of the 1951 Little League in Kingston.

A 14-man squad, selected by the four managers in the league, will represent the local league in the sectional competition scheduled to start in Kingston next week.

The Yankees and Giants each placed four men on the team, with the Dodgers and Red Sox each landing three places.

Robert Umpleby, president of the Kingston Athletic Association, who has done a great job in promoting the local Little League setup, has been appointed district tournament director and will work in conjunction with President Albert S. Houghton of the Canadian-American League, the area director.

Four Hurlers Named

The four pitchers named were Anthony Turck of the undefeated Yankee squad; Glen Newell and Ernie Madison of the Dodgers and Lorenzo Giannuzzo of the Red Sox.

The two catchers are hard-hitting Ronnie Ashdown and Peter Blanschan. The former is a Yankee receiver, while Blanschan catches for the Giants.

The remainder of the 14-player setup includes Tommy Davitt, Seymour Semilof, Gene Nagele, Anthony Amato, Joe Hoffman, William Cragan, Nick Kearney and Richard Hornbeck.

Little League managers will put the stars through several workouts this week in preparation for next week's tournament.

President Umpleby, in announcing the selections, said:

"The players for the all-star team were picked on an impartial basis and with an eye toward all-round achievement on the diamond."

Subs Encouraged

The KAA president also urged all substitutes on the all-star squad and the regular league teams to put in an appearance at the ball park and at the practice workouts.

"The subs are part of the team just like the regulars," he said, "and they will share in all awards that are to be made at the end of the season. Every boy who has been selected for a team should show up at the ball park. That's the only place where he can gain the experience that he will need when he moves into the regular lineup next year."

Umpleby said that St. Mary's Field would be refurbished for the district Little League tournament and additional bleacher facilities had been promised by the city.

Wednesday's Schedule

All postponed games during regular season will be played today.

It took a long time for City Softball League teams to do something about Beichert's unbeaten march through the circuit. But when it happened it was a lulu. And it came after 13 in a row.

Pounding Joe Enright for 16 hits, while John Kozlowski was restricting the unbeaten league leaders with five scattered safeties, Sickler's Delivery hammered out a 10 to 0 victory.

It was the first setback for the regular league champions after 13 straight successes.

The Deliverymen nicked Enright for two runs in the first inning and, after three scoreless frames, racked up a trio in the fourth and five in the sixth.

The score:

Sickler's	200 035 x—	10	16	0

Joe Enright and Walt Matheus; John Kozlowski and Smith.

Position play for the Shaughnessy round robin has been completed and the four qualifying teams are Beicherts, American Legion, Subway Grill, perennial champions, and Sickler's.

Beicherts rebounded from their first loss to blank the second-place American Legion, 5 to 0, behind the one-hit pitching of Don Weeks. The winners raked Ed Decker for 10 hits and cinched the game with a three-run rally in the first.

Andy Murphy's single with two out in the first ruined Weeks' bid for a no-hitter. The Beichert ace faced only 22 batters in the seven innings. Beicherts backed him with four snappy double plays.

The winners collected 14 hits off Charlie Dasher, including a home run by Bill Kitsos. Ronnie Scheffel went "3 for 4" and Morrissey came up with two hits. Scheffel cracked a triple but failed to touch first.

Draws Dr. Fred Holcomb As First Round Foe

Firing rounds of 36 and 35, defending champion Bill Van Aken won the qualifying medals honors for the 1951 Wiltwyck Golf Club championship with a 71.

The qualification round was restricted to the sixteen lowest handicap golfers, who played a qualifying round for position.

Leon Randall and Maurice Davenport, two former club champions, and strong threats to Van Aken's domination of the uptown links, carded 78 and 75, respectively.

Dr. George Rifenbary and J. Watson Bailey each had 77s and all other qualifiers were in the 80s.

Meets Holcomb

Van Aken drew Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., as his first round opponent. In their last meeting, Van Aken set a new amateur course record for Wiltwyck with a 67. This mark was later tied by Leon Randall in open competition.

Randall takes on rugged Bob Daley in his opening match. Bailey is paired against District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and Maurice Davenport goes against Bill Costello.

A record breaking field of 96, six full flights, will compete in this year's tournament at the Hurley avenue links.

Members who indicated a desire to play were alloted positions in flights according to their handicaps. Only the championship flight—based on the 16 lowest handicaps — played a qualifying round.

Hogan Hints Scandal At Another College

Merely Describes It as 'Near Eastern'

Peoria, Ill., July 25 (AP)—The college basketball betting scandal that has smeared New York and this cage-proud town today was expected to spread to a near eastern school.

Even as authorities sought to swell the list of five Bradley University bribe-accepting players in $8,800 payoff it was reported that New York District Attorney Frank Hogan was prepared to drag a school between here and New York into the mushrooming cage scandal.

Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant New York district attorney, disclosed that the vicious activities of gamblers had touched another unsuspected hinterland school.

O'Connor, who has been assisting in unearthing the surprising bribery at Bradley, one of the nation's top cage schools the past two years, declined to reveal the next school under suspicion.

"Just let us say that our investigation of the New York scandal led one team of investigators to this public eye within a day or two."

Meanwhile, five members of Bradley University basketball team were in technical custody for accepting bribes from gamblers.

They were All-American Gene Melchiorre, 23; William Mann, 24; Aaron Preece, 24; Charles (Bud) Grover, 22; and Jim Kelley, 21, who still has another year of competition at Bradley. The other four are out of school.

O'Connor said that two more Bradley players remain to be questioned, but it was believed neither was seriously implicated in the Bradley "fixers" which involved Bradley's 67-59 win over Washington State College, and Bradley's 77-74 triumph over Oregon State last Dec. 7. The "fix" was on a point-spread basis.

At New York, it was announced Nicholas (The Greek) Englisis, and his brother, Anthony, both of Brooklyn were under arrest for conspiring to fix two Bradley games. One involved a Bradley vs. Bowling Green (Ohio) game at Madison Square Garden in New York in the 1948-49 season, and a Bradley vs. St. Joseph game at Philadelphia in 1950. Neither game was under fire in the investigation here.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan who announced in New York the arrest of the two Englisis brothers, also said an alarm was put out for a third man. He was identified by police as Jack West, alias "Zip," 39.

Hogan's office said West was wanted on charges of bribery in connection with the case.

In connection with the Bradley-St. Joseph game, Coach Fordy Anderson of Bradley said that contest was the only one that might have aroused suspicion in his mind about his team being off the beam.

"I had a call from a Philadelphia newspaperman saying that something might be wrong in our game with St. Joseph," Anderson recalled.

"St. Joseph ran up a 21-3 score and I ordered a time-out. I talked to the players and asked if any had a phone call, or if anything was fishy. The kids seemed serious enough about the game, and we won 64-60. I didn't hear anything more about the game, so I forgot about it."

Seventeen years ago, Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown, tried out a six-inch putting cup after watching the top pros play the National Open where they acted like superstitious surveyors while putting for the regulation 4¼-inch hole:

Gene tried the idea at the old Miami-Biltmore course in Florida but the results caused him to crack: "Why put your neck out for a losing cause?" His plea for a larger cup fell on deaf ears.

So will the idea as revived by pro Ben Roman and golf chairman, John B. Lanigan of the Ardsley Country Club. We don't know how much time Sarazen spent on the idea, but we do know Roman and Lanigan were really enthused when they started out to set up a golf week. When it was all over, they were just as enthused. Their tabulating efforts showed that it takes less time to play the larger cups, about 35 minutes less a round for a foursome.

A six-inch cup could be a boon to golf. The idea might catch on some day with the public courses in the large cities. Did you ever try to play a public course on a Saturday or Sunday? In order to tee off before 9 a. m., you've got to report to the caddie master around 6 in the morning. A six-inch cup would enable more people to play the public course, the best place for a beginner to begin. It would lower strokes between 3 and 3½ per round.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Sarazen, one of the fastest players in big-time history, always frowned on dilatory tactics of the American hotshots on the greens. Crisp and concise, he seldom tarried on the greens.

"You don't have to be a surveyor or actor to be a good putter," the Squire says. "The average player can line up a putt quickly by approaching the ball from behind. By the time he arrives at the ball, he should have a pretty fair idea of how to stroke it."

In connection with putting surveyors, it will be interesting to note the reaction of the Ulster county amateur stars who will compete in the Father Herdegen Memorial.

The British system of putting will be used. It is designed to speed up play by eliminating the senseless waste of time consumed in marking balls on the greens.

As the British play it, the ball nearest the cup is putted first; then the next closest and so on. The player putts all the way out. There is no marking of balls on the greens, no trampling. The golfer who putts out near the cup must exercise common sense decency however, to stride between the line of the oncoming putts.

● The Nineteenth Hole . . . Literally:

Smart public relations directors for Canadian distilleries realize the natural association of their product with golf and do not hesitate to sponsor outstanding tournaments. The Seagrams people, for instance, increased the Canadian Open prize from $10,000 to $15,000.

American liquor business association with the underworld's scummiest bums has been the frequent unsavory revelation of the Kefauver investigation. In view of the traditional popularity of decent drinking in golf, the golf club members and managers wonder why reputable elements in liquor business are backward about identifying themselves with respectability.

Profits on the golfers' thirsts, as well as wisdom of being more favorably known by the company they keep, recommends that clean liquor companies give attention to their golf business where club membership committees select "the gentlemen of distinction."

In view of the Kefauver and Cairo disclosures, U. S. golf organizations now would have to shy away from liquor company championship sponsorship such as is okay in Canada.

The Metropolitan Open will be staged at the Forest Hill Field Club in Bloomfield, N. J., on Sept. 18-20. Bobby Locke's recent Australian tour with 61 exhibitions drew more than 35,000. Locke was under 70 score 26 times. Pete Cooper, who played the third round of the Empire State Open with Lloyd Mangrum and Alex Gerlak last summer, is pro at the Century Club in New York. Chick Harbert, the long driving Detroit pro, powered a ball 358 yards in the 1950 PGA driving championships. Harbert is renowned as the longest hitter among the big time pros, but for keeping the ball straight for distance Sam Snead still has no equal.

THE SCOREBOARD

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, so-so performers on the road, once again are strutting like peacocks before the home folks.

Both the Yanks and Red Sox, virtually tied for the lead, emerged with flying colors in the first brush with the contending Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox in the nip and tuck American League pennant race yesterday.

The Yanks, topping the Red Sox by three percentage points, opened a 19-game home stand by turning back the Indians, 3-2. The loss dumped the Indians out of a second place tie with the Red Sox into third place, one game behind the Yanks.

Boston launched a 21-game home stand by thrashing the slipping Chicago White Sox, 8-3. The defeat dropped the fourth place White Sox 3½ games back of New York.

In the remaining American League game the Detroit Tigers nicked the Washington Senators, 2-1.

Dodgers Hold Lead

Brooklyn, meanwhile, stayed 8½ games in front in the National League. The Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, in ten innings. The runner-up New York Giants edged the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, in ten innings while the Boston Braves downed the Cincinnati Reds, 6-1, and the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Philadelphia Phils, 9-5.

That old Yankee formula, airtight pitching and clutch hitting, brought the Bombers their fifth straight victory and their 28th in 37 games at the Stadium. The victory also was the Yanks' 12th straight over the Indians in New York.

Vic Raschi pitched a eight-hitter to post his 14th victory for the Yanks. Gene Woodling and Johnny Mize smashed home runs off Early Wynn to account for all of the Yanks' scoring.

Raschi, who got better as he went along, fanned 10 including Larry Doby and Luke Easter in the ninth to end the game with the tying and winnnig runs on base.

Leo Kiely, rookie lefthander up from Louisville, restricted the sagging White Sox to four hits as he turned in his second victory without a loss for the Red Sox. Kiely blanked Chicago until the eighth inning when Don Lenhardt followed two walks with his tenth home run of the season.

Stuart's Shutout

Marlin Stuart turned in his second straight six-hit victory as the Tigers nipped the Senators. Stuart lost his shutout when Clyde Kluttz singled home Sam Mele from second base with two out in the ninth.

Roy Campanella highlighted the Dodgers' victory over the Cubs. Campy socked a three-run homer to feature a four-run tenth inning rally. The blow was his 16th and came off Paul Minner. Gil Hodges sent the game into overtime for the Dodgers with his 29th homer in the eighth.

Sal Maglie became the National's first 14-game winner as the Giants beat the Pirates. Willie Mays singled home Al Dark from second with the deciding run in the tenth.

The third place St. Louis Cardinals, led by Stan Musial and Wally Westlake, pounded out 14 hits in beating the Phils. Musial drove in two runs on a homer, triple and a double. Westlake batted in three on a three-bagger and two singles.

Lefty Warren Spahn posted his 11th victory as the Braves broke up a close game at Cincinnati with a four run rally in the seventh. The big seventh broke a 1-1 tie and Walker Cooper added an insurance run with his 11th homer in the eighth.

Berlin — All-victorious touring American track and field team won fourth straight meet against German athletes, taking six of 10 events.

Runnersup Boost Own Skein to Five

Two winning streaks collided in the City Baseball League yesterday. The course of natural events dictated that one would be fractured; another would continue.

Chez Emile, a stout contender for the twilight contender, kept rolling with a decisive 7 to 3 victory over Jones Dairy. It was the Dairymen's first setback after five straight wins.

The Chezzie triumph was the fifth in a row for the second place tossers who are just a half game off the pace.

Joneses collected 11 hits off veteran Bud Swarthout but failed to come up with the big basehit in the clutch. The winners had nine blows off Tommy Fisher and five stolen bases at the expense of Hugo Knauert's ailing wing didn't hurt their cause.

This evening's contest sends Wiltwyck Motors, riding on a six-game winning streak, against Boulevard Gulf, with Gus McCormick opposing Bullet Bill Tierney.

Six different players came up with a brace of safeties, but the only extra base socks were doubles by Bud Scheffel, Sonny Barnes and Sal Misasi. Joe Benjamin, the Chez Emile catcher, knocked in a trio of tallies with two singles.

Messinger's Memos:

Tommy Maines and Sal Misasi made fine running catches in the outfield, while Sonny Barnes made a sparkling stop on Maines' hard smash in the sixth, holding Tom to a single on what would have been an easy double had it gotten by him. Joe Norton, the Chez Emile centerfielder, received a well-deserved hand from the fans for his great throw home to double Misasi in the sixth. It was one of the finest plays of the season and a key putout that broke the back of a big Jones threat . . .

Jack Schatzel and Ronnie Scheffel were both hit in the face by batted balls but neither was hurt seriously. "Daisy" was struck while pitching batting practice and Ronnie was the victim of a bad hop single by Carlino in the seventh. With Chez Emile runners running wild on the basepaths because of Knauert's sore arm, Tommy Fisher spent practically the whole game pitching from the stretch position. The race is narrowing down to a two-team struggle between Wiltwyck Motors and Chez Emile, with Boulevard Gulf conceded an outside chance of pulling up with the leaders. Most of the remaining games have an important bearing on the championship.

Southampton, N. Y.—National champion Art Larsen paced six of eight seeded players through first two rounds of Meadow Club tournament. Defending champion Earle Cochell and sixth seeded Sidney Schwartz lost.

Peoria, Ill.—Basketball scandal spread to mid-west as four Bradley University players, included All-America Gene Melchiorre, confessed taking bribes to control point spread.

All postponed games during regular season will be played today.

It took a long time for City Softball League teams to do something about Beichert's unbeaten march through the circuit. But when it happened it was a lulu. And it came after 13 in a row.

Pounding Joe Enright for 16 hits, while John Kozlowski was restricting the unbeaten league leaders with five scattered safeties, Sickler's Delivery hammered out a 10 to 0 victory.

It was the first setback for the regular league champions after 13 straight successes.

The Deliverymen nicked Enright for two runs in the first inning and, after three scoreless frames, racked up a trio in the fourth and five in the sixth.

The score:

Sickler's	200 035 x—	10	16	0

Joe Enright and Walt Matheus; John Kozlowski and Smith.

Position play for the Shaughnessy round robin has been completed and the four qualifying teams are Beicherts, American Legion, Subway Grill, perennial champions, and Sickler's.

Beicherts rebounded from their first loss to blank the second-place American Legion, 5 to 0, behind the one-hit pitching of Don Weeks. The winners raked Ed Decker for 10 hits and cinched the game with a three-run rally in the first.

Andy Murphy's single with two out in the first ruined Weeks' bid for a no-hitter. The Beichert ace faced only 22 batters in the seven innings. Beicherts backed him with four snappy double plays.

The score:

Tom Spada's two-hitter for Subway Grill blanked Chez Emile 10 to 0. Joe Scholar poled two doubles and Tommy Maines had a double and triple for the Subways. The winners collected 16 hits off Doug Harvey and scored in six of the seven innings.

Chez Emile 000 000 0— 0 0 4

Tom Spada and Joe Scholar; Doug Harvey and Ben Freer.

George Hooker's three-hit pitching enabled Central Lunch to trounce Jesse's Tavern, 11 to 3. The Lunchmen scored 10 runs in the third.

The winners collected 14 hits off Charlie Dasher, including a home run by Bill Kitsos. Ronnie Scheffel went "3 for 4" and Morrissey came up with two hits. Scheffel cracked a triple but failed to touch first.

Draws Dr. Fred Holcomb As First Round Foe

Firing rounds of 36 and 35, defending champion Bill Van Aken won the qualifying medals honors for the 1951 Wiltwyck Golf Club championship with a 71.

The qualification round was restricted to the sixteen lowest handicap golfers, who played a qualifying round for position.

Leon Randall and Maurice Davenport, two former club champions, and strong threats to Van Aken's domination of the uptown links, carded 78 and 75, respectively.

Dr. George Rifenbary and J. Watson Bailey each had 77s and all other qualifiers were in the 80s.

Meets Holcomb

Van Aken drew Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., as his first round opponent. In their last meeting, Van Aken set a new amateur course record for Wiltwyck with a 67. This mark was later tied by Leon Randall in open competition.

Randall takes on rugged Bob Daley in his opening match. Bailey is paired against District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and Maurice Davenport goes against Bill Costello.

A record breaking field of 96, six full flights, will compete in this year's tournament at the Hurley avenue links.

Members who indicated a desire to play were alloted positions in flights according to their handicaps. Only the championship flight—based on the 16 lowest handicaps — played a qualifying round.

Hogan Hints Scandal At Another College

Merely Describes It as 'Near Eastern'

Peoria, Ill., July 25 (AP)—The college basketball betting scandal that has smeared New York and this cage-proud town today was expected to spread to a near eastern school.

Even as authorities sought to swell the list of five Bradley University bribe-accepting players in $5,500 payoff it was reported that New York District Attorney Frank Hogan was prepared to drag a school between here and New York into the mushrooming cage scandal.

Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant New York district attorney, disclosed that the vicious activities of gamblers had touched another unsuspected hinterland school.

O'Connor, who has been assisting in unearthing the surprising bribery at Bradley, one of the nation's top cage schools the past two years, declined to reveal the next school under suspicion.

"Just let us say that our investigation of the New York scandal led one team of investigators to this public eye within a day or two."

Meanwhile, five members of Bradley University basketball team were in technical custody for accepting bribes from gamblers.

They were All-American Gene Melchiorre, 23; William Mann, 24; Aaron Preece, 24; Charles (Bud) Grover, 22; and Jim Kelley, 21, who still has another year of competition at Bradley. The other four are out of school.

O'Connor said that two more Bradley players remain to be questioned, but it was believed neither was seriously implicated in the Bradley "fixers" which involved Bradley's 67-59 win over Washington State College, and Bradley's 77-74 triumph over Oregon State last Dec. 7. The "fix" was on a point-spread basis.

At New York, it was announced Nicholas (The Greek) Englisis, and his brother, Anthony, both of Brooklyn were under arrest for conspiring to fix two Bradley games. One involved a Bradley vs. Bowling Green (Ohio) game at Madison Square Garden in New York in the 1948-49 season, and a Bradley vs. St. Joseph game at Philadelphia in 1950. Neither game was under fire in the investigation here.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan who announced in New York the arrest of the two Englisis brothers, also said an alarm was put out for a third man. He was identified by police as Jack West, alias "Zip," 39.

Hogan's office said West was wanted on charges of bribery in connection with the case.

In connection with the Bradley-St. Joseph game, Coach Fordy Anderson of Bradley said that contest was the only one that might have aroused suspicion in his mind about his team being off the beam.

"I had a call from a Philadelphia newspaperman saying that something might be wrong in our game with St. Joseph," Anderson recalled.

"St. Joseph ran up a 21-3 score and I ordered a time-out. I talked to the players and asked if any had a phone call, or if anything was fishy. The kids seemed serious enough about the game, and we won 64-60. I didn't hear anything more about the game, so I forgot about it."

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Seventeen years ago, Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown, tried out a six-inch putting cup after watching the top pros play the National Open where they acted like superstitious surveyors while putting for the regulation 4¼-inch hole:

Gene tried the idea at the old Miami-Biltmore course in Florida but the results caused him to crack: "Why put your neck out for a losing cause?" His plea for a larger cup fell on deaf ears.

So will the idea as revived by pro Ben Roman and golf chairman, John B. Lanigan of the Ardsley Country Club. We don't know how much time Sarazen spent on the idea, but we do know Roman and Lanigan were really enthused when they started out to set up a golf week. When it was all over, they were just as enthused. Their tabulating efforts showed that it takes less time to play the larger cups, about 35 minutes less a round for a foursome.

A six-inch cup could be a boon to golf. The idea might catch on some day with the public courses in the large cities. Did you ever try to play a public course on a Saturday or Sunday? In order to tee off before 9 a. m., you've got to report to the caddie master around 6 in the morning. A six-inch cup would enable more people to play the public course, the best place for a beginner to begin. It would lower strokes between 3 and 3½ per round.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Sarazen, one of the fastest players in big-time history, always frowned on dilatory tactics of the American hotshots on the greens. Crisp and concise, he seldom tarried on the greens.

"You don't have to be a surveyor or actor to be a good putter," the Squire says. "The average player can line up a putt quickly by approaching the ball from behind. By the time he arrives at the ball, he should have a pretty fair idea of how to stroke it."

In connection with putting surveyors, it will be interesting to note the reaction of the Ulster county amateur stars who will compete in the Father Herdegen Memorial.

The British system of putting will be used. It is designed to speed up play by eliminating the senseless waste of time consumed in marking balls on the greens.

As the British play it, the ball nearest the cup is putted first; then the next closest and so on. The player putts all the way out. There is no marking of balls on the greens, no trampling. The golfer who putts out near the cup must exercise common sense decency however, to stride between the line of the oncoming putts.

• The Nineteenth Hole . . . Literally:

Smart public relations directors for Canadian distilleries realize the natural association of their product with golf and do not hesitate to sponsor outstanding tournaments. The Seagrams people, for instance, increased the Canadian Open prize from $10,000 to $15,000.

American liquor business association with the underworld's scummiest bums has been the frequent unsavory revelation of the Kefauver investigation. In view of the traditional popularity of decent drinking in golf, the golf club members and managers wonder why reputable elements in liquor business are backward about identifying themselves with respectability.

Profits on the golfers' thirsts, as well as wisdom of being more favorably known by the company they keep, recommends that clean liquor companies give attention to their golf business where club membership committees select "the gentlemen of distinction."

In view of the Kefauver and Cairo disclosures, U. S. golf organizations now would have to shy away from liquor company championship sponsorship such as is okay in Canada.

The Metropolitan Open will be staged at the Forest Hill Field Club in Bloomfield, N. J., on Sept. 18-20.. Bobby Locke's recent Australian tour with 61 exhibitions drew more than 35,000. Locke was under 70 score 26 times. Pete Cooper, who played the third round of the Empire State Open with Lloyd Mangrum and Alex Gerlak last summer, is pro at the Century Club in New York. Chick Harbert, the long driving Detroit pro, powered a ball 358 yards in the 1950 PGA driving championships. Harbert is renowned as the longest hitter among the big time pros, but for keeping the ball straight for distance Sam Snead still has no equal.

Danny The Duffer—I had a 41 with an eight on five.

The Scoreboard

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, so-so performers on the road, once again are strutting like peacocks before the home folks.

Both the Yanks and Red Sox, virtually tied for the lead, emerged with flying colors in the first brush with the contending Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox in the nip and tuck American League pennant race yesterday.

The Yanks, topping the Red Sox by three percentage points, opened a 19-game home stand by turning back the Indians, 3-2. The loss dumped the Indians out of a second place tie with the Red Sox into third place, one game behind the Yanks.

Boston launched a 21-game home stand by thrashing the slipping Chicago White Sox, 8-3. The defeat dropped the fourth place White Sox 3½ games back of New York.

In the remaining American League game the Detroit Tigers nicked the Washington Senators, 2-1.

Dodgers Hold Lead

Brooklyn, meanwhile, stayed 8½ games in front in the National League. The Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, in ten innings. The runner-up New York Giants edged the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, in ten innings while the Boston Braves downed the Cincinnati Reds, 6-1, and the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Philadelphia Phils, 9-5.

That old Yankee formula, airtight pitching and clutch hitting, brought the Bombers their fifth straight victory and their 28th in 37 games at the Stadium. The victory also was the Yanks' 12th straight over the Indians in New York.

Vic Raschi pitched a eight-hitter to post his 14th victory for the Yanks. Gene Woodling and Johnny Mize smashed home runs off Early Wynn to account for all of the Yanks' scoring.

Raschi, who got better as he went along, fanned 10 including Larry Doby and Luke Easter in the ninth to end the game with the tying and winnnig runs on base.

Leo Kiely, rookie lefthander up from Louisville, restricted the sagging White Sox to four hits as he turned in his second victory without a loss for the Red Sox. Kiely blanked Chicago until the eighth inning when Don Lenhardt followed two walks with his tenth home run of the season.

Stuart's Shutout

Marlin Stuart turned in his second straight six-hit victory as the Tigers nipped the Senators. Stuart lost his shutout when Clyde Kluttz singled home Sam Mele from second base with two out in the ninth.

Roy Campanella highlighted the Dodgers' victory over the Cubs. Campy socked a three-run homer to feature a four-run tenth inning rally. The blow was his 16th and came off Paul Minner. Gil Hodges sent the game into overtime for the Dodgers with his 29th homer in the eighth.

Sal Maglie became the National's first 14-game winner as the Giants beat the Pirates. Willie Mays singled home Al Dark from second with the deciding run in the tenth.

The third place St. Louis Cardinals, led by Stan Musial and Wally Westlake, pounded out 14 hits in beating the Phils. Musial drove in two runs on a homer, triple and a double. Westlake batted in three on a three-bagger and two singles.

Lefty Warren Spahn posted his 11th victory as the Braves broke up a close game at Cincinnati with a four run rally in the seventh. The big seventh broke a 1-1 tie and Walker Cooper added an insurance run with his 11th homer in the eighth.

Berlin — All-victorious touring American track and field team won fourth straight meet against German athletes, taking six of 10 events.

Runnersup Boost Own Skein to Five

Two winning streaks collided in the City Baseball League yesterday. The course of natural events dictated that one would be fractured; another would continue.

Chez Emile, a stout contender for the twilight contender, kept rolling with a decisive 7 to 3 victory over Jones Dairy. It was the Dairymen's first setback after five straight wins.

The Chezzie triumph was the fifth in a row for the second place tossers who are just a half game off the pace.

Joneses collected 11 hits off veteran Bud Swarthout but failed to come up with the big basehit in the clutch. The winners had nine blows off Tommy Fisher and five stolen bases at the expense of Hugo Knauert's ailing wing didn't hurt their cause.

This evening's contest sends Wiltwyck Motors, riding on a six-game winning streak, against Boulevard Gulf, with Gus McCormick opposing Bullet Bill Tierney.

Six different players came up with a brace of safeties, but the only extra base socks were doubles by Bud Scheffel, Sonny Barnes and Sal Misasi. Joe Benjamin, the Chez Emile catcher, knocked in a trio of tallies with two singles.

Messinger's Memos:

Tommy Maines and Sal Misasi made fine running catches in the outfield, while Sonny Barnes made a sparkling stop on Maines' hard smash in the sixth, holding Tom to a single on what would have been an easy double had it gotten by him. Joe Norton, the Chez Emile centerfielder, received a well-deserved hand from the fans for his great throw home to double Misasi in the sixth. It was one of the finest plays of the season and a key putout that broke the back of a big Jones threat . . .

Jack Schatzel and Ronnie Scheffel were both hit in the face by batted balls but neither was hurt seriously. "Daisy" was struck while pitching batting practice and Ronnie was the victim of a bad hop single by Carlino in the seventh. With Chez Emile runners running wild on the basepaths because of Knauert's sore arm, Tommy Fisher spent practically the whole game pitching from the stretch position. The race is narrowing down to a two-team struggle between Wiltwyck Motors and Chez Emile, with Boulevard Gulf conceded an outside chance of pulling up with the leaders. Most of the remaining games have an important bearing on the championship.

Southampton, N. Y.—National champion Art Larsen paced six of eight seeded players through first two rounds of Meadow Club tournament. Defending champion Earle Cochell and sixth seeded Sidney Schwartz lost.

Peoria, Ill.—Basketball scandal spread to mid-west as four Bradley University players, included All-America Gene Melchiorre, confessed taking bribes to control point spread.

GIANT AND MIDGET—Frankie Saluto, midget clown with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus, looks even smaller when he gets up against the world's largest incandescent light bulb, a 50,000-watt giant that produces as much light as one thousand 100-watt household lamps. Built by GE as a stunt in 1929, for "Light's Golden Jubilee," no practical use was found for the bulb until it was used recently in the filming of a circus movie under the big top.

SHOKAN

Shokan, July 25 — The Olive Fire Department is distributing cards bearing information on how to report a fire in the district. The Shokan dial number of Albert Fox, 2583, is listed first. The other three phone numbers are 2742, 2331 and 2587. The department which serves the entire town together with The Vly and a part of Atwood in Marbletown, already enjoys an enviable reputation for its prompt, efficient work in emergencies.

Mrs. Franklyn Hyatt the former Catherine Every of Shokan, and son, David of New Jersey were visitors last week at the home of Mrs. Hyatt's sister, Mrs. Fred Adsit.

Through trucking to and from New York's southern tier is increasing over the Onteora Trail according to one observer, who has noted carriers from Jamestown and other points west of Binghamton. There is also considerable Jersey traffic reaching the trail by way of Stone Ridge and the Ashokan Reservoir center.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lorenz have returned to New York following a nine-days vacation at the Gebelein tourist home.

Henry J. Latham, designated by the Republicans to run for New York city council president, the city's second highest office, is an occasional summer visitor to Shokan.

The Ridge road, one of Olive's oldest highways, has been graded and widened with special work done at its junction with Route 28.

Mrs. Albert R. Pernice and children, Joanne and Robert, have returned to their home in Hamden, Conn., after spending two weeks with Mrs. Pernice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elson S. Oakley. Capt. A. R. Pernice, 76th Infantry Division, Organized Reserve Corps of Connecticut, has completed a 15-day training period at Pine Camp.

A wedding anniversary falling on July 26 is that of William and Alice (Green) Stevens of Ashokan who were married in Brooklyn in 1926. The couple, who came here in 1947, have three children, Alice, Peggy and Jane.

One local farmer reports his wild blackberry crop the heaviest in years, a condition which he attributes to the frequent showers of the past two months.

The highest point in New Jersey is Kittatinny, 1,805 feet in altitude. It is located near the Delaware water gap.

Firemen Study Resolutions at Today's Session

The 13th annual convention of the New York State Fire Fighters Association convened again this morning shortly after 10 o'clock when the matter of adoption of resolutions was to be taken up. It is understood that there will be eighteen resolutions offered. Today's session is the final one for the delegates.

Tuesday evening, following a business session earlier in the day, the annual banquet was held at the Crystal Room in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Guest speaker at the banquet was Assemblyman Joseph T. Carlino of Long Beach who spoke on legislation in Albany and its relation to the firemen. He commended the officers of the association on their splendid relationship with legislators in both houses and spoke of the splendid manner in which the fire fighters of the state had brought their problems to the people of the state by referendum.

Assemblyman Carlino spoke on procedure of action in the legislature and how the legislature and the fire fighters had worked together in harmony. He said their relations had always been good in submission of bills and he said he hoped in the future more legislation of benefit to the firemen would be passed. He referred to matters which had been approved by the legislature but had not been approved by the governor and he said he hoped that in the future these problems could be worked out and a more complete program of benefits to the firemen would result.

Among the matters which he said were of paramount interest to firemen was the "heart ailment" bill which he had presented five times and which had passed both of the state houses but had been vetoed by the governor. He said he would re-submit this bill. This refers to men who come on the job in good physical condition but who develop heart ailments. Under the bill such men would be able to receive a disability pension.

Redmond Speaks

One of the most inspiring talks of the entire session was that of International President John P. Redmond, who covered world conditions and made the startling statement that only last week he had met in Washington with five senators who had disclosed to him that they expect an attack upon the United States within the next five years.

Redmond said it was high time the people of the country woke up to this fact and realized that we are "playing for keeps" and were not just fooling. He urged that Civil Defense be built up and pointed out that the firemen of the country were actually the "first line of defense" in case of an atomic attack.

Emergency 'Serious'

It was the seriousness of the situation which had caused President Truman to appoint International Secretary George Richardson on a committee to plan and organize the country against such an attack. People of the country do not realize the seriousness of the A-bomb attack possibility. He said the stock of A-bombs was increasing steadily and the emergency was becoming serious.

President Redmond spoke of the importance of the fire departments in the national defense set-up and said their duty in the event of an attack was of the greatest importance.

The talk of President Redmond and his startling disclosures brought to the delegates in a most impressive way, the importance of the fireman's job and its close relationship to our national defense and survival of the country.

Guests at Banquet

Among the guests at the banquet were Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Fire Commissioners Frank E. Burr and Charles Derrenbacher and their wives; Peter Keresman, secretary of the P.B.A., Earl Schoonmaker of the K.P.A., and Mrs. Schoonmaker; Francis Martocci, of Local No. 461, Kingston Uniformed Firemen's Association; the Rev. and Mrs. Frank L. Gollnick and Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly.

The invocation was by Msgr. Connelly and the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Gollnick. Both Msgr. Connelly and the Rev. Mr. Gollnick were appointed chaplains of the State Association last evening by President William Cross of the New York State Fire Fighters Association.

Crane Suspension

jury investigating the firemen's association, of which he was head.

On March 22, the day following Crane's testimony before the Senate committee, the Associated Press reported from Washington that John P. Redmond, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, demanded the resignation of Crane as a vice president of the International, giving him until noon the following day to resign. Subsequently, Crane was suspended from his International office.

Both Are Present

Both Crane and Redmond were present at Tuesday's meeting in Kingston and participated in the session. Also present was George Richardson, from Washington, D. C., International secretary-treasurer.

Crane and the International officers were afforded opportunities of speaking during the meeting, and that accounted for much of its stormy quality. The five-hour-long meeting was punctuated with frequent angry outbursts, occasional applause and repeated loud raps of the gavel which could be heard in the hotel lobby.

Will Adjust Matters

Although the meeting was tumultuous, it ended with a feeling expressed by both sides that the matters will be adjusted without a serious split developing between the State Association and the International.

Reid, speaking for the State Association, said, "we feel both matters can be straightened out." The matters he referred to were the Crane suspension and the alleged "lack of support" given the state group by the International.

He revealed that a meeting was scheduled later during the convention of the state executive board, at which the two International officers would be invited to sit in.

Redmond, the International president, told reporters following the Tuesday session that he had no comment other than to state that "it all will adjust itself to the satisfaction of the New York State Association."

William N. Cross of Utica, state president, likewise had no comment, but referred reporters to Vice President Reid as the official spokesman.

Mushanno Upsets Democrat Machine In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, July 25 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling was chosen Republican candidate for mayor of Philadelphia today, but his easy victory was less of a surprise in the Pennsylvania primary than the nomination by Democrats of Michael A. Mushanno for the state Supreme Court.

Fighting a lone-wolf battle against the Democratic organization, the 55-year-old Mushanno, judge at the war crimes trial at Nuernberg, upset Justice Grover C. Ladner, 65, who had the backing of nearly all the state's Democratic leaders.

Mushanno, a Pittsburgh judge, had also achieved national prominence by his efforts to jail western Pennsylvania Communists.

Ladner, however, said he would have "no comment until all the returns are in."

The result of the Supreme Court contest, in which nomination meant election, drew attention from the GOP mayoralty contest in Philadelphia, which had been billed as the key contest in Tuesday's primary.

Dr. Poling, 66-year-old Baptist minister and onetime head of the Christian Endeavor movement in the United States, scored a lopsided victory over Walter P. Miller, 49, paper box manufacturer, in the Republican mayoralty contest.

Redmond Offers

bers of Local No. 94, New York, the members had voted not to request the reinstatement of John P. Crane as vice president of the International.

The delegates were advised that Crane had been advised first on March 23, that his suspension was based on his testimony before the Kefauver committee on March 21, 1951. On July 5, 1951, he was advised of the specific charges and requested to appear before the executive committee on July 19, 1951, if he cared to defend the charges.

Did Not Appear

He did not appear before the executive committee with the result the office was declared vacant. The executive committee instructed the locals in the district to be notified accordingly.

Both President Redmond and Secretary Richardson denied they had any knowledge of any political or other contributions Crane ever made.

In a conference between the executive committee and the New York State Fire Fighters and President Redmond and Secretary Richardson on the wording of the motion made at the convention, neither group would agree to what the wording of the motion was as passed by the convention.

Reds Offer . . .

Both Nam and Joy appeared in good spirits as they left the meeting hall. Each smiled as he posed for UN cameramen.

The UN communique said Nam asked Joy, at the start of Wednesday's session, to clarify the allied view on the Communists' proposed agenda. The Red general said he wanted to be sure there was no misunderstanding of remarks the American admiral had made last Saturday at the eighth session.

At that time Joy made it clear the UN would not consider listing the question of troop withdrawals from Korea as a subject for truce talks.

Rain Delays May Hold Up Opening Of Rail Crossing

Recent rains and other factors have delayed the work schedule at the Broadway crossing, it was learned today but men in charge were unable to say at this time to what extent.

The recently placed steel girders and deck pieces are being riveted and work preliminary to paving the east side of the underpass is in progress.

A foundation course of gravel has been laid over part of the east section where the roadway will be built, catch basins are being installed and the city is extending a storm water sewer line over the new street on the site of the old trolley tunnel, over Dederick street to Broadway.

A concrete floor is to be laid over the deck steel on the railroad bridge before the railroad tracks are laid there. When this work is done digging can be resumed on the west side of the crossing. A bridge which will join Greenkill and Railroad avenues will also be built on that side of the crossing.

It was planned earlier in the summer to open the street to traffic early in September, but the recent delays may make that impossible.

Weather Hot, Humid

Chicago, July 25 (AP)—Another hot and humid day appeared in prospect for wide areas of the country today. Temperatures in the high 80's and 90's were general in all parts of the nation yesterday and not much change was expected today. The coolest spot was the New England region. The mercury climbed to 100 and higher in parts of the Dakotas yesterday. Top mark, however, was 111 at Yuma, Ariz. There were a few wet spots today. Thundershowers were reported in parts of the southeastern states, the southwest, western Montana, northern Minnesota and the Lake Superior region. Nearly two inches of rain fell in McKellar Field, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark.

He commended the officers of the association on their splendid relationship with legislators in both houses and spoke of the splendid manner in which the fire fighters of the state had brought their problems to the people of the state by referendum.

Assemblyman Carlino spoke on procedure of action in the legislature and how the legislature and the fire fighters had worked together in harmony. He said their relations had always been good in submission of bills and he said he hoped in the future more legislation of benefit to the firemen would be passed. He referred to matters which had been approved by the legislature but had not been approved by the governor and he said he hoped that in the future these problems could be worked out and a more complete program of benefits to the firemen would result.

Among the matters which he said were of paramount interest to firemen was the "heart ailment" bill which he had presented five times and which had passed both of the state houses but had been vetoed by the governor. He said he would re-submit this bill. This refers to men who come on the job in good physical condition but who develop heart ailments. Under the bill such men would be able to receive a disability pension.

Redmond Speaks

One of the most inspiring talks of the entire session was that of International President John P. Redmond, who covered world conditions and made the startling statement that only last week he had met in Washington with five senators who had disclosed to him that they expect an attack upon the United States within the next five years.

Redmond said it was high time the people of the country woke up to this fact and realized that we are "playing for keeps" and were not just fooling. He urged that Civil Defense be built up and pointed out that the firemen of the country were actually the "first line of defense" in case of an atomic attack.

Emergency 'Serious'

It was the seriousness of the situation which had caused President Truman to appoint International Secretary George Richardson on a committee to plan and organize the country against such an attack. People of the country do not realize the seriousness of the A-bomb attack possibility. He said the stock of A-bombs was increasing steadily and the emergency was becoming serious.

President Redmond spoke of the importance of the fire departments in the national defense set-up and said their duty in the event of an attack was of the greatest importance.

The talk of President Redmond and his startling disclosures brought to the delegates in a most impressive way, the importance of the fireman's job and its close relationship to our national defense and survival of the country.

Guests at Banquet

Among the guests at the banquet were Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Fire Commissioners Frank E. Burr and Charles Derrenbacher and their wives; Peter Keresman, secretary of the P.B.A., Earl Schoonmaker of the K.P.A., and Mrs. Schoonmaker; Francis Martocci, of Local No. 461, Kingston Uniformed Firemen's Association; the Rev. and Mrs. Frank L. Gollnick and Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly.

The invocation was by Msgr. Connelly and the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Gollnick. Both Msgr. Connelly and the Rev. Mr. Gollnick were appointed chaplains of the State Association last evening by President William Cross of the New York State Fire Fighters Association.

Crane Suspension

jury investigating the firemen's association, of which he was head.

On March 22, the day following Crane's testimony before the Senate committee, the Associated Press reported from Washington that John P. Redmond, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, demanded the resignation of Crane as a vice president of the International, giving him until noon the following day to resign. Subsequently, Crane was suspended from his International office.

Both Are Present

Both Crane and Redmond were present at Tuesday's meeting in Kingston and participated in the session. Also present was George Richardson, from Washington, D. C., International secretary-treasurer.

Crane and the International officers were afforded opportunities of speaking during the meeting, and that accounted for much of its stormy quality. The five-hour-long meeting was punctuated with frequent angry outbursts, occasional applause and repeated loud raps of the gavel which could be heard in the hotel lobby.

Will Adjust Matters

Although the meeting was tumultuous, it ended with a feeling expressed by both sides that the matters will be adjusted without a serious split developing between the State Association and the International.

Reid, speaking for the State Association, said, "we feel both matters can be straightened out." The matters he referred to were the Crane suspension and the alleged "lack of support" given the state group by the International.

He revealed that a meeting was scheduled later during the convention of the state executive board, at which the two International officers would be invited to sit in.

Redmond, the International president, told reporters following the Tuesday session that he had no comment other than to state that "it all will adjust itself to the satisfaction of the New York State Association."

William N. Cross of Utica, state president, likewise had no comment, but referred reporters to Vice President Reid as the official spokesman.

Mushanno Upsets Democrat Machine In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, July 25 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling was chosen Republican candidate for mayor of Philadelphia today, but his easy victory was less of a surprise in the Pennsylvania primary than the nomination by Democrats of Michael A. Mushanno for the state Supreme Court.

Fighting a lone-wolf battle against the Democratic organization, the 55-year-old Mushanno, judge at the war crimes trial at Nuernberg, upset Justice Grover C. Ladner, 65, who had the backing of nearly all the state's Democratic leaders.

Mushanno, a Pittsburgh judge, had also achieved national prominence by his efforts to jail western Pennsylvania Communists.

Ladner, however, said he would have "no comment until all the returns are in."

The result of the Supreme Court contest, in which nomination meant election, drew attention from the GOP mayoralty contest in Philadelphia, which had been billed as the key contest in Tuesday's primary.

Dr. Poling, 66-year-old Baptist minister and onetime head of the Christian Endeavor movement in the United States, scored a lopsided victory over Walter P. Miller, 49, paper box manufacturer, in the Republican mayoralty contest.

Redmond Offers

bers of Local No. 94, New York, the members had voted not to request the reinstatement of John P. Crane as vice president of the International.

The delegates were advised that Crane had been advised first on March 23, that his suspension was based on his testimony before the Kefauver committee on March 21, 1951. On July 5, 1951, he was advised of the specific charges and requested to appear before the executive committee on July 19, 1951, if he cared to defend the charges.

Did Not Appear

He did not appear before the executive committee with the result the office was declared vacant. The executive committee instructed the locals in the district to be notified accordingly.

Both President Redmond and Secretary Richardson denied they had any knowledge of any political or other contributions Crane ever made.

In a conference between the executive committee and the New York State Fire Fighters and President Redmond and Secretary Richardson on the wording of the motion made at the convention, neither group would agree to what the wording of the motion was as passed by the convention.

Reds Offer . . .

team proposed the continuation until Thursday.

Both Nam and Joy appeared in good spirits as they left the meeting hall. Each smiled as he posed for UN cameramen.

The UN communique said Nam asked Joy, at the start of Wednesday's session, to clarify the allied view on the Communists' proposed agenda. The Red general said he wanted to be sure there was no misunderstanding of remarks the American admiral had made last Saturday at the eighth session.

At that time Joy made it clear the UN would not consider listing the question of troop withdrawals from Korea as a subject for truce talks.

Rain Delays May Hold Up Opening Of Rail Crossing

Recent rains and other factors have delayed the work schedule at the Broadway crossing, it was learned today but men in charge were unable to say at this time to what extent.

The recently placed steel girders and deck pieces are being riveted and work preliminary to paving the east side of the underpass is in progress.

A foundation course of gravel has been laid over part of the east section where the roadway will be built, catch basins are being installed and the city is extending a storm water sewer line over the new street on the site of the old trolley tunnel, over Dederick street to Broadway.

A concrete floor is to be laid over the deck steel on the railroad bridge before the railroad tracks are laid there. When this work is done digging can be resumed on the west side of the crossing. A bridge which will join Greenkill and Railroad avenues will also be built on that side of the crossing.

It was planned earlier in the summer to open the street to traffic early in September, but the recent delays may make that impossible.

Weather Hot, Humid

Chicago, July 25 (AP)—Another hot and humid day appeared in prospect for wide areas of the country today. Temperatures in the high 80's and 90's were general in all parts of the nation yesterday and not much change was expected today. The coolest spot was the New England region. The mercury climbed to 100 and higher in parts of the Dakotas yesterday. Top mark, however, was 111 at Yuma, Ariz. There were a few wet spots today. Thundershowers were reported in parts of the southeastern states, the southwest, western Montana, northern Minnesota and the Lake Superior region. Nearly two inches of rain fell in McKellar Field, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark.
